Marin Demos Complain On Tardy Ballots

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin Democrats were in an uproar today over late mailing of Democratic ballots. Some Democrats said they had not received their sample ballots as of this morning, whereas all Republicans had theirs last week.

County Clerk George H. Gnoss announced that a series of unforeseen setbacks caused the delay, but the last of the ballots were sent to the post office Friday. He acknowledged that the ballots are always sent third class, and some post office officials told him that first and second class mail get preference.

Donald W. Baird, superintendent of mails at the San Rafael Post Office, acknowledged that the county clerk had delivered all sample ballots by Friday evening. Baird said the post office had a big backlog of third class mail because of the last minute flood of circulars and letters by individual candidates.

"By law, however, the county clerk has up to May 28 to mail out the sample ballots, and we got all of ours out last Friday," said Gnoss.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney backed up the county clerk. He said he sees no legal defect in the mailing of the sample ballots, even though Republicans may have received theirs a week earlier than some Democrats.

"If a reasonable effort is made, the law gives considerable latitude even if a possible or imagined advantage was gained by one group or another."

Delays started when the printing company in San Francisco had to hold up the printing because of litigation over allowing a State Board of Equalization candidate's name on the ballot, Gnoss explained. Then came the Teamsters strike, and the printed ballots lay idle at the printing company. "The salemen had to deliver them in their own cars and some of them came over as late as 9:30 at night," said Gnoss.

Added to these delays was the fact that the San Rafael area had as many as 13 separate sheets to be stuffed into envelopes, which meant they had to be hand-stuffed because machines can handle only eight items. The county clerk had 30 extra girls working day and night last week to get the last of the Democratic sample ballots to the post office on Friday.

Mailed with the sample ballots were notices for application for absentee ballots. Deadline for absentee application was today.

Some Democrats complained they got the notice too late to apply for absentee ballots, and therefore the Democrats are placed at a disadvantage.

The county clerk explained that the absentee ballot application period was from May 4 through 26, and this was publicized previously. "We just put the added notice in with the sample ballot as a courtesy and a convenience."

Gnoss said the total application for absentee ballots is running about normal, and should total about 3,000 or 3,500.

Suharto Arrives For Asian Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today warmly welcomed President Suharto of Indonesia and lauded the part he and his country are playing to achieve peace in Asia and the Pacific.

At a military flavored arrival ceremony on the south lawn of the White House, the President told Suharto the recent conference of foreign ministers in Jakarta is a "splendid example of Asian nations seeking solutions to Asian problems."

Nixon noted that there are differences in policies, races and religions in Indonesia as well as this country.

"We realize we cannot find the answers to all the differences," he said, "but we can be unified in the right of all people to be free, to be independent and to live in peace."

Suharto, the leader of 120 million Indonesians, was greeted by Nixon as the head of the third most populous of all nations in the free world. He said Suharto's leadership had brought progress with benefits that go to all of the people.

Suharto and his party, including Foreign Minister Adam Malik, began White House talks after the ceremonial 21-gun salute.

Suharto said his visit had come at a time when the need for realistic efforts in the interests of peace and stability in Southeast Asia has become ever more pressing.

Suharato expressed hope his visit "may also serve to contribute useful ideas."

"A profound study of each other's problems in order to arrive at a common understanding, based on our respective principles is most essential for the strengthening of a more concrete and meaningful friendship," he told Nixon.

Suharto said he was also aware of the big problems the American people are facing and the process of "reordering of national priorities through which you are going. As a friend, we understand the difficulties you are facing and appreciate your efforts to overcome them."

This was a reference to the inflation which Indonesia and the United States both have faced. Indonesia's inflation has slowed down from more than 80 per cent in 1968 to about 10 per cent last year.

Suharto planned to relay to Nixon later a plea by 11 Asian and Pacific nations that all foreign troops withdraw from Cambodian soil.

The withdrawal plea was issued following a May 16 conference in Djakarta. It received only lukewarm support from the United States and was attacked by North Vietnam, Communist China and the Soviet Union.

The plea was coupled with a recommendation that the defunct International Control Commission be revived to suppor Cambodia's shaky neutrality. The 11 nations also asked for the United Nations' support.

Former U.N. Envoy Hits Asian Buildup

Links Involvement To Soviet's Mideast Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George W. Ball said today increased U.S. "entanglement in the gluepot of Southeast Asia" had encouraged Russia to build up its strength and influence in the Middle East.

Ball, former No. 2 State Department official and later U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, testified at a House hearing as the Senate continued to debate legislation to limit U.S. action in Cambodia.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told reporters he was "alarmed, distressed and disturbed" by a statement by Cambodia's foreign minister that he would ask that U. S. troops be kept in Cambodia after June 30.

The White House said Monday the June 30 withdrawal plan still stood. President Nixon said on May 8 the "great majority" of Americans would be out by mid-June. The State Department called attention to that statement today when asked about a New York Times report that the withdrawal would be completed prior to June 30.

In Chicago, HUD Secretary George Romney said Nixon's Vietnamization program "most likely would have gone down the drain" without the Cambodian operation. Appearing at a Presbyterian church convention to defend administration policy, Romney said:

"There isn't any question but that the Cambodian action has set back the North Vietnamese more than any other action of this tragic conflict," Romney said.

He said it was a "tragic mistake" for the United States to have become so involved originally in Vietnam but that Nixon is trying to get the war "de-Americanized."

Testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Ball said the Cambodian operation would have "grave consequences."

He said it would slow withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam, but possibly even more important was the effect on the Middle East.

"We are encouraging the Soviet buildup of strength and influence in the Middle East," Ball said. "How can anyone doubt that Soviet leadership is so consciously factoring into its calculations about the Middle East our increasing entanglement in the gluepot of Southeast Asia and the rising violence of a divided and angry America."

Ball said the Russians might be able to neutralize the Israeli air force through increased aid to Egypt. This, he said, could result in destruction of Israel.

That would "shift the balance of power catastrophically against the West" in the Middle East, Ball said.

Ball served as undersecretary of state in the Johnson administration prior to becoming U.N. ambassador. He resigned that post later.

The Senate, in its third week of debate on the Cambodian operation, arranged an inconclusive initial vote of a small language change in the preamble to the legislation.

WANTED: 500 SUMMER JOBS

Youth Employment Drive Opens

At least 500 summer jobs for youth need to be found in Marin County, W. Robert Lomax, Marin director of the Governor's 1970 Summer Job Campaign for Youth, said today.

Lomax, executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, met with the program's executive director, Richard H. Mallory and Marin program coordinator Collie Gaines to kick off the campaign at the EOC office in San Rafael today.

Mallory said the program is designed to eliminate duplication of effort in finding summer jobs for youth.

"We're trying our damnest in every area to get as many jobs as possible so that everyone who wants a job may have one," Mallory said.

In Marin, the program will be coordinated through the state Department of Human Resources Development.

Lomax said jobs will be solicited door-to-door by volunteers and jobs drummed up will be filed at the human resources office at 805 E Street, San Rafael. There, they will be matched with youths who apply for summer jobs.

About 350 young people filed for summer jobs with economic opportunity office last summer, according to Collie Gaines, summer youth coordinator. About 60 got jobs, she said.

Lomax said 12 youths — one for each city and one to cover the unincorporated areas — will be hired as chairmen of youth job subcommittees for each area: Together they will compose the county committee, he said.

Working under them will be solicitors, youth and service club members who will do the leg work, Lomax said.

He said 23 youth-oriented groups including the Neighborhood Youth Corps, the Marin Human Rights Commission, the YMCA, the Marin Youth Commission and the Economic Opportunity Youth Commission are involved.

Although door-to-door solicitation will be the major thrust of the program, the campaign will include television and radio pleas, appearances by sports personalities and spot radio announcements.

Lomax said the job seeking will be a little different in Marin than in other areas because his office has already set up three employment-oriented youth groups in Marin. Youngsters will carry most of the burden of finding themselves jobs, he said.

Mrs. Gaines said she feels they have a better idea of their needs than adult volunteers.

Lomax said the Golden Gate Bridge Authority, Hamilton Air Force Base and Mare Island Naval Shipyard in Vallejo have already pledged to hire young people for the summer.

Mallory said the program has the support of the Department of Defense, all state agencies, 108 youth groups in the state, the League of California Mayors, the County Board of Supervisors Association, the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Department of Human Resources Development and the California Chamber of Commerce.

Lomax said his office has pledged to employ 25 youths for the summer.

Bagley Held Ducking Discussion

A College of Marin teacher who accompanied 40 students to Sacramento yesterday said that Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, dodged the group all day and avoided discussion of a controversial anti-war bill.

Quinn Wilson, part-time political science instructor, was one of four faculty members who accompanied the political science students on the field trip.

Wilson said they wanted to discuss the Vasconcellos bill with Bagley.

The bill would ban California servicemen from serving in an undeclared war. Massachusetts recently passed a similar law, as yet untested by the courts.

Wilson reported the group saw Bagley in the halls of his office building several times, but he declined to discuss legislation in the halls and asked them to see him in his office.

In Bagley's office, Wilson reported, the group was told Bagley was out, although there were several newsmen there and other signs of activity. They were asked to return several times during the day, but never were able to see Bagley except as he went through the halls, Wilson said.

The group met with Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-Campbell, who said some legislators hope his controversial bill will die in committee but predicted it will get to the Assembly floor.

The bill is to go before the Ways and Means Committee, of which Bagley is a member, possibly this week.

Other faculty members on the trip were Samuel Schwartz, Joan Jencks and James Hobart. The group did meet with some other assemblymen and watched Assembly debate on an education bill.

Postal Reform, Pay Hike Voted, But Senators Kill 8-Cent Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Post Office Committee approved an 8 per cent postal pay raise today coupled with most of the reforms sought by President Nixon to modernize the U. S. mail service.

But the committee turned down the administration's request for increased postal rates to finance the pay increases. The House Post Office Committee also rejected the rate hikes in approving a similar bill.

Nixon sought an increase in the price of a first class stamp from 6 to 8 cents, with second class mail rates increased 48 per cent and third class boosted 33 per cent. But the provision was dropped today.

The Senate bill differs from the House committee version in that the latter would make the pay raise retroactive to April 18, while the Senate bill would make it effective when Nixon signed the measure.

The House measure also would grant Congress authority to veto postal rate increases while no such provision is in the Senate bill.

The bill approved by the Senate group would establish a nine-member board of governors appointed by the President to run the Post Office. A separate, independent five-member commission would set postal rates.

Under the measure Congress would have no control over rates, chairman Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said.

The postal governors would choose a postmaster general, who would serve until he resigned or was fired. The postmaster general would no longer be a Cabinet member. He and his top assistant would automatically be the 10th and 11th members of the board of governors.

The bill stipulates that the rate commission must raise enough money to finance 90 per cent of the total cost of postal operations —Nixon's goal was a pay-as-you-go post office but McGee insisted that a 10 per cent subsidy be continued.

THE NEXT LEADER? — Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., who is expected to become the next majority leader of the House strikes a pensive mood with the shadow of retiring House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., in the background. (AP Wirephoto)

AT 'CRISIS STAGE'

Albert Calls For Economic Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public stage has been set for Carl Bert Albert as speaker of the House and a chief Democratic spokesman.

Retiring Speaker John W. McCormack and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield stayed in the background Monday as Albert read the Democrat's call for a national conference on the economy.

It was Albert who took the lead in saying the economy is now at "the crisis stage." It was Albert who accused the Nixon administration of "slavish pursuit of archaic economic policies" which promote unemployment and a higher cost of living.

Mansfield and McCormack only added occasionally to Albert's answers to newsmen's questions.

Mansfield allowed as how "Mike and Carl" sessions with newsmen may become a regular feature between now and January. January is the time Albert—considered a shoo-in for the job—takes the speaker's chair, provided the Democrats have a House majority.

Albert, now House majority leader and No. 2 House Democrat, said the National Conference on Inflation and Unemployment he asked President Nixon to summon promptly "is of vital necessity" to find ways to reverse the spiraling economy.

He said the conference should consider all alternatives — including congressional enactment of standby authority for Nixon to impose wage and price controls, and federal hiring of the unemployed.

A House Democratic leader for 15 years, Albert has been routinely blasting the Republican administration's economic and other policies for months.

McCormack's announcement last week that he will not seek re-election cleared the way for Albert's elevation to speaker.

Nuclear Missiles Lowered Into North Dakota Silos

PARSHALL, N.D. (AP) — The latest addition to the nation's arsenal or nuclear missiles is being slipped into underground silos on the prairies of North Dakota.

Newsmen got a look at one installation of a Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missile Monday, although the rocket's multiple warhead was not in place as it was lowered from a special vehicle into its underground berth by Air Force crews.

The Air Force wasn't saying how many of the MIRV—for multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle—weapons have been placed in silos attached to Minot Air Force Base in northwest North Dakota.

But Monday's installation was the first one in which news media were notified.

The Pentagon said warheads for the missiles now being installed will be added next month.

The Minuteman III can be equipped either with the single nuclear warhead of the earlier Minuteman I and II or the MIRV, which contains mulitple warheads that can be delivered to several different targets.

The new missiles were estimated to cost $300 million with another $150 million spent on the modification of existing launch facilities and launch control centers and the installation of ground support equipment at the 150 silos throughout eight North Dakota counties.

Minot is the first base to have the MIRV system as part of a Minuteman III rocket.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Accounts Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation intended to make secret foreign bank accounts less attractive to criminals and tax dodgers is on the way to the Senate—with some paperwork provisions still in dispute.

Though the bill passed unanimously Monday, 302-0, the Nixon administration, with some congressional support, argues certain features would be too burdensome to U.S. banks and businessmen.

The disputed provisions would require banks to photocopy all checks of $500 or more, and detailed record keeping by any person or firm with foreign bank accounts.

But the House was more moved by arguments that quick action is needed to check the use of the foreign banks by persons hiding hot money, squirreling away "skim" profits from gambling casinos, dodging U.S. income tax or getting around the limits on securities by buying on margin.

Drop In Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interest rates on conventional home mortgages have dropped for the first time in a year and a half, but the government doesn't believe the one month reversal is enough to be called the start of a trend.

The average effective rate on mortgages in April dropped to 8.40 per cent from 8.47 in March. It was the first backslide for the indicator since November 1968 when rates fell to 7.21 per cent from 7.23 in October.

Chairman Preston Martin of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board called the April figure "highly encouraging," but warned it is too early to determine whether a turning point has been reached.

Negotiations Off

NEW YORK (UPI)—Negotiations in the newspaper industry here were canceled Monday while bargainers studied provisions of the tentative agreement between The New York Times and its printers.

The Times printers agreement was the first settlement among the four major dailies and 10 unions whose members have been working without a contract since March 30. The printers union negotiators accepted a Times offer of 41.69 per cent wage increases during the next three years, plus pension and welfare improvements worth $7.15 a week.

A Gloomy Graham

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he does not believe America has the moral strength to withstand another depression like that of the 1930s.

"I seriously doubt if the American people now have the moral strength to live through a depression like we experienced in the 1930s," Graham said.

The evangelist made his remarks Monday night to an estimated 52,000 persons attending the fourth service of his East Tennessee Crusade. A total of 2,023 persons made commitments to Christ.

Flooding Disaster

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

VIENNA (AP) — Gale Winds after torrential rains sent a second wave of floods across vast areas of Romania in the last two days, heightening the tragedy of death and destruction in the Balkian nation.

Agerpres, the Romanian news agency, said the death toll stood at 144 persons on Monday, with 44 missing. But unofficial estimates put the number of dead far heigher.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Jerome H. "Brud" Holland has described as "disgraceful" a weekend egg-throwing attack on him at Orebro in central Sweden.

Holland, a Negro, noted in a statement Monday that the Swedish government had apologized but said:

"This embassy expects that members of the staff, including the ambassador, should be able to carry out the responsibilities of their office without danger of physical harm."

Cheers Armstrong

MOSCOW (AP) — Neil Armstrong, the first man on the moon, has received a rousing reception from a mainly Russian crowd at the 13th conference of the International Committee on Space Research.

He was mobbed by the audience yesterday and besieged by autograph seekers before giving a half hour talk on his experience on the lunar surface.

Grant Agreement

SEOUL (AP) — The United States and South Korea signed their final grant-in-aid agreement today, signaling the end of a program that has given South Korea nearly $1.9 billion help since 1954.

The $10 million provided in today's agreement will finance foreign exchange costs of raw materials and equipment to be imported from the United States.

NATO Leaders Hear Nixon Defense Of Cambodia Act

His defense was made in a letter read at the opening session of a North Atlantic Council meeting by William P. Rogers, Secretary of State. It said nearly 7,900 of the enemy had been killed at a cost of 201 U.S. soldiers and 451 South Vietnamese.

The letter was addressed to Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—NATO.

"We still prefer to end this war by negotiation," Nixon wrote. "However, I am convinced we will not have serious discussions so long as the enemy believes that he can ignore our warnings and reject our flexible proposals for a settlement. We are not increasing our demands."

Nixon said the weapons captured in Cambodia, as of Monday, "would equip more than 30 battalions at a strength of 400 to 500 men."

He promised that U.S. operations in the area would be over by the end of June.

Rogers read the letter during a speech covering the situation in the Middle East, central Europe and the strategic missile talks with the Soviets, as well as the Indochina war.

On the Middle East, Rogers said the Soviet Union's increasing involvement has injected new instability and danger of war into the area.

In the light of this, he went on, the United States is reviewing all aspects of policy in the region. This review includes reconsideration of Israel's request for more warplanes to counter the presence of active Soviet military pilots and SAM3 missiles in Egypt.

Rogers recalled that the Nixon administration had deferred a final decision on Israel's request last March in the hope that this restraint would be matched by the Soviets.

Unfortunately, the secretary added, the hope has not been fulfliled.

Growing Soviet strength in the Mediterranean and potential discord within their alliance over Greece's military dictatorship worried the 15 foreign ministers of NATO as they began their annual spring meeting.

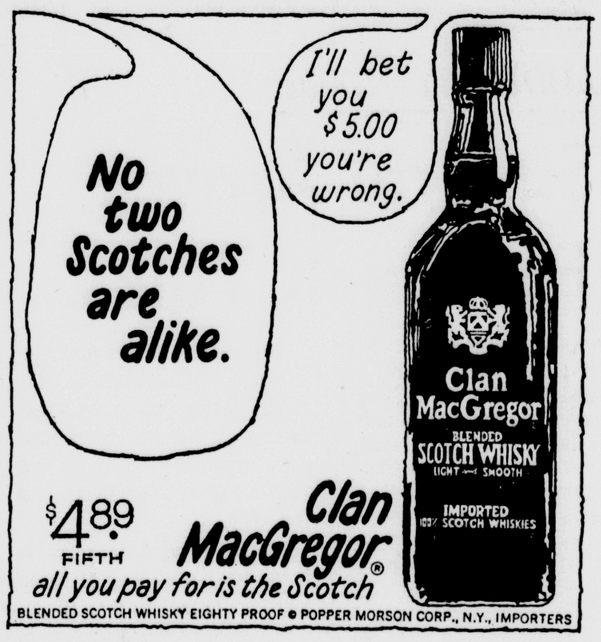

"There is no doubt," Italian Premier Mariano Rumor said in a speech of welcome, "that everything which has occurred since the outbreak of the Arab-Israeli conflict has helped the Soviet Union to assert its presence in the Mediterranean."

Rumor and other speakers at the formal opening session avoided direct reference to the disagreement about Greece.

Foreign Minister Poul Hartling of Denmark came to Rome with a resolution from his parliament urging him to work to stop arms deliveries to the Greek government, which is widely criticized among the allied nations as being oppressive and undemocratic.

U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and his aides were working to avert open criticism of the Athens regime at the meeting, fearing a Greek walkout from the alliance.

Emil Jonsson of Iceland, the president of the ministerial council, may have been trying to cool the Greek issue when he said: "The strength of our alliance has always been its unity and diversity and its ability to adapt to constantly changing conditions, both inside and outside the alliance."

Warner Ridge Housing Rejected

The Mill Valley Planning Commission last night turned down a proposal for a 128-unit housing development on Warner Ridge because of inadequate streets and sewers serving the proposed project.

A disappointed William E. Cullen, developer of the property, watched while commissioners ticked off points against his development, points which he had attempted to refute with an illustrated talk at the commission's last meeting.

They included the inadequacy of Mill Valley's sewage treatment plant, which now receives 1.5 million gallons of sewage daily while its capacity is 1.6 million gallons, and the inability of streets, particularly Upland Avenue, to handle traffic generated by the project.

The commission voted 5-to-2, with Richard J. Hiatt and Ivan S. Poutiatine dissenting, to deny Cullen a density of four dwelling units per acre where the city's master plan calls for a density of one.

"If you make me lower the density," Cullen said as the commissioners began voicing support for Paul E. Rosenthal's motion to deny the density increase, "you might as well forget the clustering." At the last meeting Cullen had emphasized that only through his requested density could be cluster apartments, which he said was best for Mill Valley.

But commissioners made it clear that they didn't oppose clustering as such. "I'm not against clustering at some future time," said Louis E. Bartolini, who seconded Rosenthal's motion to deny. "But in this case the impact of the traffic is too great."

Poutiatine, however, said he opposed the motion to deny because "to vote for it would be to say that the size of the sewer lines and the condition of the streets is going to determine our future planning. And that we don't want."

Commissioner Sally Garoutte said she felt the development should be considered in view of its impact on the whole area. "We should do our planning in the framework of the entire county and not just in Mill Valley," she said.

The question was called then, and the motion to deny was approved.

After the vote, Cullen without comment tacked up on a wall a chart showing his proposed use for the land with a density of two, which the commission had said was acceptable — a conventional subdivision with 64 single-family dwellings.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission Also:

VARIANCE — Continued to June 8 a request by Jack Barone to build a garage at 155 Oakdale Avenue partly on the city right-of-way and a house with a zero-foot setback where a 15-foot setback is required.

APPEAL — Referred to the architectural advisory committee an appeal from the Casual Corner, 2 Miller Avenue, against the committee's denial of a sign. The committee denied the sign in part because of an inadequate submittal, and the commission refused to consider the matter until a complete submittal was made.

BUS STOP — Recommended to the city council that a proposed bus stop be eliminated at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

MARSH — Renewed its request to the city council to allocate funds for professional planning of the city's harbor area and for puchase of the Biggio land and marsh.

BEAUTY PARLOR — Declared that property at 138 East Blithedale Avenue in a professional-administrative zone is suitable for a beauty parlor.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to June 8 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Richmond Bridge Leap Kills Woman

A 35-year-old Richmond woman leaped to her death from the top deck of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge yesterday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The body of Appel Lee Lewis was recovered by bridge employees.

She had parked her car near the center of the bridge and jumped at about 1:35 p.m. Tentative identification was made from a driver's license left in a purse in the car.

The patrol said she apparently tied a white scarf to the bumper of her car to warn other motorists away from it. No note was found.

Drive Set For Tubbs Island Fund

Nature Conservancy has announced a drive to raise the $62,000 second installment on the $300,000 purchase price of Lower Tubbs Island in Southern Sonoma.

According to Phillip H. Wallin, staff member of the San Francisco Bay Project of the conservancy group, $40,000 has already been raised and only $20,000 is needed before the June 9 deadline.

The conservation group began negotiating for the purchase of the marshes and sloughs along the northern shore of San Pablo Bay in the latter part of 1968. The land had been owned by Island Land Co., a former duck club, Wallin said.

Nature Conservancy has another three years to raise the remaining $180,000 if this year's payment is met, Wallin said.

The area will be kept as a wildlife sanctuary, Wallin said. Canvasback ducks inhabit the area in late fall and early spring, Wallin added.

Donations may be mailed to the San Francisco Bay Project, The Nature Conservancy, 215 Market Street, San Francisco.

School Burglarized

A burglar who entered Miller Creek School in Marinwood either Friday night or Saturday morning stole four floodlights and two strobe lights, sheriff's officers said yesterday.

Draft Speedup Ruling May Free 6,000 GIs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge holds that the Army should release the estimated 6,000 men who were illegally reclassified 1-A and drafted prior to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling banning such inductions.

U.S. District Court Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli's order Monday to release Pfc. Robert W. Andre was called the first retroactive application of the high court's Gutknecht decision of last January.

The 23-year-old Downey, Calif., man, now at Ft. Ord, Calif., was inducted April 9, 1969, by a draft board which accelerated his induction because he failed to supply the board an address change.

He petitioned for release last March on the basis of the Supreme Court's 5-3 decision that it was illegal for the draft board of David E. Gutknecht of Gaylord, Minn., to hasten his induction because he turned in his draft card at a 1967 antiwar rally.

"The fact that a man burned his draft card or failed to inform the board of his address is not one of the criteria established by Congress upon which a man can be drafted," Zirpoli said.

"When a man is drafted as a delinquent, the fact-finding process necessary to a proper induction order is inherently unfair and unreliable," he added.

Zirpoli said there was "no substantial reason" why the Gutknecht decision should not apply to Andre and others already inducted. He said it was the intent of the Supreme Court ruling to insure that drafting men would be "based on the facts which would properly place them in the 1-A category."

The judge granted a 10-day stay of execution of the order to release Andre. U.S. Atty. James L. Browning said he will file an appeal speedily.

Browning had argued there was a "compelling national interest" against applying the Gutknecht decision retroactively to some 6,000 men in the service. He said it would cause great administrative problems.

Bench Warrant Set

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,500 was issued yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Richard James Fountain, 22, of Novato, when he failed to appear for sentencing on a marijuana conviction.

Mill Valley Trustees Take No War Stand

The Mill Valley School District board discussed last night a resolution opposing the Indochina war but took no action after several trustees expressed reluctance to take a board position on the war.

Supt. James A. Collins reported each trustee said he was opposed to the war, but some felt that a local school board should not enter into the matter.

Trustee Joseph E. Bodovitz was asked to prepare a resolution for presentation at the next meeting June 8 that would satisfy these objections, Collins said.

The Mill Valley School District board also:

DRUGS — Adopted the Alameda County guidelines for a drug abuse program that will be initiated in kindergarten through eighth grade next fall.

BUILDING — Heard a report that the building program for the middle school is proceeding on schedule.

CALENDAR — Approved a school calendar for 1970-71 under which schools will open Sept. 8 and close June 11.

SUMMER SCHOOL — Approved a salary schedule for teachers of the six-week summer school, of $650 to $750.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Jan Berelson, teacher at Old Mill School, for personal reasons; rescinded the acceptance of the resignation of Margaret Rabe, teacher at Homestead School, who told the board she wanted to stay in the district next year.

EMPLOYMENT — Hired William Klippert to teach at Old Mill School and Linda Susnow to teach at Edna Maguire school for $8,058; and transferred Roy Knecktle to Edna Maguire School as head custodian at $686 a month.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to June 8 at 8 p.m. in Park School.

Unruh Pledges No Giant Spending Spree

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Democrat Jess Unruh said today that he hopes to win the governorship of California without spending the vast sums of money for radio, television and newspaper advertising that has become a hallmark of the state's major political campaign.

The Inglewood assemblyman told an airport news conference that his state campaign managers have decided not to spend one penny for commercial advertisements, including billboards, in Unruh's June 2 primary contest with Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles.

Five Causes For Wrecks

1. Lack of attention; 2. Failure to have your car under control; 3. Following too closely; 4. Improperly changing lanes; 5. Driving too fast for conditions?

If you are, take a second look at your driving habits. Continuation of these five leading causes of freeway accidents may very possibly result in death or serious injury to you and your family. Yes, it can happen to you. Highway accidents took the lives of over 50 thousand Americans last year.

THE CHANGING CITY — Whole streets, such as this one, are taking on a new look in Jakarta, once a city of disease, dirt and squalor. While the squalor is not gone, paintbrushes and brooms are being used to spruce up the tired old city.

A Facelift Is Coming At Last To Jakarta

TORONTO NEWS SERVICE

Streets teeming with traffic and people. Beggars with hideous sores stretching their hands inside car windows and moaning pathetically for money.

An unlovely city that is the capital of an extraordinarily lovely land. Jakarta is all these things and more.

But lately, Jakarta, 443 years old, has been getting quite a facelift. With paintbrushes and brooms, an army of workmen have gone forth to spruce up the tired old capital.

The cleanup is inspired by the city's energetic governor, Maj. Gen. Ali Sadikin, and already whole streets have taken on a new look.

Especially Jakarta's "main drag" — the broad, multi-laned Djalan Thamrin. A Japanese firm, Mitsui and Co. Ltd., is completing the towering, 30-story Archipelago House and also putting up a 360-room luxury hotel alongside it. Work on the vast, Sukarno-inspired skyscraper stopped six years ago as Indonesia plunged headlong into bankruptcy. The uncompleted steel-skeleton has been standing there quietly, rusting ever since. Now, after Japanese engineers have satisfied themselves that the building is still structurally sound, the country's tallest office block is being finished.

Other buildings are sprouting up all along Djalan Thamrin. The Australian and Japanese Embassies are there, so too is the big Hotel Indonesia, and several multi-storied bank buildings and airline offices. The Russians and the French are planning embassies. The big Sarinah department store is situated there and the modern Oriental Hotel is going up near the 12-story government-owned Pertimina oil company building.

The whole skyline is changing.

But it's not only a matter of new buildings.

Jakarta has asquired 500 American-built buses to help ease the city's pressing transport problems and Sadikin's men are at work everywhere. new bus terminals, new pedestrian bridges and new maternity clinics are under construction. Shrubs and trees are being planted everywhere. The governor has given the city a new cultural center, new amusement parks, new facilities; but most of all he has given Jakarta a new sense of pride.

There is still a long road ahead of course. The city has a population of 4.6 million and the problems grow bigger every day. But no longer are problems swept under the carpet and difficult decisions put off.

The squalor is still there, and one doesn't have to walk far to see it. People bathe in a canal that other people use as a public lavatory. People sleep and eat on the overcrowded footpaths. People, people, people. It's all there.

But Sadikin is doing something about it, and, given time and money plus more trees and open spaces, Jakarta could become quite an attractive city and lose the reputation as the giant "slum" of Southeast Asia.

$7.5 Million In Cambodian Aid?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration has decided to give the Cambodian government small arms valued at about $7.5 million.

State Department officials said today notification of the decision was contained in a letter sent Friday to Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The letter was classified as secret. Fulbright was reported trying to change the classification.

National Road System Climbs

Five states now have more than 1,000 miles of interstate and defense highways open to public use.

Total mileage in the national system now in use is over 26,000 miles out of the 41,000 miles planned. The system is destined to become the nation's key highway network, carrying more than 20 per cent of all traffic.

A federal report discloses that Texas has the largest mileage completed — 1,990 miles. Second is California with 1,351, and then Ohio 1,090, New York 1,050 and Pennsylvania 1,029.

Chest Wounds Fatal

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — A 22-year-old Marine died of a chest wound after training exercises on an infiltration course Monday, but a base spokesman said today there was only "10 per cent chance" that a machine gun bullet hit him. He was not identified immediately.

Bids Sought On Road Work

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Division of Highways began advertising for bids for work on Highways 1 and 37 in Marin and Sonoma counties yesterday, the State Department of public Works has announced.

Resurfacing about 28 miles on the two highways is planned. Bids will be opened June 24 with $352,000 available for the project.

The Highway 1 work will be from Point Reyes Station in Marin almost to Fort Ross in Sonoma and the Highway 37 improvement will be from the Petaluma Creek Bridge to Lakeville Road, the announcement said.

Statement of Policy

Regarding Political Advertising

The Independent-Journal does not aggressively solicit or render copy writing service for political advertisements that are argumentative in content. Political advertisements are construed to be all assertions subject to public controversy, whether or not a public election is involved.

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group and their address.

Political advertisements must be submitted in complete and explicit form, ready for the printers, and clearly marked as to size and date of appearance. All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the regular rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two days preceding publication. As example: Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday at 4 p.m.; Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

On the last publication day before an election no political advertisement other than a simple statement of advocacy will be printed. As example: "Vote yes on proposition three," or "Elect John Jones," together with facts as to nature and time of election and, if desired, candidate's party affiliation or occupational identity.

Nearing a public election, no advertisement introducing a new controversial subject will be accepted to run later than the fourth publication day preceding the election. If any new statement or issue should be introduced on the fourth publication day preceding the election, attacking the opposing candidate or issue involved, the newspaper may, at its discretion, make allowance under this rule for the opposing side to answer.

Necessity for the newspaper's disinterested handling of political advertisements is readily apparent. These terms and conditions are adhered to in spirit of fairness to all.

OBITUARIES

AXEL LARSON

Funeral arrangements for Axel R. Larson of 706 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera, are pending at W. C. Laswell and Co., Daly City.

Larson died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was 85.

Larson, owner of the Meadowsweet Motel in Corte Madera, built the motel after retiring as a San Francisco homebuilder in 1955.

A native of Sweden, he had lived in California since 1906 and in Marin since 1955.

Surviving are his wife Elizabeth R. Larson; two sons, Alan R. Larson and Larry Larson of San Mateo, and three grandchildren.

THEODORE RODACK

Theodore Rodack, 77, of Sausalito, collapsed and died yesterday in a Sausalito doctor's office, according to Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan who said death was apparently from natural causes.

Rodack had been taken to the office by Sausalito firemen who were called by a neighbor to the Rodack home at 23 Glen Drive after the man complained of shortness of breath, Madigan said.

A native of Austria-Hungary, he had lived in California and Marin County for 52 years. He was a retired carman for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and, prior to that, worked for the old American Distillery Co. in Sausalito.

He is survived by a son, Frederick . Rodack of Occidental, Sonoma County; a stepson, John Lunt of San Francisco; a stepdaughter, Camille Collings of Santa Rosa, and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund.

CHARLES STOBBE

Charles C. Stobbe of Fairfax, retired Colorado cattle rancher, died yesterday at a local hospital after a long illness. He was 92.

A native of Russia he moved to Colorado at the age of 8 and resided there until moving last year to the Fairfax home of his son, C. F. Stobbe at 545 Oak Manor Drive.

Stobbe operated a cattle ranch near Fort Collins, Colo. from 1902 until retiring in 1943. After leaving the ranching business he was employed as groundskeeper for the Larimer County Courthouse until 1965.

Stobbe was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Fort Collins.

Surviving are his son; a sister, Hulda Douglas of Fort Collins and two brothers, Earl Stobbe of Loveland, Colo. and Frederick Stobbe of Berkeley.

Funeral will be held Thursday at the Warren Funeral Chapel in Fort Collins with burial at the Grand View Cemetery.

CLOYD E. TROUT

Funeral for Cloyd E. Trout of San Clemente, Orange County, father of John A. Trout of Corte Madera, was held today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael with burial at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Trout, a retired owner of six variety stores in Danville, Ill., died at a local hospital last Tuesday after a long illness. He has been hospitalized since coming to Marin from San Clemente last October. He was 76.

A native and almost lifelong resident of Danville, he moved to San Clemente more than two years ago.

He was a member of the Elks Lodge and the American Legion both in Danville.

He is also survived by a granddaughter.

Kimmel Retrial Set For June 15

A new trial for former Novato High School teacher James D. Kimmel, 34, on three marijuana charges was set yesterday in Marin Superior Court for June 15.

A jury was deadlocked on May 15 on whether Kimmel had used minors to obtain pot for him, possessed pot and used it on the high school campus on Nov. 15, 1968.

The jury, however, did convict the long-haired bearded Kimmel of resisting arrest. He is awaiting sentencing on that charge.

FIRE CALLS

, 11:12 a.m., Novato — Sparks from a torch ignited grass at 1037 Calle Paseo; no damage in spot fire.

1:31 p.m., Mill Valley — Fire at home of Arthur K. Morse, 41 Glen Drive, burned entire top story; approximately $25,000 to $30,000 damage; caused under investigation.

4:57 p.m., Marinwood — Grass fire burned 70 square feet at St. Vincent's School for Boys; cause unknown and no damage. Marin County Fire Department responded.

DAMMING CONGESTION

This short dam of sandbags designed to prevent parking on Bridgeway in Sausalito is causing high tempers among downtown merchants there. City workmen began sandbagging the two-block stretch between Princess and Anchor streets yesterday to enforce a test ban on parking on Bridgeway, and businessmen reacted as if the sand had been thrown in their eyes. They began circulating petitions yesterday in an attempt to marshal public support against the test ban. (Independent-Journal photo)

Jensen Hits Changes In Government

A proposal by City Mgr. James H. McCown for seemingly minor changes in the organizational structure of San Rafael city government, drew the immediate fire of Councilman Fred E. Jensen last night.

McCown unveiled for the city council an organization chart which showed the planning and building inspection departments operating under a proposed community development department.

The planning director would head the new department, McCown said, and Jensen balked.

He said there would be a "conflict of personaliites," and zeroed in on Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

"I don't think there's a person in city hall who has any use for Mr. Hotchner," Jensen said.

If the two departments were put under the new one, he said, the city would probably lose its building inspector, Jack Coates, Jensen said. "I can't see him working with Hotchner for five minutes."

The discussion came at the council's budget session. Only Jensen and Councilmen Harry A. Barbier and Fred C. Robbins Jr. were present.

The council also discussed, and for the most part agreed with McCown's proposal to reorganize his own office, moving many of the smaller duties to a new position which would be under the director of finance and redefining the position of administrative assistant to the city manager.

The councilmen asked McCown to have copies of the reorganization chart made so that they could study it before discussing the proposals further.

The council last night also gave its official endorsement to Proposition A on the June 2 ballot, which seeks approval for 600 low-rent housing units in Marin, and postponed until its next regular meeting Monday discussion of bicycle paths through the city.

Action On San Rafael Budget Going Smoothly

The San Rafael City Council, or three-fifths of it, breezed through the first of its budget sessions last night and, with only a few minor changes, approved about half of the proposed $4,087,415 budget.

On the way, councilmen complimented City Mgr. James H. McCown for holding the line on expenses.

Councilmen Fred E. Jensen, Harry A. Barbier and Fred C. Robbins Jr. were present. Mayor C. Paul Bettini was out of town, and Councilman John A. Miskimen's oral resignation of several weeks ago is still up in the air. The council has asked him to reconsider and he has not yet submitted the resignation in writing.

The council last night quickly blue-penciled a $50 a month salary request for a part-time assistant city attorney, on the grounds the position wasn't needed.

With the $600 deleted, the council approved the city attorney's budget proposal of $14,225, still up $575 from this year's budget.

Also deleted was $2,000 from the election budget. McCown had proposed $10,000, the amount budgeted this year. However, since San Rafael did not have a municipal election this year, the city expects to have spent only $6,000 of that this year.

The only other change in the proposals reviewed last night was the addition of $200 to the city clerk's budget for additional office supplies and postage expenses. The council then approved the revised budget proposal of $21,695, compared to $21,443 this year.

Other allocations approved as proposed were city council, $16,000; general services, $239,402; retirement, $358,807; city treasurer, $34,438; civil defense, $3,050; parking meters, $3,932; garage, $55,975; parking district, $89,388; San Rafael Sanitation District, $9,450; weed abatement, $3,750, and San Rafael Cayes Maintenance District, $1,200.

The council will consider more of the proposed budget at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

$4,087,415 Budget Proposed, No Salary Increases Included

A 1970-71 budget of $4,087,415, not including capital improvements, was proposed last night by San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown, who said it would require no increase in the city's tax rate.

This year's budget, including $1,264,601 in capital improvements, totals $5,083,214.

McCown's proposal does not include any salary increases, and is based on the city's present salary schedule.

He said it is anticipated that a cost-of-living increase of 5 or 6 per cent will be added.

The proposed budget allows a total of $2,781,103 for salaries and wages.

The operating budget proposed last night at the first of the city council's budget sessions is $3,998,266, up $271,753 from this year, and proposed capital outlay is $89,149, down $2,951 from this year.

The proposal calls for increasing the city staff from 242 to 257 employees, with the main increases, six each, in the police and fire departments.

The police budget asks for an additional juvenile officer, identification officer, police clerk, and complaint officer, and two assistant inspectors.

The police department, asking for $916,108, has the largest request in the proposed budget. the figure compares with $822,224 budgeted this year and estimated expenditures of $806,919 in 1969-70.

The fire department follows with a proposed budget of $861,621, compared to the 1969-70 budget of $827,233 and estimated expenditures of $815,528.

With the exception of seven city departments, the proposed budgets for all city departments are higher than the present budgets.

The exceptions are: city manager with $54,433 proposed, $57,353 budgeted this year, and estimated actual expenditures this year of $52,543; street painting (a category of the department of public works) with $32,716 proposed, $36,685 budged this year, and $32,217 estimated expenditures; street maintenance (also public works) with $160,722 proposed, $163,518 budgeted, and $162,128 estimated; street sweeping (public works) with $32,228 proposed, $32,402 budgeted, and $31,762 estimated; parking meters with $3,932 proposed, $3,957 budgeted, and $3,863 estimated; parking district with $89,388 proposed, $103,380 budgeted, and $102,270 estimated; and San Rafael Cayes Maintenance District with $1,200 proposed, $1,500 budgeted, and $1,200 estimated.

City council, $16,600 ($15,408); city clerk, $21,485 ($21,443); general services, $239,402 ($224,418); retirement, $358,807 ($338,559); elections, $10,000 ($10,000); city attorney, $14,825 ($13,650); finance, $48,872 ($40,751); city treasurer, $34,438 (33,664).

Public works department categories, in addition to street painting, maintenance and sweeping, are: engineering and administration, $142,066 ($115,195); street lights and signals, $184,543 ($166,416); storm and sanitary sewers, $62,688 ($59,370); and street trees and parkways, $95,079 ($85,016).

Other proposed allocations are: planning, $86,759 ($90,640); building, $58,409 ($58,289); civil defense, $3,050 ($850); garage, $55,975 ($49,099); recreation, $162,276 ($150,000); parks, $143,187 ($129,903); library, $183,426 ($162,450); San Rafael Sanitation District, $9,450 ($1,990); and weed abatement, $3,750 ($3,250).

The budget proposal estimates 1970-71 revenues will be $4,396,441, down $163,293 from the estimated revenue for 1969-70.

Roll-Over Crash Bad For Blazes

Singling out the rear-end collision as starting the most severe fuel-fed fires proves how wrong popular opinion can be.

Actually the roll-over type of crash causes more fire fatalities. It would seem that the more common rear-end collision does start fires, but as a fire-starter it ranks only second.

Statistics show auto crash fires to be rare, but when they do occur, the chances of victims being fatally burned are one in four.

Hitchhikers May Resort To Miniskirts

Although the fashion trend of mini-skirts has been said to be on its way out, many young hitchhikers don't seem to realize it.

Even if they do, they don't seem to care, for thumbing a ride comes quite easily to a girl in a mini-skirt. So, increasing numbers of hitchhikers clad in this fashion now appear on the nation's highways

Normally too afraid to pick up hitchhikers, countless motorists can't resist the temptation to lend such mini-skirted girls a helping hand. Slamming on the brakes, these motorists rationalize away the danger by simply looking at these "sweet" hitchhikers as foolish girls needing rides home.

But can you be sure? Finding out the truth could cost you a pretty penny or even your life.

Flat Tire Good Chance To Check

When the front wheel is on a jack while a tire is being changed, the car owner has a chance to make a check of the wheel-bearing condition.

If the wheel has more than a "suspicion of shake" from side to side, the odds are that the bearing can stand being taken up.

How To Handle A Carsick Child

Leaving level terrain behind, you look happily at the scenic hills. Suddenly your mood turns sour. You have a carsick child on your hands.

What to do? Stop the car and let your child out for a 15-minute breather. Encourage him to take a short walk if he feels up to it.

See that your child gets in the front seat before proceeding to the nearest town. Look for a drugstore so that you can buy a motion sickness medicine, but remember that children swallow the liquid kind easier.

Don't resume your trip until you've waited for another 15 minutes. With your child again in the front seat, take the remaining hills and curves at a slower pace.

McCarthy Supports Prop. 8

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. John F. McCarthy, the Republican who has served longest in the Senate, yesterday broke with Gov. Ronald Reagan to join Democrats in endorsing Prop. 8.

McCarthy, R-San Rafael, appeared with Senate caucus chairman Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, to agree the legislature can't accomplish tax reform and urge the voters to do it themselves by approving Prop. 8 at the June 2 primary.

Prop. 8 would require the state to pay half of all local school costs, and up to 90 per cent of welfare costs, with tax relief projected for the local property taxpayer who pays most of both now.

In direct reply to Governor Reagan's plea that his own legislative tax revision program be considered apart from school finance and welfare, McCarthy and Dymally said: "You cannot have tax reform and property tax relief without facing up to the school and welfare issues and to pretend otherwise is a disservice to the voters."

Motorcycle Accident Injures Teen-Ager

A 16-year-old San Rafael youth was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today with multiple scrapes and bruises after a motorcycle accident on Highway 101 yesterday.

Gargiulo To Head Evening School

Joseph D. Gargiulo, principal of North Marin High School, was named principal of Novato Adult Evening High School last night by the Novato School District board.

The board will continue interviews for the positions of principal of Hill Junior High and North Marin High schools at 8 p.m. Monday.

Gargiulo, 44, of 1506 Buchanan Street, Novato, started his teaching career in Sausalito. He was named teacher and director of student activities at Novato High School in 1957, counselor in 1961, and vice principal in 1964, before going to North Marin as principal in 1967.

He was elected to the Novato City Council two years ago and has served a four-year term on the Marin Junior College District board.

Israel Again Sends Patrol Into Lebanon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israel said it sent a reconnaissance patrol into Lebanon today to "interfere with the movement" of Arab guerrillas. Thousands of Lebanese workers staged a one-day nationwide strike to demand a stronger military stance against Israel.

On another Middle East front, Israel reported increasingly heavy casualties to its forces along the Suez Canal from massed Egyptian artillery and said Israeli warplanes struck again in an attempt to knock them out.

The Israeli foray into Lebanon marked the second consecutive day of operations across the border in the area where Arab guerrillas attacked an Israeli school bus last Friday, killing 12 Israelis. Lebanon said a Lebanese lieutenant was killed Monday in a clash with an Israeli patrol that penetrated 600 yards into Lebanon. There was no confirmation from Israel.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said the Israeli forces which crossed the border today were carrying out "observation missions" from hilltops in southern Lebanon overlooking the frontier to "interfere with the movement" of Arab guerrillas in the area.

A separate Israeli communique said Israeli jet fighter-bombers blasted Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal in a 35-minute attack that began at 12:30 p. m.

A Cairo report on the canal action said Egyptian antiaircraft gunners drove off the Israeli planes as they attacked positions along the southern section of the waterway.

In Tel Aviv, a senior Israeli army officer said Egypt's spring offensive along the canal had slowed down in partial failure but massed artillery fire was still inflicting casualties on Israeli troops.

"There was a significant increase in the number of casualties last week from Egyptian shelling," the Israeli army officer said. He reported 10 Israeli soldiers killed last week—seven more than the previous week.

The strike in Lebanon underscored the pressure on the Beirut government to join other Arab nations in the war against Israel.

The nationwide strike, proclaimed 98 per cent effective by its leaders, closed schools, shut down shops, virtually closed the port and even forced a three-hour halt in departures from Beirut International Airport. Police and troops did not interfere.

Visits to the National Parks are expected to exceed 176 million this year, nearly nine per cent more than in 1969. An increase of 18 per cent is expected at recreation areas, such as Nevada's Lake Mead which alone counted five million visitors last year.

Rec Panel To Help In Boat Course

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission has agreed to co-sponsor a boating and water safety course with the American Red Cross and the Marin Canoe Club at the city's small craft harbor this summer.

The commission last night gave the canoe club permission to collect a $10 fee for the course, according to Don Dimitratos, director of parks and recreation.

Most of the fee will go for maintenance of boats and upkeep of equipment, he said. A small part will be used for instructor salaries.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission also:

MOZART — Gave permission for the Homestead Valley Improvement Club to hold its annual Mozart Festival Aug. 30 at the amphitheater at Old Mill Park.

TENNIS — Added to a previously adopted list of rules for the city's tennis courts a regulation that persons playing doubles must yield the court to waiting players after one set.

HORSES — Agreed to replace stolen signs for a horse crossing on East Blithedale Avenue.

LANDSCAPING — Requested the city council to negotiate with the county to landscape the county-owned median strip of East Blithedale Avenue just outside Mill Valley city limits. The parks and recreation department would maintain the landscaping.

BICYCLE — Asked the city council to appropriate funds for purchase of bicycle path signs.

Suspended Term In Family Gunplay

Constance Abercrombie, 55-year-old Novato housewife who had earlier admitted shooting her husband at their home last July, yesterday was given a 60-day suspended jail sentence by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court.

The judge also placed her on probation for six months.

Mrs. Abercrombie had pleaded no contest to a charge of shooting her husband, Robert, a retired Army Major in the back during a family argument.

Northern California's Coast redwoods are conceded to be the tallest of living things — up to 367 feet high. Bristlecone pines, which grow near Death Valley, are older (4,000 years vs. about 2,200) and the Sierra's sequoia gigantea more massive—31 feet in diameter vs. about 22 feet.

June 11 Hearing Date For Cocaine Suspects

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO —Preliminary hearing in the case of seven Marin residents — arrested in connection with the sales of cocaine worth over $250,000 on the drug market to federal agents — was set yesterday for June 11 by U.S. Commissioner Richard S. Goldsmith.

Robert Bernar Ford, 21, of 1106 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, was arraigned on conspiracy to sell cocaine in connection with a sale to federal undercover agents at the San Francisco International Airport of more than two pounds of the drug.

Also nabbed Friday at the airport and arraigned on the same charge yesterday were Sharon Ann Needleman, 26, of 18 Crest Road, San Anselmo; Maureen Booth, 23, of 54 Bulkley Drive, Sausalito; Marcia Marie Freet, 27, of 107 Marion Street, Sausalito; and Mark Robert Shanahan, 21, of 1106 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Mitchell Junior Howard, 22, of 235 Drake Avenue, Marin City; Steve Howard, 24, of Gate 6, Sausalito; and Freet were charged separately for an alleged cocaine sale April 14 in Sausalito involving 112 grams of the drug.

The Howards were arrested in Sausalito after the airport raid.

Goldsmith said there were three transactions during the investigation, but one was not used in the charges yesterday.

He said agents paid about $11,000 for the drugs and were scheduled to pay $22,000 more on Friday. The value of the drug increases 10-fold before it is sold to users, Goldsmith said.

Panel Backs Acceptance Of Budget Responsibility

The Marin County Board of Education may accept after all the "crumbs" of what it calls "budget responsibility."

The board's administrative services committee last night considered a proposal giving the board control of its budget and passed it back up to the full board, recommending approval at next Monday's meeting, reported administrative director Robert E. Spain.

The board debated the proposal last week, one board member complaining the county was "giving us crumbs" because the proposal did not give the board its own legal counsel or power to appoint the county superintendent of schools. The board referred the proposal to committee for redrafting.

The proposal would require the board of supervisors to set a tax rate to cover any budget the board of education presented. At present, the supervisors can reduce any county school budgets financed from local taxes.

The committee made no change in the proposal to accept the transfer of duties, Spain said.

Young Robber To Youth Authority

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced John Charles Batts, 18, of San Rafael to the California youth authority.

Batts had pleaded guilty to a charged of armed robbery just before he was set to go to trail in April.

He confessed to being the person who held up an employee of the Minto and Son serivce station at 805 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo on Feb. 11 and escaped with $150.

No Court Complaint In Stereo Theft Case

No complaint has been filed in Southern Sonoma Municipal court against David Roth, 22, of 2597 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

Roth had been arrested May 15 on suspicion of possession of stolen property in connection with the theft of a car stereo.

Pastel colors have predominated on the island of Curacao, Netherlands Antilles, ever since an early Dutch official banned white houses because their glare in the sun hurt his eyes.

Land Parcel Rezoning Is Approved

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved rezoning from agriculture to planned residential 16.5 acres in Pleasant Valley, according to senior planner Gary Holloway.

The acreage is in the southwest section of Pleasant Valley near the land of the North Marin County Water District. The rezoning was requested by the owner, Roberts and Aguirre. It now goes to the city council for final action.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

CAR WASH — Approved a use permit for Albert Tresch for a self-service car wash on the Tresch triangle at South Novato Boulevard and Center Road.

MOBILE HOME — Granted Harold Taber a temporary use permit for a mobile home on Hanna Ranch at 6440 Redwood Highway.

DAY SCHOOL — Recommended that the Marin County Planning Commission deny a use permit for a child day care nursery school for 65 children at the southeast corner of Novato Boulevard and Eucalyptus Avenue.

Petaluma Council Sets Closed Talk On Land

The Petaluma City Council will meet in a closed session at 7:30 p.m. today to consider the purchase of property.

Under study will be the purchase price for property necessary to make improvements on Magnolia Avenue at Petaluma Boulevard North.

Higher Speeds On Some Roads

Some special California highways that meet stiff engineering requirements allow speeds to 70 miles per hour.

Such requirements call for no cross traffic and only gentle curves and grades. Just those highways that come up to these standards can qualify for increased speed limits.

So far, the death and accident rates have generally gone down in areas with a 70-mile maximum speed. Drivers tend to travel at a more uniform speed in such a zone.

Pedestrian Injured On Petaluma Street

Joyce Johnson, 15, of 515 Second Street, Petaluma, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital for an injury to her right leg suffered when she was struck by a car at 9:29 p.m. yesterday while crossing Petaluma Boulevard South at G Street.

Police said she walked into the path of a car driven by Billy R. Atteberry, 29, of 417 Mountain View Avenue, Petaluma.

Chief Pathologist Quietly Demoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has quietly demoted the man who accused some agency bureaucrats of altering laboratory conclusions which cast doubt on established FDA regulatory policy.

FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards reorganized a pathology unit last week making Dr. Howard L. Richardson, the acting No, 2 man in a new pathology division. Richardson had been the FDA's chief pathologist since 1968.

Edwards installed Dr. Bert J. Vos as acting head of the pathology division, according to an FDA memorandum dated May 19. Vos, a longtime agency official, is a medical doctor but not a pathologist.

However, a leading pathologist from the government's National Cancer Institute is in line for the job on a permanent basis, an FDA spokesman emphasized.

Richardson was brought in to revitalize FDA pathology in part because of a reputation he gained in the Veterans Administration as a hard-nosed scrapper committed to scientific integrity, knowledgeable FDA officials say.

FDA memoranda show that Richardson has rankled longtime agency officials during the past year and a half with insistent demands for upgrading pathology in the agency. Pathology is the branch of medicine dealing with the causes of tissue injury and death.

A memorandum written by Richardson Oct. 20, 1969, as a subject of later news stories increased tensions within the troubled agency.

Richardson charged that bureaucrats with limited scientific training expunged conclusions and recommendations from reports of certain animal experiments. The experiments in question appeared to contradict official agency positions on the safety of some food additives, most notably the artificial sweetener cyclamate.

Richardson has met mounting bureaucratic retaliation since news stories of his charges appeared one month ago, reliable FDA officials said. Richardson is attending a scientific meeting in Texas and was not available for comment.

Edwards, asked to comment on Richardson's demotion, said he was seeking "an outstanding leader" for the pathology division.

A source close to Edwards said Richardson was not deemed to be that outstanding leader. The decision on Richardson's leadership quality was made before the news stories appeared, the source said.

Jackie In Denial To Tiff Rumors

ATHENS (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis sipped an aperitif in an Athens bistro today and shrugged off reports that she and her husband were having a tiff over attentions he was paying to opera singer Maria Callas.

"Oh my God, what will they think of next?" the former American First Lady told reporters quizzing her about the reports published by two Greek newspapers.

Mrs. Onassis ran into reporters as she walked out of a bistro where she and a female companion drank ouzo —the anisette-like aperitif favored by Greeks.

Mrs. Onassis had spent the morning on a shopping spree during which she purchased almost a carload of hand-woven peasant-type rugs, handbags and other Greek handicrafts from the Queen's Fund Store — a shop organized and financed by a foundation started by Queen Mother Frederika.

Racing An Engine Isn't The Answer

Many motorists and mechanics when they have finished some minor or major repair work on the engine will race it.

No useful purpose is served by this action.

Merely racing the engine does not produce the same conditions that prevail when it is pulling the car. Speeding up the engine while the car is at rest merely is generating energy that must be thrown off by the power plant itself. It does a great deal more harm than good.

Page School Annexation Wins Favor

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Annexation of the Thomas Page School to the City of Cotati was approved yesterday by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors.

The annexation of the school property had been recommended by the Cotati School District board, Cotati City Council and Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Officials had said that annexation would simplify access to city water and sewer lines.

The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors also:

BURNING — Approved a resolution extending the fire season ban on open burning from June 1 to Oct. 30. The ban last year extended only from July 2 to Oct. 1.

ECOLOGY — Heard a presentation from five Santa Rosa High School students on the need for a wilderness park and litter campaign. The supervisors commended them for their interest and urged them to organize a clean-up campaign with other teen-agers.

LOSS — Heard County Administrator David L. Nichols report that repairs to the social services building made necessary by the October earthquake has cost the county $200,000.

Simple Tips For Braking Safety

Most motorists have some idea how vital good brakes are to road safety. Far too many, however, might abuse their brakes in one way or another by not knowing all the proper ways to treat them.

To help out, these five main steps are suggested to ensure full braking power every time you press the pedal:

1. Equalize your brakes.
2. Watch out for excessive pedal travel.
3. Try not to overheat brakes on downgrades.
4. Time traffic flow and lights to avoid sudden, hard braking.
5. Guard against getting brakes wet.

California, like Texas, had a brief period as a republic. In 1846, rebellious Yankees declared themselves independent of Mexico and raised a crude Bear Flag at Sonoma.

Man's Heat May End World In The Future

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Earth's atmosphere in some distant century could become so polluted by heat generated by man that life on earth would be wiped out.

That's the opinion of two Air Force engineers who predict that man some day will have to move many of his large-scale heat producing processes into space to save the earth as we know it.

"Unless we move energetically into space we will in time destroy the biosphere and, with it, ourselves," said Robert R. Bathelmy of the Aero Propulsion Laboratory in Dayton, Ohio, and Capt. Howard A. MacEwen of the Air Force Space and Missile Systems division at Los Angeles.

In a paper discussing advanced space power systems, the two engineers said all forms of environmental pollution could be eliminated with enough effort except for heat. And they said there is no foreseeable way to keep from adding heat to the atmosphere.

The problem, they said, is that the atmosphere can absorb and dissipate only so much heat from the earth without becoming hotter itself.

"Once that capacity has been exceeded, serious damage (i.e., whole sale extinction) must follow for all components of the biosphere, including man.

"This eventuality can only be avoided if evolutionary processes can adapt the biosphere to higher temperatures during the time in which the heat addition is occuring. And the pacing of human activity is too rapid to permit such evolutionary adaptation."

"Projected into the future, we see that 50 years hence our energy output will be 40 times that of today, and just one century hence, it will be 1,300 times that of today.

"In one century, we will be generating enough heat to raise the temperature of all the oceans by .001 degree per year."

The engineers said other large-scale processes such as ore smelting and transportation also contribute significantly to the problem.

"Clearly we must begin to take action to reduce or eliminate the energy pollution of the biosphere," they said.

"There are only two alternatives; we can reduce our energy requirements and thus return to a pre-technological civilization, or we can move our large-scale heat producing processes into space where the universe is available as a heat sink.

"There does not appear to be any way to implement the first alternative even if we should wish to. Therefore, we must implement the second.'"

To successfully move such operations into space, the engineers said new ways must be developed to generate great amounts of electrical power in space.

New Attack On Rat Population

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A new scientific foundation announced Friday an attack on the world's rat problem through th use of genetically sterilized animal. One doctor said the project could rid any given area of its entire rat population in three years.

The concept is similar to that which has dramatically reduced infestations of such insects as the screw worm, except the insects were sterilized by the much more expensive use of radioactivity. The project is the result of cancer research begun in 1954 by Dr. Allan J. Stanley of the University of Oklahoma Medical School, who is president of the foundation. Stanley's rat colony, through many generations, produces one-half sterile males. They are the most common variety, the Norway rat.

"These animals mate vigorously, but produce no offspring," Stanley said. "Instead, these males induce a pseudo-pregnancy in the females lasting 17 days or longer. This substantially reduces reproductivity."

Stanley said he was not aware of a similar undertaking anywhere in the world.

"There have been recommendations by various cities that this is a method that certainly should be investigated," Stanley said. "Most of them, however, have talked about sterilizing the rats artificially.

"It has been estimated statistically that if you blocked off an area, say a given city, and used our sterile rats you could completely eliminate the rat population of that area within three years," Stanley said.

Stanley and his two associates in the research, Drs. L. G. Gumbreck and John E. Alison, said findings of the foundation could be applied to other species, including man.

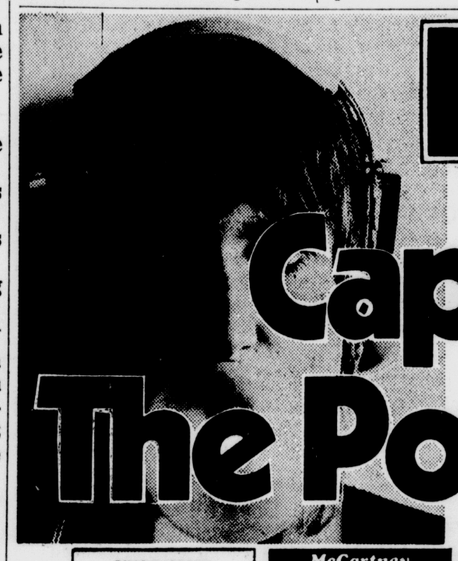

The institution has been named "International Foundation for the Study of Rat Genetics and Rodent Pest Control." Allison is vice president, Gumbreck secretary and L. Reece McGee, executive vice president of the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation, is a director and treasurer. The dominant gene which produces the sterility is passed on by the female. The researchers also have isolated a second factor, an x-linked recessive gene. Since all males get x chromosomes from their mothers, Stanley said, if females with these two factors are introduced into another rat culture 75 per cent of their offspring will be sterile.

Red Guerillas Hit U.S. GIs As Saigon Units Pull Back

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnam announced today the end of two of its spearhead drives into Cambodia, where regrouping guerrilla troops killed six Americans and wounded 25 in a predawn attack.

Most of the 16,000 government soldiers involved in the two just-completed cross-border thrusts—one along Cambodia's coast and the other into its northeastern sector—were expected to go back in new drives or as reinforcements within a week.

"These troops were withdrawn to give them time to relax, recover and re-equip for a couple of days," a military source said. "They don't need much time."

Their pullout from the Cambodian offensive, begun Monday, left fewer than 40,000 Allied troops involved in the neighboring nation, an estimated 10,000 of the Americans.

Military sources said elements of the 5th Viet Cong division and the 7th North Vietnamese division are returning to the border aera from interior Cambodia, having regrouped after fleeing the Allied push.

Some of these guerrilla troops were believed involved in this morning's attack against a U. S. 25th Infantry Division base inside Cambodia 85 miles north-northwest of Saigon.

Spokesmen for the American command said the attackers, behind a barrage of rocket grenades, killed six GIs and wounded 25 but were beaten back. No Communist bodies were found at daybreak.

It was one of an increasing number of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese counterattacks that have killed 27 Americans and wounded 66 in Cambodia since last Friday. Two guerrilla bodies have been found.

Allied headquarters listed American casualties for the entire Cambodian offensive as 216 dead and 807 wounded, with South Vietnamese losses placed at 504 killed and 2,173 wounded, and Communist deaths estimated at 9,236.

Field reports said sweeping U. S. and government soldiers turned up more arms caches Monday, bringing the amount of materiel captured in Cambodia to 13,972 weapons, 4,925 tons of rice and 2,000 tons of munitions.

To counter the loss of supplies and the American bombing of supply lines in Laos, the North Vietnamese were reported to have captured two population centers—one in southern Laos and the other in northeast Cambodia—for use as supply havens from U. S. bombers.

The towns were identified as Attopeu in southern Laos and Stung Treng in northeastern Cambodia, both on the southern reaches of the Ho Chi Minh supply trail.

"They know they are safe there," one source said. "American planes cannot bomb towns full of Laotians and Cambodians."

Spokesmen for the U.S. military command said B52 bombers and smaller jet warplanes continued to bomb the Ho Chi Minh Trail overnight, with the Stratoforts also hitting the A Shau Valley in Vietnam and an area just below the border Demilitarized Zone.

American paratroopers patrolling Vietnam's central coast lost seven killed and seven wounded in a battle Monday. Official communiques said 13 Communist soldiers died in the all-day fight, the biggest reported in Vietnam for the day.

Endings Are Happy For Skyjacked Jets

MIAMI (UPI)—Two hijacked American airliners passed each other at the Havana airport Monday. One was departing, the other arriving.

"I almost died. I couldn't believe it," said Janet Cook, 25, of Atlanta, a passenger on a Delta Convair 880 that was commandeered to Cuba by a woman.

The incoming jetliner was an American Airlines Boeing 727 hijacked on a Chicago-to-New York flight.

"I felt awfully sorry for them—we knew what was happening," said Miss Cook.

But she didn't know that the American Airliner had no passengers, only its seven-member crew and the hijacker, who had let the other 66 passengers get off in New York during a refueling stop.

The American airliner landed at Miami International Airport at 10:38 a.m. EDT after the return flight from Havana.

The Delta plane arrived in Miami Monday night. A third airliner hijacked to Cuba within a 24-hour period, returned to Mexico City Monday night. That plane, a Mexicana de Aviacion Boeing 727 carrying 79 persons, was taken over by three U.S. "hippies" and a miniskirted girl Sunday night during a flight within Mexico.

The hijackings brought to 18 the number of such incidents in the Western Hemisphere this year.

The hijacker of the American airliner was a Latin, who held his hand in his pocket as if he had a gun and ordered stewardess Janet Struchen to contact the pilot over the intercom system. He demanded to go to Cuba, but Capt. Arnold A. Sposato, the pilot, said the plane would have to refuel at Kennedy Airport in New York.

The Delta airliner carrying 102 persons on a Chicago-to-Miami flight, was hijacked about 6:30 a.m. EDT Monday just after takeoff from Atlanta by a "nicely built" woman wearing slacks and a preteen-age youth who appeared to be a Latin. Stewardess Judith Winninger said the woman, who had long "almost orange" hair and appeared between 35 and 40 years of age, approached her with a gun and ordered her to open the cockpit door.

The pilot, Capt. H. B. "Jack" Wynn, 34, said the woman spoke only enough English to tell him she wanted to go to Cuba. She held a "double-action Smith and Wesson 38-caliber revolver," he said. The woman and the boy, carrying toys, said very little during the trip to Havana, the pilot said.

More than 450 million pounds of meat were commercially frozen in 1964.

Scientists estimate deserts existed on earth over 200 million years ago, although today's deserts are believed to be only about five million years old.

The obsolete Navy and Munitions buildings in Washington are coming down at last. They were built in haste on marshy ground and gradually have been sinking; walls have cracked and floors warped. President Nixon ordered their removal, warning, according to the National Geographic Society, "They are going to be down or some admiral will be an ensign."

Only Slight Movement On Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — During 31 months at the Surveyor 3 spacecraft site on the moon, the only surface movement was that of a single pebble —one-tenth of an inch in diameter, a scientist at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory says.

And that pebble, said Leonard D. Jaffe, may have been kicked by an Apollo 12 astronaut.

Jaffe said his report on the site—a crater 650 feet across and 50 feet deep—was based on a study and comparison of 60 pictures radioed back by the Surveyor spacecraft when it landed in April 1967 and 20 photographs taken by Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan Bean in November 1969.

The Apollo pictures show a small particle that does not appear in any of the Surveyor pictures, Jaffe told a gathering of scientists in Leningrad. His report was released Friday by JPL, which is operated by Cal Tech for the National Aeronautical and Space Agency.

Besides a coating of fine dust stirred up as the Apollo 12 lunar module landed nearly 400 feet away, the only change observed in Surveyor was that its white paint and aluminum surfaces had turned to tan, Jaffe said.

"Examination of returned parts showed the tan appearance was general," Jaffee said. "It is at least partly due to deposition of material on the spacecraft."

LEADS BAND NOW

Ex-Con Artist Finds New Career

cording to his press agent, Denny Hall, an ex-con man, has in his time stolen $1 million.

He is now using his silver tongue to promote his own five-piece band, the "Nashville Hawaiians." He's doing all right, too.

Hall is 32. He has spent 17 of those years in prison.

He says his first mistake was chronic truancy from kindergarten. At 6 he stole a rowboat for a joyride and went to reform school. From there he went from bad to worse.

"I never hurt anybody, never committed a violent crime," says Hall, who is 5 feet 6, shaggy and pock-markedly handsome. "I only took money from rich people."

Hall, a confident, mile-a-minute talker, sold safety aboard a government submarine in case of nuclear attack. He promised movie careers for the untalented wealthy. An elderly woman gave him $500,000 to promote her idea of a new world calendar, so he says.

Hall stamped out auto license plates in a Michigan prison and built roads on a Georgia chain gang. He was in solitary at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary, when he began to change.

In solitary he began composing tunes and lyrics in his head. Back in a regular cell, he found a guitar left by a previous inmate. Other convicts taught him to play it.

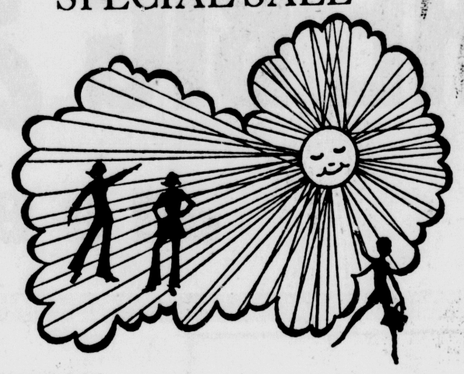

Released on parole in February 1969—with a $30 suit and $7 he had earned sweeping prison sidewalks—he got a job singing and playing for $10 a night in a Doylestown, Pa., bar.

In time he formed a five-piece band, added one Tahitian and two Hawaiian girl dancers, and called the group the "Nashville Hawaiians."

The entertainers moved across country—with the persuasive Hall phoning ahead as booker—at $50 to $300 per night. He performed alone at one Las Vegas casino for four weeks and with the group at another for four weeks. Now he has 12 weeks' bookings ahead in Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe.

Wartime uses for discarded steel drums were limited only by GI ingenuity. They served as makeshift showers on New Guinea and cook stoves in the Aleutians. Filled with concrete, they became foundation pillars for jungle huts. Empty, with top and bottom removed, they were joined to form drainage conduits.

Tiburon Fails To Take Action On Hilarita Housing Density

During a two-and-one-half hour hearing punctuated by applause from enthusiastic backers of the plan, councilmen were urged to "take the lead" in providing "needed housing."

In the audience of about 140 persons were residents of the projects and residents of the nearby area, concerned about the impact of the plan.

Opponents said the proposed density, 112 units on eight acres, was too high and it would be preferable to have moderate and low income families at various locations rather than at one site.

Councilmen said there was no question about having moderate income housing at the site, since it was previously approved, but the development's master plan is still at issue.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood was prepared to move for first approval of the master plan, submitted by the Marin Ecumenical Association of Housing, but held off when it was apparent other councilmen wanted further study.

Councilmen called for a special meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at city hall to review the latest figures relating to the association's contention that 112 units are required to make the project economically feasible. The plan will be before the council again at 8 p.m. June 8 at City Hall.

The World War II housing project is scheduled to be demolished next year, and the association plans to construct the moderate income housing at the site.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody reported 21 letters and a petition with 48 signatures had been filed, asking that the density be held to the city's general plan, which would permit 76 units.

The association plan covers 12.8 acres, with moderate income on the lower eight acres, 12 units, either cluster and/or townhouse, privately developed on two acres and open space for 2.8 acres of the uphill portion.

E. G. Weed, association secretary, explained the housing occupancy would be 80 per cent moderate income families and 20 per cent low income families, who would have federal rent subsidy.

Ena Cooper, a resident of Hilarita Housing, said residents there have "togetherness," and asked all "don't think it's so bad to be poor. . .consider the welfare of your fellow man."

Ellis Kaplan of Kaplan and McLaughlin, San Francisco architects, said the plan for 112 units "was reasonable in response to the need."

Philip S. Ehrlich Jr., chairman of the Marin County Housing Authority, denied contentions that the housing authority, holder of the land, was charging a high price for the site, thereby requiring a high density to make the project feasible.

The price for the eight acres is $6,000 to $7,000 an acre compared to market value of $17,000 to $18,000, he said. "We are subsidizing this," Ehrlich said.

Herbert E. Wenig of 65 Rolling Hills Road, said he wasn't fighting moderate income housing, "but has to be shown why it's necessary to have 112 units."

There have never been more than 205 people at the Hilarita Housing project, but with 112 units "possibly there could be 563 people in the area," Wenig said. "It is unwise to have all moderate income and low income in one place."

He called the proposal for privately developed housing on two acres "a cold blooded proposition" to make money for the housing authority.

Robert D. Hayes of 45 Rolling Hills Road asked that there be consideration of the impact on the community of the proposed project in terms of traffic and school population.

He suggested seeking "a better place, a more buildable site, a more feasible site."

Gloria Cook, a resident, asserted: "I think Tiburon should take a stand. I'm tired of living in a white upper class ghetto. I think we should set an example to the county and other cities."

Friend Of Werber Gets Probation

A young woman who lived for five years as the common-law wife of Frank Werber, former Kingston Trio manager, was placed on unsupervised probation yesterday for one year and fined $250.

Judith Anne Sloper, 31, who now lives in Sausalito, had earlier pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of being in a place where narcotics had been illegally used on Oct. 14, 1968.

Miss Sloper, a long-haired, mini-skirted beauty who has been twice divorced, had originally been charged with a felony count of possessing pot stemming from the Werber marijuana case.

In a report represented to the court, a probation officer said that Miss Sloper has discontinued her relationship with Werber and has moved out of his home on DeSilva Island in Richardson Bay. She now has a job opportunity in Los Angeles, according to the report, which would involve working with delinquent girls.

Noting Miss Sloper's "spotless record," the judge turned down a request from Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas that she be sent to jail for five to 10 days.

Miss Sloper was given 60 days to pay the fine after she said she needed that much time.

Werber, who claimed that grass was essential to his religious practices and that his constitutional rights would be violated if he could not continue to smoke it, was convicted in February of possessing and cultivating marijuana.

Judge McGuire sentenced him to six months in jail and fined him $2,000 but Werber is free on $5,000 bail while the conviction is being appealed in higher courts.

He and Miss Sloper were arrested at his home after narcotics agents were led there by two men who had imported six seabags of pot into this country from Mexico.

Marin Allotted $559,400 Slides Repair Money

A total of $559,400 to repair four Marin County highway areas damaged by winter storms has been approved by the State Highway Commission, district information officer Robert W. Halligan said today.

He said much of the appropriation was spent on an emergency basis without formal financing to clear slide materials and reopen the roads.

One area just south of Marshall on Highway 1 damaged by slides will cost approximately $312,000 to repair and correct the cause of the damage, Halligan said.

Other slide repair estimates announced by Halligan were $118,000 for Highway 1 just south of Stinson Beach; $16,000 for Highway 101 near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Larkspur; and $13,400 for the Vista Point station at the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge.

NEW DELHI (AP) — B.D. Khobargade, 45, an untouchable, was elected deputy chairman of the upper house of Indian parliament, and the first official duty he performed was to adjourn the house for lunch.

Avalanches rank with landslides, volcanic eruptions, earthquakes and floods as the most destructive force of nature. One avalanche that plunged from a glacier on Peru's Nevado Huascaran on Jan. 10, 1962, swallowed eight villages and killed an estimated 3,500 persons.

Withdrawal From War Zone Urged

Tiburon City Council, urged last Wednesday by young and old alike to take a stand on the war in Southeast Asia, last night passed a resolution urging orderly withdrawal of U. S. troops "from all parts of Southeast Asia."

The resolution also urged President Richard M. Nixon, the Legislature and Congress to recognize the deep concern of the citizens over the war "and especially its extension or enlargement."

"Finally," it said, "the city council endorses exploration of all approaches by which our youth can take greater part in the political and elective process."

The resolution was passed 4-0 with Councilman Branwell D. Fanning absent.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood said she felt the resolution could have been stronger.

In the preamble to the resolution, the council cited the concern of citizens over the war, and stated: "This concern, which relates to important constitutional and moral questions, has intensified as a result of the extension of the war into Cambodia."

It pointed out that the use of resources for large-scale military operations diverts "from local government the means necessary to meet pressing and important needs."

Furthermore, the council said: "There is a danger of further alienating our youth, many of whom question the effectiveness of the democratic process. There is a need to encourage mechanisms by which they can participate to the fullest extent in the elective process, especially in the 1970 campaign."

The council's resolution wasn't as strong as some advocates had proposed at last Wednesday's town meeting. Speakers at that session urged the council to endorse the Hatfield-McGovern amendment which would cut off funds for military activities in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam and State Senate Bill 1674 which would provide that no California resident could be sent to fight in an undeclared war.

In other business Mayor Denis T. Rice, with the consent of the council appointed Alvin R. Kuhn of 27 Tara Hill Road, to the planning commission. Kuhn is an account executive with Dean Witter and Co., San Francisco.

Kuhn, who lost out by one vote in the April election for a city council seat, will succeed Albert H. Sennett, a former planning commissioner, who was elected to the council.

Kuhn compiled 663 votes in the city election while M. Carlisle Becker won a seat with 664 votes.

Rice reported that there were seven applicants for the planning commission seat.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

PROPERTY DISCLOSURE — Gave first approval to an ordinance requiring a seller to provide a buyer with full disclosure of the status of the property regarding zoning, uses and occupancy. The vote was 3-1 with Ellinwood dissenting, saying it would be difficult to administer.

CABLE TV — Gave first approval to an ordinance revising the fee schedule charged by Clearview Cable Systems, eliminating prepayment discounts, levying a flat $5-a-month service charge, and dropping the $10 installation fee for additional outlets and the 75 cents a month charge for FM in favor of a flat rate of $1 a month for each additional television or FM outlet.

REZONING — Continued until 8 p.m. June 8 a public hearing on an application by Irving Moulin to rezone 22.7 acres of sloping land on Mount Tiburon from single family residential to planned residential.

PLAN FOLLOWUP — Passed a resolution calling for continuing review of elements of the downtown plan, as previously recommended, and creation of an ad hoc committee including councilmen to formulate programs and criteria and "seek out appropriate prospective developers and tenants for downtown."

AUDIT — Authorized Sleezer and Eckhoff of San Rafael, certified public accountants, to audit city records and accounts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970, at a fee not to exceed $1,000.

NO PARKING — Authorized a no-parking zone along the northerly side of Hilary Drive at the crest of the hill.

MEETING CHANGE — Because of the primary election, switched the planned special meeting on discussion of city problems from next Tuesday to June 3 at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned until 8 p.m. Thursday at City Hall for a special meeting to review the latest financial figures regarding the proposed moderate income housing at Hilarita Housing Project site, with the next regular meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. June 8 at City Hall.

Nonteaching Hub School Workers Ask 6.9 Pct. Hike

Nonteaching employees in the San Anselmo School District have announced their rejection of a 2 per cent cost of living pay raise and their request for at least a 6.9 per cent raise.

Supt. Stephen L. Parodi yesterday said the district board has made no definite pay offer yet and salaries for teaching and nonteaching employees have not "jelled." The board is to hold a closed meeting Thursday to instruct its salary negotiating teams.

According to a release by the school employees, the San Anselmo School District chapter of California State Employees Association voted unanimously to accept no less than 6.9 per cent and try for a 10 per cent raise, which they said would leave employees still in an unfavorable position compared with other districts.

Five Picked As Directors Of Chamber

Two members were reelected and three new members elected to the Novato Chamber of Commerce board in votes counted yesterday by former presidents and board members.

Phillip Coady and Ned Dean were reelrected. New members are Eldon Hasstedt, Gordon L. Lee and Merle L. Sebald, replacing Jack Kinney, Leroy Winters and Robert Dorion on the board for two year terms.

There were 141 ballots cast, with one disqualified because it had six instead of five names marked, according to president George Barnwell.

The board will elect officers for the coming year at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Colonial Savings and Loan Association conference room on Grant Avenue at Fifth Street.

Others running were Robert Churchill, Richard W. Fowler, Mickey Horn, James Purvis, Milton Scott, William H. White, Nelson Whitrock and Winters.

The number of votes cast for each candidate was not listed by the chamber. Barnwell said that has been the policy of the chamber. However, that policy will be discussed at the meeting tomorrow night as the chamber is a semi-public body, receiving part of its money from the City of Novato, Barnwell said.

Mill Valley Motorist Treated For Injury

Robert Clausen, 28, of 10 Millard Drive, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital at 6:50 p.m. yesterday for muscle strain suffered in an automobile accident, the hospital reported today.

No details of the accident were available.

Proposed Tax Rate Is Trimmed

Corte Madera Town Council, meeting last night for the first of two budget sessions, trimmed 8 cents off the town manager's proposed 1970-71 tax rate of $1.28 per $100 assessed valuation.

The council spent four-and-one-half hours scutinizing the proposed $990,000 budget but could find only two substantial reductions amounting to about $18,000.

Lopped from the budget were $8,000 of poposed landscaping funds for the new library site and $10,000 from the public works department which had requested the funds to hire another maintenance man and for vehicle repair.

Next year's budget when proposed by Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher, called for a 29-cent tax rate increase though the budget would drop $10,000 below this year's $1 million budget.

The tax increase is necessary next year, Usher has pointed out, because the council used reserve funds this year to balance the budget rather than levy a tax increase.

While other budget items remained reasonably intact last night, with minor cuts in some departments and increases in others, Usher said the true budget picture will not come into focus until the council acts on requests from four department heads to be included in the 10 per cent pay hike granted all other employees but them.

The town manager said failure of the council to act on the requests makes it impossible for his staff to calculate such budget items as retirement fund totals, and workman's compensation insurance.

The four department heads were segregated earlier this month from other city employees who were granted the across-the-board 10 per cent pay increase.

As the budget session opened last night, Usher presented new proposals asking the council to consider them before proceeding with the hearing.

Usher's proposals fro the department chiefs would hike pay from 12.5 to 16 per cent above current scales.

Mayor Edward W. Colthurst told Usher not enough time had been allowed for study of the new proposals. Other councilmen agreed adding that they may consider the requests at their next meeting June 1.

At its next budget hearing June 10, the council will consider financial requirements of the police and fire departments, as well as Sanitary District No. 2's budget.

Major items approved by the board include $72,000 for flood control, $56,206 for retirement $40,000 for public works engineering and administration, $130,000 for streets, $30,000 for public works building and landscaping, $35,000 for town parks, and $50,000 for library construction.

Shone Urges Reforms In Classrooms

"If our universities are going to be reconstituted, then let's do it by returning to the pursuit of a sound education or our children," Raymond H. Shone, Republican candidate for the State Senate, said yesterday.

Shone told a luncheon meeting of the San Rafael Rotary at the West End Villa, "No one wants to interfere with the free exchange of ideas between student and teacher, but this does not mean our educators have carte blance to indoctrinate students in a philosophy of rebellion and violence.

"By what right does a professor decide that he will offer classes in the Vietnam war instead of the subject he is paid, under contract, to teach?

"Unfortunately, many of our students lack the wisdom to know when they are being used. They do not fully comprehend the seriousness of stepping across that thin borderline between dissent and anarch.

"Before further tragedy and property damage occur we, the parents and taxpayers of this state, must insist that our universities and colleges return to the purpose for which they were created, the educating of our children."

Meeting Reset

Due to the primary election the regular meeting of the San Rafael Fire Commission slated for next Tuesday has been postponed until June 9 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, the commission has announced.

Scientists Trigger Two Nuclear Tests

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)—Scientists triggered two underground nuclear tests today, one an experiment to develop an explosive for excavations and the other a weapons test.

The blasts were detonated within 45 minutes of each other at the Nevada test site. The Atomic Energy Commission said no radiation leaked into the atmosphere from either test.

The weapons device was touched off in the Rainier mesa area of the test site at the end of a 6,000-foot tunnel which was 1,300 feet below the surface of the table top mountain formation.

The blast had a yield of 20 kilotons, about the same force of the atomic bomb dropped on Japan during World War II. It was named Hudson Moon.

The second explosion was part of the Plowshare program to develop peaceful uses of nuclear energy. It was detonated 1,750 feet below the surface of the desert and was labeled Flask. The AEC said it had a yield of 20 to 200 kilotons, or a maximum equivalent of 200,000 tons of TNT.

The two detonations today boosted the total number of underground nuclear tests this year to 23. A total of 223 such tests have been conducted by the United States since the ban on atmospheric tests in 1963.

Novatan Handed 90-Day Sentence For Pot Sales

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday ordered George Tipton Bonomolo, 20, of Novato to jail for 90 days for selling marijuana last year.

The judge indicated that he had been going to make the sentence six months but agreed to go along with a commitment made by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for a 90-day term. The promise had been made to the youth's attorney at the time Bonomolo pleaded guilty to the charge.

The judge, however, ordered that the jail term run consecutively with another 90-day jail sentence Bonomolo is serving for a conviction of threatening a witness in the marijuana case.

Judge McGuire, who noted that Bonomolo's sale of pot did not seem to be a "one-time occurrence," ordered that the youth be placed on probation for three years and that he not use or possess narcotics or associate with persons who do.

Checks, Marijuana Charges Are Denied

Rae Don Hirsch of San Rafael pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to two felonly charges of possessing checks with intent to defraud others on March 10 and 11 and to counts of selling marijuana and amphetamine in November, 1968.

The case was continued to June 22 for setting of a trial.

Proposed Ordinance On Signs To Council

The San Anselmo Planning Commission, after a public hearing last night, approved minor revisions in the city's proposed sign ordinance and passed the package on to the city council for action.

Revisions include: (1) window displays of merchandise will not be considered signs; (2) method of measurement will be the sum of the two smallest adjoining rectangles which can encompass the sign; (3) plant nurseries will be included among those businesses which may have signs with changeable copy.

In general, the proposed ordinance would limit businesses to two permanent use identification signs, limit free-standing signs to a height of 15 feet, and would prohibit blinking or flashing signs.

Restrictions against signs at right angles to buildings was questioned by Donald C. Perry, owner of the Sunnyside Nursery. After some discussion of safety and effectiveness, the commission decided to allow right angle signs only through variance to the general rule.

The proposed ordinance is modeled after Mill Valley's and has been developed over the past year by the San Anselmo Planning Commission.

Sewer Inspection Ordinance Voted

The Homestead Valley Sanitary District last night approved an ordinance permitting inspectors to enter property in the district to hunt for defective sewage laterals.

President James G. MacNichols said the ordinance is necessary before the district can embark on its program of smoke checks of laterals to discover defective lines.

Replacement of such lines is necessary to prevent the infiltration of ground water into the sewage system during rainy weather, MacNichols said.

Long Hairs Denied Unemployment Funds

MONTEREY (AP) — Men with shoulder-length hair or untidy beards and sideburns are being refused unemployment insurance in Monterey.

James E. Hammond, office manager of the state unemployment insurance program, said he started the policy Monday afternoon after a survey of 900 employers.

THE RHYTHM band of the Maroko Island Cooperative Nursery School carries on near Lagos, Nigeria, in the same fashion as at Marin's cooperative nursery school. That's no coincidence, since the West African school was started by a former president of the San Anselmo Cooperative Nursery School. Here the volunteer mother-teacher is Mrs. Ajibade of Maroko Village.

MRS. STANLEY Foster, left, former San Anselmo Cooperative Nursery School president, shows, right, the wife of the Chief Justice of the Nigerian Supreme Court and Mrs. Elbert G. Mathews, wife of the then U.S. Ambassador to Nigeria, the cooperative nursery school that she and volunteer teachers and Nigerian mothers founded on Maroko Island, in a 1968 photo. With Mrs. Foster is her son Paul, then 3. Mrs. Foster was active in the San Anselmo Cooperative school during the two years the family lived in Marin and now the San Anselmo School is exchanging materials and sending funds to the little West Africa cooperative school.

CO-OPERATIVE PROJECT

A Marin-Style Nursery School In Africa

Marin Women

Tuesday, May 26, 1970 Independent-Journal, 15

By BARBARA HOSMER

Similarities between the nursery school on Maroko Island, Nigeria, and in San Anselmo are no coincidence. Nor is a mail exchange program between the two schools.

Because of her experience as president of the San Anselmo Co-operative Nursery School in 1966, Mrs. Stanley Foster was the obvious choice of the Nigerian Women's Association to set up nursery school education near Lagos.

Dottie Foster had been in Nigeria the past four years with her husband, who through the U.S. Alliance for International Development program has been working to eliminate smallpox and measules in Niger with massive vaccination programs. And although she was busy with her three sons, Willie, Andy, and Paul, Mrs. Foster founded a cooperative nursery school on Maroko Island in 1967 and combined with it a mothers' study and literacy class.

People donated toys and a little equipment, a Nigerian midwife loaned her chapel building in the beginning, and Maroko women contributed through various fund-raising "jumble sales," craft sales and a concert.

With her Marin nursery school experience, Dottie Foster has taught the village mothers to run the schoop cooperatively, depending upon American, British, and Nigerian women volunteers to help with the teaching.

The test of its running itself came in the past few months, as Mrs. Foster dropped out to have her fourth child, a baby girl, on April 17.

Earlier the Maroko mothers set up a cooking class, which, writes Mrs. Foster, "turned out to be a meaningful way to teach literacy, nutrition and sanitation." The Nigerian women, in turn, are teaching the Americans living there to cook Nigerian foods. A sewing program was begun, also, and the mothers make the uniforms that their youngsters wear to the nursery school.

Mrs. Foster reports that much of last year was spent building a permanent nursery school on the island in the Niger River, as the temporary quarters were needed by the expanding clinic there. United States AID has provided funds for most materials and the local community is providing the labor, but more funds are needed for the building, Mrs. Foster writes.

Answering a part of the need, the San Anselmo Cooperative Nursery School has sent $100 to help pay the $3,000 more needed for the roof and for skilled labor.

Mrs. R. J. Mayer of the San Anselmo school said that the school here enjoys exchanging photos, recipes, movies and artwork with the Maroko School youngsters, and the Fosters keep in touch through Mrs. Foster's sister, Mrs. John Severinghaus, who lives in Ross. Mrs. Mayer said that Mrs. Foster hopes perhaps other nursery school associations in Marin may wish to help with donations to the Maroko school's building.

The nursery school runs four mornings a week, providing training in hygiene, manners, creative play, developing the child's curiosity and independence, interest in the world around him and giving him an opportunity to learn English in a natural way.

The children receive yearly physical examinations from a doctor and their health is supervised by a nurse. They also receive daily glasses of milk, X-rays as needed, worm medicine and vaccinations, and all teachers and mothers helping are given chest X-rays, the Fosters report.

The Foster family is due to leave Nigeria in August for another assignment. When they do, he can look back on a successful professional effort to combat smallpox and measles among the people, and Mrs. Foster on an on-going cooperative nursery school education for youngsters in a West-African village, styled along the lines of the pre-school education that San Anselmo youngsters are receiving.

"The best part is that it is a one-to-one effort of individuals," comments Mrs. Severinghaus.

PART OF THE Maroko Island Cooperative Nursery school is the mothers' class, taught by volunteers, many of whom were wives of British and American Embassy staff in Lagos, when Mrs. Foster began the school. The Nigerian women set up a nutrition class, which, Mrs. Foster reports, turned out to be a meaningful way to teach literacy and sanitation as well. The Nigerian women also have taught the American and British women to cook Nigerian foods.

HELEN HELP US!

Chronic Battlers Need Shock Treatment To Break The Cycle

DEAR HELEN:

You suggested that kids tape-record parents' fights, so they could hear how they sound. I don't have a recorder — or the nerve — but if my folks don't stop fighting constantly, I'll go out of my tree.

When they aren't screaming and yelling, they're cutting on each other in the meanest way. And I end up in my bedroom with a pillow over my head. My brother and sisters are about to go crazy too.

Would a hunger strike help? We could tell them we won't eat until they learn to get along. — CLOSE TO AN ULCER

DEAR CTAU:

Perhaps a bigger help: When your parents start with the screams and yells, all of you children might get up quietly and walk out of the house. And if this happens during dinner (as fights often do), so much the better. A modified hunger strike isn't so rough on your constitution.

Chronic battlers need shock treatment to break the cycle — which often develops more from habit than hate. A suddenly empty room could speak louder than ultimatums. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My parents are really nice but they can't seem to understand why I sometimes giggle when they scold me.

Why can't parents understand that when something strikes a teen-ager funny, she has to laugh or burst? I'm not making fun of them — it's just that they're kind of out of character when they're mad.

I respect what they say, 'cause we're good friends, but sometimes Mom especially is just plain funny when she gets indignant. I'm really laughing because I appreciate her performance.

Do other kids have this trouble too: Giggling at the wrong moment? — C.S.

DEAR C.:

Yes, other kids have this trouble, but if you giggle right at the wrong moment, chances are your parents will end up laughing with you — at themselves; and you'll all gain more from the encounter. Of course this only works for people who are "kind of out of character when they're mad."

Note to the parents of C.S.: Discipline is no joke, but if you can hang a smile in there somewhere, you've won the day. It never hurts to be human. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm tired of just sitting around and watching the rest of the world go by, or maybe blow up or mess up with wars and riots.

I want to get involved but I'm only 13 and I can't see where or how I fit in.

It seems that all I can do is wait till I'm grown up. But by then I'll probably be like most grown-ups are today — too wrapped up in their own problems to be concerned about anybody or anything else.

Isn't there some way for me to help? — FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED:

The greatest help of all, Honey, is in reaching out — being kind — to those around you, especially those who have fewer advantages. Talk your class into adopting a war orphan; find a distant pen pal and learn from him or her. Read up on your country's problems — and its triumphs too. And above all, don't lump "most grown-ups" into a big, uncaring mass. If you talk to them, you'll find they're just as concerned as you are — and perhaps they can give you more pointers on how a 13-year-old can help. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if your'e having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Ortman Heads Dominican Alumnae

Mrs. Francis Joseph Ortman Jr. of Orinda was installed president of the Dominican College Alumnae Association at the annual homecoming luncheon held Saturday on the college campus in San Rafael.

She has been a member of the alumnae since graduating from the college nine years ago and has been an officer for four years serving as secretary and vice president.

"The alumnae's aim is to provide the college all possible assistance in its plans for growth, and it also aims to help graduates maintain relationships with fellow classmates," says Judith Ortman.

A luncheon in November is also planned by the alumnae association.

A native of Oakland, Mrs. Ortman was graduated from Dominican High School, now San Domenico School for Girls. She and her husband, who is employed by Murphy Pacific Corp., have a son, Francis Joseph Ortman III, 18 months old. Mrs. Ortman is also active in the Santa Barbara Branch of the Providence Hospital Guild and is a member of the Junior League of Oakland. Her hobbies are golf, tennis and skiing.

The alumnae association has also elected Mmes. Robert Fair of San Rafael, vice president; Andrew Tucker of San Francisco, treasurer; and Thomas Bannan of Burlingame, secretary.

Bunny Bosoms Ordered Hidden In London Club

By CHRISTOPHER WHITE

London Express Service

London — Operation cover-up was launched at the London Playboy Club Friday. The object: to lose some of that famous bunny girl sex appeal.

It has all been done to maintain good relations with the gaming board. For the bunnies whose bosoms will now be hidden from the public eye are all croupiers in the Playboy Casinos.

"The gaming board stressed that they didn't think sex appeal should be used to lure customers to the gaming tables and so we, quite voluntarily, decided on operation cover-up."

"The problem was how to make 70 girls chosen for their looks as well as their talent to look 'less provocative,' " said a spokesman for the club.

But, at least gamblers will not be distracted by those bulging low cut bunny swim-suits as the girls lean over the tables to rake in the chips.

The floppy ears and precarious white bob-tails stay but gone are the look-but-don't-touch chorus girl thighs.

The new outfits, complete with two inch micro-skirts, are proving popular with the girls who say, "It adds mystery, and it is more comfortable. You don't feel as though you are about to fall out of it."

Oval Hairstyles

From either the front or the back, summer hairstyles have the shape of a slender oval. They retain the small head look. For those who like something else, crown height is built up with carefree and airy curls. The amount of height is determined by individual needs.

Denise Purse Becomes Bride In Novato Rite

A Novato Presbyterian Church ceremony on May 16 united in marriage Denise Purse and Robert Robertson, both of Novato.

Mrs. William Harrigan of Petaluma was matron of honor for the 2 p.m. ceremony and the bridesmaids were the brides' sisters, Mrs. Joseph Ashworth of San Rafael and Mrs. Paul Ford of Santa Ana, Vicki Hachmyer of Novato, Debbie Robertson of Novato, the bridegroom's sister, and Kim Ford of Santa Ana.

John Pate of Novato served as best man, and the ushers were Richard Rudy, Charles Day and Dave Fields, all of Novato, and Joseph Ashworth of San Rafael.

The reception was held at the Novato home of the bride's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. John Gobbi. The couple are living in Novato after returning from a Southern California wedding trip.

Denise is a Novato High School graduate. Robert also was graduated from Novato High School and is employed with a cable television firm in Novato.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robertson of Novato.

Bowling — Convenient Way To Get The Body In Shape

Miss Sarah Bruce, director of health and recreation for the Washington, D. C., YWCA says many people who have never bowled before are surprised at the exercise they get in this popular sports.

Another expert, Dr. Donald Cassidy of the University of Iowa, advises that a person needs an hour's exercise each day to control and maintain his weight. That's about the time it takes to bow 3 games.

Bowling fills this need. For people of almost any age, bowling is good for toning up the legs, trimming the waistline and hips, and strengthening back and chest muscles.

A study by Prof. G. Lawrence Raric at the University of Wisconsin notes that regular physical activity, in addition to playing a role in the prevention of cardiovascular disease, relieves "the tensions and psychological stresses of man in our complex urban society."

Today's accent is on the good life. But the good life is enjoyed most if a person is in good condition physically and mentally.

At Long Last — Women Studies

By JURATE KAZICKAS

ITHACY, N.Y. (AP)—There's Black Liberation and black studies. There's Women's Liberation and now at long last women's studies. Cornelle University is winding up the first year of a women's study program, believed to be the first in the nation offered by a university for credit.

Organized by Dr. Joy Osofsky, a 25-year-old Ph.D. in psychology, the program was open to males and females alike and, in the words of one student, was "the most interesting course I've ever taken. And maybe the most controversial, too."

For one semester, more than 200 students, plus 100 more who audited, discussed such varied topics as "The History of Black Women" "Woman as Sex Object in Playboy," and "Power Relationships in the Family."

One married man among the 34 enrolled males said he took the course so he could better understand his very independent wife and live happily with her. Hannah Gould, a junior from Troy, N.Y., said she wanted to learn more about the female personality. Diane Carly, an animal science major from Salamanca, N.Y., said she had been antagonistic to the Women's Liberation movement but now understood more of what it wanted.

"We wanted to start the women thinking of themselves as members of a class with problems," said Sheilah Tobias, one of the teachers.

The students themselves produced term papers on such topics as "Woman as Fertility Goddess," "Male and Female Sexual Response," and "The Utopian Woman."

Several men said they never had realized how much women were discriminated against in employment. "I'd advise every man to take this course," said Bob Josephson, a math major from Wheaton, Ill. "I never realized there were so many radical women around."

Weekly discussions that followed the lectures involved students in projects like surveying television shows for their image of women. The students found that many shows projected women of very low intelligence whereas men were much more realistically portrayed.

Half Of Big Mesa Project Approved

Sherman Smith will be allowed to develop half of his 15-lot subdivision on the Big Mesa in Bolinas without approval from the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, the Marin County Planning Commission voted yesterday in a split decision.

Approval came on the aye votes by Jack G. Nixon, Walter F. Freitas anr Margaret B. Azevedo, one opposition vote by John F. West, and an abstention by Hugh Dougherty. The subdivision is at the corner of Mesa and Bolinas-Olema roads.

Dougherty abstained because he is a director of the Stinson Beach Public Utility Distirct, which is working on sewer problems jointly with the Bolinas Public Utilities District, of which developer Smith is a director.

Smith's attorney, Bryan McCarthy, said the only thing that was blocking approval of the subdivision, called Spanish Bit Properties, is the requirement that the regional water quality control board approve a sewer plan. This requirement has held up the tentative map for three years because the regional board refused to act, said McCarthy.

The county department of environmental health approved the subdivision on condition that Smith develop alternate lots, to be served by septic tanks, and not develop the other lots until sewer connections become available.

Smith is perfectly willing to connect all 15 lots to a sewer system as soon as it becomes available, said McCarthy.

Commissioner West said he would vote approval if the developer would put up a bond or surety to insure that the entire subdivision would be connected to a sewer system.

McCarthy agrued that when the planning commission gave conditional approval to the subdivision last October, the motion by Niels Schultz Jr. did not include the requirement for approval by the water quality control board. The only reason that requirement exists is because the minutes of that meeting were in error, said McCarthy.

After more than an hour of argument, the commissioners gave Smith the go-ahead on half of his lots, with West dissenting.

Lawson's Landing Trailer Park, Marina Plan Runs Into Trouble

A huge trailer park and marina plan at Lawson's Landing, south of Dillon Beach, ran into objections from both the Marin County Planning Commission and the planning staff yesterday.

Merle Lawson asked for a use permit to add 140 more trailer lots, 131 overnight camp sites, and a marina for 200 to 250 boats on 140 acres. He already has about 170 trailer spaces and 75 camping sites in operation.

Werner Von Gundell and his planning staff objected particularly to Lawson's plan for a solid tier of trailers along the shoreline. "The trailers would block out the view of the water for everyone," declared Von Gundell. "This kind of shoreline development is about as disastrous as anything we've seen."

Von Gundell said the county department of environmental health is ready to close down the existing trailer camps unless Lawson comes up with an acceptable sewerage plan.

Irving Schwartz of the public works department said he has serious questions about the drainage in the area and also questions the need to put trailers along the shoreline. Without a contour map and a grading plan for Lawson's Landing, Schwart said he cannot make a detailed engineering study.

Lawson agreed to install underground power distribution lines but asked that about a half-mile of feeder line through the area be allowed above ground. Commissioner Jack G. Nixon said he would prefer undergrounding of the feeder lines.

"I have some objections to power lines running over the sand dunes," said Nixon. "We're making a long term commitment so let's do it right."

Von Gundell also insisted on a central television antenna to serve the entire development. "We will have a sea of TV antennas," he protested.

The planning commissioners decided there are too many unanswered questions and continued the use permit request for another hearing on June 22.

Lawson's request for reroning of 1.8 acres of land to the south of Dillon Beach from limited agricultural to commercial was rejected by the planning commissioners. Lawson wanted to put in a coin-operated laundry in residential areas to the south of Dillon Beach. Commissioners said that enough commercial area exists in the present Beach area for a laundry.

Motel Room Looted

Cash totaling $750, clothing valued at $375 and three suitcases, a watch and other items worth $135 were stolen between 8:30 a.m. yesterday and 1 a.m. today from the room of John L. Martin of Sebastopol at the Villa Rafael Motel, 1606 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael police have reported.

Bad Check Hearing

A preliminary hearing has been set for June 16 in Marin Municipal Court for Robert Rocco La Briola II, 30, of Redondo Beach, an ex-convict who is accused of passing a worthless check in Marin on May 3, 1969.

$1,365 In Antique Items Are Stolen

A burglar who smashed a front display window sometime before 2:10 a.m. today stole items valued at more than $1,365 from Filipello and Filipello Antiques, 810 B Street, San Rafael police have reported.

Articles stolen included, according to police, a teakwood bridge and six ivory elephants valued at $350; a $55 Chinese game set; a $750 bronze head and two bronze vases worth $85 each. About four other articles of undetermined value were also taken, police said.

Auto Is Looted Of Several Items

Thieves sometime between Friday and yesterday stole equipment including a radio, range burner, drain hose and a battery from a station wagon owned by National Appliance Service and parked at their firm at 81 Jacoby Street, San Rafael police reported today.

The thieves also stole the battery from another company station wagon parked nearby, police said. The total loss was estimated at $156, according to police.

Lindsay Hires Ex-Nixon Aide

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon E. Panetta, who said President Nixon fired him for pushing school desegregation too vigorously, was hired Tuesday as an aide to Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Panetta, 31, stepped down in February as head of the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, charging that the Nixon administration had deliberately encouraged defiance of the Supreme Court's order to end dual school systems immediately.

Lindsay, a Republican who frequently criticizes Nixon's policies, said Panetta will coordinate the city's Albany and Washington offices. His salary has not yet been fixed, Lindsay said.

Small Car Stolen

A dark blue 1966 two-door Volkswagen coupe with license RTR 266 owned by Richard J. Ryan of 91 Grande Paseo, San Rafael and parked at the Terra Linda High School parking lot was stolen yesterday between 1 and 3 p.m., San Rafael police reported today.

To Juvenile Court

The case of Brian Lee Gilbert, 19, of no known address yesterday was transferred to Marin Juvenile Court from Municipal Court. The youth is accused of possessing marijuana when arrested May 6 in a room at the Mission Lodge in Novato, where police went after a complaint by the manager.

Authority On Marina Questioned

Did the Marin County Board of Supervisors overstep its authority in requiring a property owner to dovetail his development with an adjoining development and bring in an integrated plan?

This question was posed yesterday at a meeting of the Marin County Planning Commission.

On March 31, supervisors told Leonard B. Fleischman that his Strawberry Cove marina plan for 108 units along Seminary Drive would not be considered unless it was integrated with Clipper Yacht Co.'s marina-restaurant plan immediately to the south along the same Strawberry Cove.

The supervisors also ordered all structures to be on hard land and that Fleischman provide open areas along the waterfront.

Fleischman, who has been trying to get his development approved since December of 1968, said he is willing to meet all requirements but is stymied by the requirement to "integrate" his plan with Clipper Yacht Co. He said he cannot get together with the other owner, Clifford M. Pedersen.

"Can the supervisors require one owner to develop in conjunction with an adjacent owner?" asked Chairman Walter F. Freitas. "I think that would be invalid."

"It's a pity we don't have at least one attorney on the board (of supervisors)," added Hugh Dougherty.

Freitas asked the planning staff to consult the county counsel to see if the county supervisors can legally force one owner to integrate his plan with another.

Fleischman said his main problem now is to get his marina apartment plan divorced from the Clipper Yacht Co. development so that he can proceed on his own without being bogged down by the Clipper proposal.

San Marin Residents Slate Two Meetings

A public meeting of the San Marin Improvement Association board will be held at 8 p.m. today at the San Ramon Elementary School library to discuss plans for the Novato Creek park, according to publicity chairman Mary Musanto.

The association will sponsor a candidates' night at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the San Ramon School for J. Wayne Womack and Arnold Baptiste, candidates for supervisor from the Fifth District.

'Horsey' Atmosphere Pleaded By Novatans

Residents of west and south Novato like their "horsey atmosphere and want to retain their half-acre and acre sites.

A large delegation jammed a hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday, and the overwhelming majority asked for agricultural zoning of half-acres or more, instead of residential zoning of 7,500 and 10,000 square feet.

Planning commissioners opened the hearing on a proposal to rezone unincorporated areas west and south of Novato and continued the hearing until June 22 to give the Novato City Planning Commission time to study the proposed rezoning.

Planner Rowland Darnell explained that the proposed rezoning would leave the "intown" area from Mill Road to San Marin generally in first class residential of 7,500 square feet and 10,000 square feet minimum lots.

Most of the remaining outlying areas would be rezoned to 20,000 square feet or one-acre minimum lots. This would include parts of Sutro Avenue, Vineyard Road, Wilson Avenue, McClay Road, Bowman Canyon and Indian Valley.

"Most of us want to go from 7,500 to a full one acre," said Michael Maxfield of 1750 Indian Valley Road. "We feel that's the only way to keep our horses."

Only Harold Bloom of Indian Valley Road and two others on Wilson Avenue said they did not want larger minimum lot sizes.

Marin County Planning Commission Also:

TELLIS HARBOR — Approved a use permit for a new dock and berthing facilities for 26 houseboats on property owned by Miriam M. Tellis in Richardson Bay near Gate 6. Mrs. Tellis owns the block bounded by Hombult Avenue, Grove Street, Donahue Avenue and Eureka Street.

BOLINAS MESA — Approved rezoning 1.3 acres on Bolinas Mesa from commercial to one-family homes with 5,400 square feet minimum lots. The lots are located near the Bolinas Community Club on the Elm Road end of four separate blocks — Kale, Laurel, Maple, and Nymph. This must go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors for final approval.

SILVER HILLS — Continued until June 8 the tentative map of Silver Hills subdivision unit 1, a 28-lot development proposed on 40 acres along Silver Hills Road south of Inverness, west of the intersection of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Bear Valley Road. The area is not within the boundaries of the Point Reyes Seashore.

MOBILE HOMES — Granted Henry Lautrup a four year extension of his use permit for his Palm Lane Mobile Home Village on Atherton Avenue near Novato until 1975, at which time the property is due to be reevaluated for commercial use, such as a shopping center.

Mayors, Councilmen To Name Delegates

Marin County Mayors and Councilmen will elect members to various county and Bay Area government agencies at a dinner meeting tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito. Nominations were made in April for Marin representatives to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District, the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Regional Criminal Justice Advisory Board of the Association of Bay Area Governments, and the Golden Gate Bridge District board.

U.S. Still Fights $7 Billion Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department said today it would press its efforts to prevent the $7 billion merger of International Telephone and Telegraph Company and Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The merger has been approved by Connecticut's state insurance commissioner, and a U.S. District Court in New Haven has refused to grant an injunction against it.

But a Justice Department spokesman said the government would continue court action if the two companies actually carry out the merger. Under an unusual court ruling, the companies must continue to operate separately until the court case is settled. The case has been ordered to trial, but no date has been set.

Oregon ranked fourth in the nation in 1969 in total value of vegetables grown for processing —an estimated $31.4 million.

Due Process Rule Ready For College

Working quickly and with little disagreement, a minority of the Marin Junior College District board last night overhauled the College of Marin "due process procedure" which wracked the campus last fall.

The three board members present told the staff to prepare the revised procedures for full board action at the June 4 meeting.

The group revised a new due process procedure which was recommended several months ago by the Academic Senate and College Cabinet.

Major changes were in the composition of the committee on student conduct, abolition of a proposed appeals committee, and provision for a lawyer to sit as hearing officer and run the conduct committee hearings when the college president deems it advisable.

The college was disrupted last fall when a group of students broke up an October board meeting. When disciplinary proceedings were started against them, students complained that college rules did not provide genuine due process to protect them. Disciplinary action was finally taken but it took several weeks for the procedure to be completed.

The proposed policy lists student conduct which is considered grounds for disciplinary action, and lays out discipline procedures.

As proposed after last night's workshop meeting, the student conduct committee would be composed of three students, three faculty members and two administrators.

A student appealing discipline imposed by the dean of students would file an appeal with the dean, and the committee would set up a hearing. If the committee failed to meet or failed to complete its hearing in good time, the president could proceed without waiting for its recommendation.

The president also could appoint a hearing officer, who would be a member of the California bar, to conduct the hearing if he felt it desirable. Otherwise one of the two administrators would run the hearing.

The committee recommendation would go directly to the president. Students would still have the right of appeal to the college board if dissatisfied with the president's decision.

Last fall's disciplinary proceedings were stalled for a time because students had a majority on the student conduct committee (four students, two faculty members and one administrator) and refused to take part because they argued the procedure was not true due process.

The proposed changes would give no group a committee majority, and would let the president proceed with action if the committee stalled.

Labor Council Hits Policy In Southeast Asia

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 100 delegates of the San Francisco Labor Council unanimously opposed Monday night American involvement in Southeast Asia.

The council also authorized a referendum among all local AFL-CIO members.

Stressing that they spoke for themselves only, the delegates supported a Senate measure to cut off funds for Cambodia operation by July 1 and in Laos and South Vietnam by December.

They urged immediate repeal of the Gulf of Tonkin resolution and accused President Nixon of "deception, dishonesty and violation of our Constitution" in sending troops to Cambodia.

A similar resolution has been adopted by Alameda, Contra Costa and Santa Clara councils and several Bay Area unions.

U.S. To Upgrade Cambodia Ties?

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, (UPI)—Foreign Ministry sources said today the United States will appoint an ambassador to Cambodia in a move to strengthen diplomatic ties between Washington and Phnom Penh.

The United States has been represented here by a charge d'affaires—a step below ambassador. The charge d'affaires in office now is Michael Rives, but foreign Ministry sources said he would not be selected as the new ambassador.

An official White House announcement on the appointment of an ambassador is expected next week, the Foreign Ministry sources said.

Texas Senator Opposes Simon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, Monday called Norton Simon "a stalking horse" for Democrats in the California Republican race for the U.S. Senate and urged the renomination of the incumbent, Sen. George Murphy.

Tower said he didn't regard Simon as a legitimate Republican candidate. He said the Los Angeles industrialist has previously contributed to Democratic election campaigns.

In 1968, 216 million persons passed through United States' Customs inspection. They arrived at 400 ports of entry, ranging from New York to tiny airports where only a few international charter flights land in a year.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Inflamed Hemorrhoid Tissues Promptly Relieved

New York, N.Y. There's an exclusive formula that in case after case promptly relieves such burning itch and pain of piles for hours and it also helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoid tissues caused by inflammation. And it does it without narcotics or astringents that often sting or smart.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this so. The answer is Preparation H®. No prescription is needed for Preparation H.

Open letter to Tiburon Peninsula residents from Tom Price, Jim Richwagen, Leo Souza, Ken Wells, and Gordon Wright - the Reed School District trustees:

Join us in voting "YES" on the Reed School District tax proposal June 2

Tom Price: "Voter approval of the tax election will provide funds to bring our present buildings and other facilities up to standard. It has been estimated that we need $75,000 over the next years just for this one important item. We need additional funds to bring Reedland Woods School to its full potential, to enrich the educational program, and to provide needed teacher salary increases."

Jim Richwagen: "Among the other benefits the tax increase will provide are employment of specialists in mathematics and reading. I hope that all voters will recognize the important potential values of this tax proposal and approve it."

Leo Souza: "The two controlling reasons why I support the tax election are spiraling inflation and quality education. Just as in our homes and in private industry, nearly all the costs of operating our schools are higher. Some of the 'dropped' educational programs should be restored, and the overall teacher-pupil ratio should be improved."

Kenneth Wells: "Children will profit from school programs which go above and beyond simple basics. It behooves us to offer our children the best educational opportunities we can afford. It is desirable that some of the programs curtailed last year--such as art, wood shop, home economics, music, outdoor education, field trips, and the more able learner program—be restored and augmented."

Gordon Wright: "I strongly believe that all of the needs which have been pointed out as justification for a tax increase are real needs. It is important that we meet pressing financial needs for the educational program, for personnel, for facilities, for materials, and for other requirements."

The problem is obvious. In spite of strict economies and budget pruning during the past year, the Reed School District needs more money.

The money is needed to: (1) restore some of the programs which had to be cut due to insufficient funds, (2) help defray costs of opening Reedland Woods School, (3) re-establish our program of preventive maintenance and repairs for our aging buildings, (4) start an on-going evaluation of our educational programs, (5) retain and recruit experienced teachers, our most valuable asset.

What will it cost? While the ballot asks for an increase of up to 60c, the Trustees have unanimously agreed to levy only 35c during the 1970-71 year. This means about $37 a year or $3 a month increase on an average ($45,000) home in the Reed School District. It's a small price to pay.

The time is now. There hasn't been an increase in the general purpose tax rate since 1958—in spite of 12 years of inflation. Will you help? The answer is "YES" on June 2.

Vote "YES" on June 2

Synanon Now Fights Cigarettes

Synanon, a group dedicated to licking drug addiction, has begun to fight another habit: cigarettes.

For years the only rules at Synanon were that no violence or mind-bending drugs were allowed within the walls. Now the group's 1,600 residents throughout California and in Detroit, Mich., will not be allowed a smoke either.

Walter Lewbel, executive assistant as the Marshall Synanon facility, said the new policy extends to "tobacco of all kinds—cigarettes, cigars, pipes."

He said the ban was issued more than a week ago by the Synanon governing board, but added that Marshall center residents have been "cold turkey" for about one month.

Lewbel's secretary, Glenda Garrett said about 90 of the 110 residents at Marshall were smokers before the ban, but each has quit. She said many non-residents have given up the habit too.

Cigarettes joined dope because residents felt it was hypocritical to fight addiction and continue smoking, she said.

The ban is expected to mean a saving of $200,000 a year for the organization since it no longer needs to purchase cigarettes for its 1,600 residents.

Planners To Decide On Mobile Homes

The San Rafael Planning Commission will decide today at its 7:30 p.m. meeting in city hall whether it will recommend allowing mobile homes in the city.

At a special meeting last week the commissioners authorized the planning department to begin drafting a preliminary ordinance on mobile home parks but postponed deciding if they wanted them in San Rafael.

At present, the San Rafael municipal code allows trailers or mobile homes to be located in the city, but restricts them to an area near B Street and Woodland Avenue.

The commissioners will also consider the proposed subdivision of three lots owned by John W. Mountz at 6 Vistawood Way and 110 Ridgewood Drive.

They will also consider an application for a use permit for the building of a warehouse and office complex by Holiday Magic at 520 Jacoby Street.

Russ Jetliner At 1,336-Mile Speed

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet TU144 supersonic transport streaked through the sky near Moscow today at twice the speed of sound.

"No passenger plane in the world has ever flown at such a speed," Tass said in reporting the test run.

It said chief test pilot Eduard Yelyan pushed the sleek, droop-nose jet to 1,336 miles per hour at an altitude of 10 miles.

It was the highest speed yet developed by the TU144, which made the world's first flight of a supersonic airliner on the last day of 1968.

Seeks Delay On Building Canal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —The San Francisco Board of Supervisors has asked for a delay in building the planned Peripheral Canal in the Sacramento-San Joaquin River delta so the effect on the San Francisco Bay can be studied.

A letter Monday to state officials asked for no construction until "objective and expert analysis assures our residents that the waters of the bay will not be damaged by the operation of the canal."

The letter offered by Supervisor Robert Mendelsohn said that any reduction in the flow of fresh water from the delta could be deadly to marine life.

Leake Calls Demand He Quit 'Publicity Stunt'

A candidate for the Third District seat on the State Board of Equalization — in a move branded a "publicity stunt" by incumbent Paul R. Leake — has demanded that Leake resign because he does not live within the district.

Republican Robert E. Mihalisin, of West Sacramento, one of 15 candidates seeking to succeed Leake, made the demand in a letter to him dated May 20.

"His campaign has not caught fire. His opponents say he is starving for publicity," Leake said yesterday.

Mihalisin accused Leake of living in San Francisco in violation of state law which requires a board member to live in the area he represents.

He called on Leake to "disprove the allegations, or failing in that, to take what I feel to be the only honorable course of action, to wit, resign effective as soon as possible, and in no event later than June 2, 1970."

Leake said he and his wife do maintain a small apartment at 405 Serrano Drive in San Francisco, but "Woodland is and always has been our home." Woodland, Yolo County, is in the Third District.

"We've never registered or voted anyplace else. We pay our taxes and do our banking in Woodland," he said.

State law requires that a board member be a resident of art area he represents for one year before his election and during his term in office. A board member is disqualified if he moves from the district during his incumbency. The Third District stretches from Marin to the Oregon border.

Mihalisin also wrote a letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan asking him to investigate his charge, and upon substantiation, declare the post vacant.

Kaiser Buys Into Glass Industry

OAKLAND (UPI)—Kaiser Industries Corp. announced today it has purchased through a subsidiary the Glass Fibers Products Co., of Azusa.

The stock of the Southern California company had been held privately by Clyde Williams, former president of Batelle Memorial Institute, and his associates. Purchase price was not disclosed.

The move is the first by Kaiser Industries into the production of textile glass fiber, used in manufacture of automobiles, boats, tires and other products. Glass Fibres, Inc., is the only manufacturer of textile glass in the West.

The company employs 40 persons. A Kaiser spokesman said production would be increased.

Change Taken

Change totaling $120 and about $25 or $30 in currency was stolen Saturday or Sunday at Eugene's County Club, 88 Vivian from Eugene's County Club, 88 Vivian Way, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Nixon Asks Sharp Pencils On Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has asked all federal departments and agencies to evaluate their programs with the goal of cutting the 1972 budget.

"We must exert at least as much —and sometimes more — effort to save the taxpayers money as we do to spend it," Nixon said in a special memo.

'Fair Taxes For All' Seminar Scheduled

A seminar entitled "Fair Taxer for All" will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

The seminar, sponsored by the Statewide Homeowners Association, the Marin County Taxpayers Association and the Henry George School of Northern California, will be moderated by real estate broker Joe H. Stewart of Corte Madera.

Kinds and effects of taxes and how property values are created by the community will be discussed by Robert Tideman, executive vice president of the Henry George School.

John Denton, real estate counselor and former head of the University of California real estate extension program, will discuss population and conservation factors in real estate appraisal practices.

Harry F. Sublett of West Sacramento, a Third District candidate for the state Board of Equalization, will speak on the role of special interests and present data showing how they benefit from tax favors.

A workshop meeting will follow a 12:30 p.m. luncheon. Dr. William J. Filante of Greenbrae, past president of the Henry George School will be the day's last speaker.

Board To Consider Advisory Reports

Staff reactions to reports of the citizens advisory committee will be heard when the San Rafael Board of Education meets at 7:30 p.m. today in the district office.

The board received copies of committee reports in January and has heard them summarized in subsequent meetings. The discussion today will include possible steps to implement committee recommendations, Supt. John F. Plank said.

Pizza Parlor Charge Is Denied

Philip David Harrison, 19, of Sleepy Hollow, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing Shakey's Pizza Parlor in San Rafael March 18.

Harrison was shot by a police officer as he ran from the restaurant after failing to stop when two warning shots were fired. He was not seriously injured.

Marin Kiwanis Clubs Plan Second Air Show

The second annual air show, sponsored by Southern Marin and Novato Kiwanis clubs, will be held Aug. 8 and 9 at Gnoss Field, Mickey Horn, chairman of the show, has announced.

There will be antique airplanes, a B-29, World War II bomber, gliders and aerial acrobatics. A crowd of 20,000 is expected, Horn said. Anyone interested in participating in the show should get in touch with the Novato Kiwanis Club at 926 Diablo Avenue.

Cocaine, Marijuana Charges Admitted

Peter Lee Arbuthnot, 31, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of possessing cocaine in December, 1969, and possessing marijuana in September, 1969.

An additional count of having marijuana in December was dismissed by Judge E. Warren McGuire, who set sentencing for July 20.

LOUIS HENSLEY
Marin City senior

Marin City's Seniors Pick Louis Hensley

Louis Hensley, 67, a volunteer mini-bus driver, has been nominated by the Marin City Seniors for Marin's outstanding senior citizen of 1970.

Hensley, who worked as an order filler at the Atlas Paper Co. warehouse for 23 years, has a new job.

He said he retired two-and-a-half years ago when the company's warehouse burned down, and he is now volunteering his time to transport elderly residents and handicapped children to doctor appointments and hospitals.

"I have a little mini-bus that holds about eight or ten people, and I drive three days a week," he explained.

Hensley is a Sunday School teacher at the First Baptist Church in Marin City and hasn't missed a session in 13 years.

A native of Fort Worth, Tex., he has been a resident of Marin City for 26 years and is a member of San Francisco Lodge 39, Free and Accepted Masons.

On his bus runs, he said, he picks up people in many areas—Novato, Terra Linda, Venetia Oaks, Corte Madera, Marin City and Tiburon.

He has a son, Louis, who is a parole officer in Santa Rosa.

Hensley and other nominees will be honored at a luncheon Thursday, at the Holiday Inn, San Rafael.

Nixon's In-Law Joins Ball Club

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Baseball buff David Eisenhower, son-in-law of President Nixon, has taken a temporary job with the Washington Senators, the White House said today.

David, 22, will be doing "odd jobs" with the American League club, helping on statistics and writing profiles on players, a White House spokesman said. He went to work Monday.

The job will be shortlived. David and his wife Julie, 21, will fly to Japan June 26 to represent Nixon at "United States Day" at the Osaka world's fair.

Young Eisenhower substituted for the President on the opening day of the baseball season last month by throwing out the first ball in the traditional presidential opener here between Washington and Detroit.

Riles Coffee

A coffee for Wilson Cm Riles, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, will be held at 8 p.m. today at the home of William R. Hambrecht, 220 Beach Road, Belvedere. A previous announcement had the wrong address, according to Marion Cedarblade of the Riles campaign headquartes in Marin.

Red Rice Crop Up

ROME (UPI)— Communist China's 1969 rice crop totaled about 95 million tons and was the biggest in several years, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization FAO said today. This compared with about 91 million tons the previous year.

Which man should represent Republicans in the U.S. Senate?

SENATOR MURPHY

a nice man, whom we all like, but who has saddened us by running for a second term. His accomplishments during the past six years have not been up to the fast pace and needs of California.

War and Peace

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted against the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty in opposition to President Nixon and an overwhelming majority of Republican Senators (March 13, 1969).

Called for waging an all-out war in North Vietnam (March 28, 1967); urged President to give the military free hand in stepping up the bombing of North Vietnam (September 17, 1967). Majority of Republican Senators and President Nixon have strongly opposed escalation of the war. The President's committed policy is to withdraw troops, not to intensify the Vietnam war.

Voted against an appropriation to continue the works of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (March 10, 1965). An overwhelming number of Republican Senators supported the proposal.

Voted against a Senate amendment expressing congressional support for all persons trying to arrange an honorable settlement of the war in Vietnam (March 1, 1967). Again an overwhelming number of Republicans favored the amendment.

Health and the Environment

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted to deny Secretary H.E.W. the authority to set federal standards for water quality (January 28, 1965). A majority of Republican Senators voted to give the authority to the Secretary.

Consumer Protection

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted to repeal the section of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act requiring standard weights and quantities on goods sold to the public (June 8, 1966).

Education

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted against the Elementary and Secondary Education Act providing grants to states for textbooks and other classroom essentials (April 9, 1965). A majority of Republican Senators supported the Act.

Public Expenditures

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted against an amendment requiring regular cost reports by the Defense Department on major contracts and audits by the General Accounting Office (August 7, 1969). Voted against a ceiling of $100,000 on price support loans and payments to a single agricultural producer (September 14, 1965). A majority of Republican Senators supported the ceiling.

Financial Disclosure

SENATOR MURPHY

Voted against an amendment prohibiting joint ventures by senators and lobbyists and preventing lobbyists from giving a senator gifts in excess of $100 (February 8, 1967).

Voted against an amendment requiring senators to file annual financial statements with the Secretary of the Senate (February 8, 1967).

Voted against an amendment requiring members of Congress and candidates for Congress to disclose their assets, liabilities, securities, gifts and outside income (September 12, 1967).

In a majority of cases, Murphy's votes on the above questions were in opposition to the majority of Republican senators.

NORTON SIMON

an innovator, corporate executive, authority on education, benefactor of the arts and his own man. His unique qualities single him out as a man of courage and rare ability to represent the largest State in the Union in the U.S. Senate.

NORTON SIMON

"I fully support the Non-proliferation Treaty, and the earlier Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, as important steps toward cessation of the costly and dangerous arms race."

"I have long favored a steady withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam as rapidly as possible."

"We must continue, through all agencies at our command, to achieve enforceable arms limitation treaties and thus reduce our massive defense budget."

"I believe the President must be given all possible latitude, through both formal and unofficial channels, to effect the earliest possible withdrawal of our forces in Southeast Asia, and to insure a stable peace through international agreements."

NORTON SIMON

"There can be no progress toward effective control of water or air pollution until we establish and enforce appropriate standards."

NORTON SIMON

"We must have stronger laws to protect the consumer from fraudulent and misleading labeling and advertising."

NORTON SIMON

"To vote against greater federal assistance to our local schools is to impose an even greater tax burden on the home-owner."

NORTON SIMON

"Many of the accounting practices in Washington invite abuse and would bankrupt a private corporation. We must demand a strict accounting of every tax dollar spent and enforce realistic limits on the subsidization of private business."

NORTON SIMON

"The Republican Party views public office as a public trust. I support laws for reasonable disclosure of assets, income and business associations. It is my further conviction that powerful lobbies in Washington are responsible for many of the policies now damaging our economy."

Now we Republicans must stop and think before June 2nd. Are we going to vote because of sentiment or in these very difficult times are we going to vote for new, dynamic, responsive leadership for California? The answer is NORTON SIMON.

NOWHERE ROAD — A Point Reyes National Seashore road (right) begins in the middle of a field where only stray cows and an occasional hiker can use it and winds through cuts (left) in Bolinas Ridge to an unscheduled end somewhere in the wilds of the seashore. The black-top ribbon was supposed to extend to Limantour Spit, but completion was detoured by lack of funds. (Independent-Journal photo)

Nowhere, Nowhen Point Reyes Road

Rumors that a three-year-old road in Point Reyes National Seashore that has yet to carry a tourist's car will never do so may be unfounded, but the completion of the road is nowhere in sight.

The four-mile stretch of black-top beginning near Bear Valley Road and running towards Limantour Spit and Drake's Estero will probably be completed whenever the right-of-way is purchased and funds are alloted, seashore Supt. John L. Sansing said. He didn't know when that would be.

The road, which begins in a field, will be completed because it is the only planned access to Limantour spit; however, the access artery may not be extended out onto the spit as originally planned, Sansing said.

This may have been the source of the rumor.

Landowners were bitterly opposed to the artery because they said the road did not go to the junction of Hagerty Gulch and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard as Congress had ordered, did not give new access to the park, but was being used merely to add unauthorized land to the park.

Original plans called for the road to be completed during 1970, but it has obviously fallen behind that pace.

"When it was originally planned, they thought the acquisition plan would move fast enough so that we could continue with the road," National Park Service Regional Director Joseph C. Rumberg said in San Francisco.

He said he expects the road to be completed.

John Richie, San Francisco head of land acquisition for the National Park Service, said he had received no requests for land acquisition for the road.

However, land puchases in the seashore are expected to be completed within 13 months if Congress approves the funds.

Sansing said the future of the road will depend on the recommendations of a master plan committee that has just been formed, but the road's completion should be included in them.

The original plan called for the road to begin at a proposed ranger station on Bear Valley Road and loop northwest to Balboa Avenue and toward Laguna Beach and Drake's Estero.

Richie said there have been no estimates of the cost of completion as far as he knows.

Horse Rider Dies In Fall

Enid Elkington, 37, of Novato, died yesterday of head injuries after she fell from a horse in rough terrain west of Novato and was dragged by the reins.

Rescuers, lacking her location, searched for Mrs. Elkington for nearly an hour before finding her and evacuating her to a hospital, Novato Fire Chief Jack Kidder said.

Mrs. Elkington, of 783 Story Book Court, was riding with Mrs. Edwin V. Grundstrom of Novato on Big Rock Ridge, on Burnt Ridge Road at Stone Gap.

Descending a steep trail, she fell from the saddle and was dragged a short distance. Mrs. Grundstrom rode to the home of August J. De Grezia at 1709 Indian Valley Road to seek help, and Novato firemen started for the scene at 11:56 a.m.

Mrs. Grundstrom returned to Mrs. Elkington, and the firemen were unable to find the victim in the maze of mountain trails. They called in an airplane from Marin Aviation to search for her, and pilot Richard Duste spotted her shortly before the fire truck arrived at the scene.

Mrs. Elkington was brought off the rugged mountain in a four-wheel drive truck to a waiting ambulance. Firemen gave oxygen to the unconscious woman as they brought her down.

She was taken first to Novato General Hospital, then to Marin General Hospital, where she died at 2:45 p.m., according to Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig.

She is survived by her husband, George J. Elkington Jr. Funeral is pending at Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato.

Fourth Of Young Escapers Nabbed

A 16-year-old Marin City boy who escaped with eight other youths from Marin County Juvenile Hall May 20 was returned to the hall last night by Marin City sheriff's deputies.

Ben Randolph, 708 Drake Avenue, was the fourth of the escapees to be returned to the facility, according to Erick F. Yarchin, hall superintendent.

Kevin Smith, 420 Riviera Drive, San Rafael; Joseph Cutrufelli, 15, 164 Deer Hollow Road, Sleepy Hollow, and David W. Deem, 16, of 814 Hacienda Way, Santa Venetia, are back in custody, Yarchin said.

Still missing are: Michael D. Cronin, 15, of 26 Zephyr Court, Marinwood; Patrick Ghilotti, 14, of 32 Ridgewood Drive, San Rafael; Chris Beltramini, 16, of 148 Madison Avenue, San Rafael; Steven M. Scharton, 16, of 125 Hawthorn Way, Santa Venetia and Richard Frydenlund, 16, of 32 Madrone Avenue, Woodacre.

The boys escaped from the hall by prying loose a wire screen in an outside activity room.

Poll Supports Cambodian Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Public opinion on President Nixon's ordering U.S. troops into Cambodia is divided 50 per cent in favor of the move and 43 per cent against, according to a Harris Poll released by the Chicago Tribune syndicate.

The poll results published here Monday showed the heaviest support for the President's action came from the South and West, from residents of small towns and rural areas and from older persons.

Opposition was said to be greatest among those under 30 years of age, among women, Easterners, and those who reside in suburbs and urban centers.

Teacher Resignation Policy Panel Formed

Lagunitas School District trustees last night approved creation of a special committee to delve into district policy on handling acceptance of teacher resignations.

Supt. Marshall J. McCunniff said the committee, to be made up of a board member, a teacher and a member of the district administrative staff, will clarify the board's policy which gives teachers the option of meeting with the board in open session to discuss resignations.

McCunniff explained that questions have been raised as to whether the board should hear teachers before or after acting on resignations.

The action was spurred last night by a trustee-teacher mixup earlier this month. The board accepted four teacher resignations in closed session, contradicted the action in its minutes, and was later asked by one teacher that his resignation be voided. The board denied his request.

The Lagunitas School District Board Also:

TESTING — Heard reports on the district's testing programs required by the state. McCunniff said most grades performed about average, but first grades scored high.

CLASS CUT — Learned that funds for a state supported program for teaching children who lack motivation have been reduced by half. McCunniff said if the tax increase is approved by voters at theJune 2 election, additional funds would be available to continue the program full-time.

Rohnert Park League Finances Prospering

Fund raising campaigns and community sponsorship have put the boys' baseball program on a paying basis, the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission heard last night.

Chairman Ronald E. Rasmussen said that the boys' program, similar to the Little League, has a surplus of $50 in its treasury despite the enlargement of the league to 14 teams this year.

He said that through various fund raising efforts, the teams have been able to buy all of their equipment and that money budgeted for the league can be used for baseball programs for older boys.

Rohnert Park Recreation Commission Also:

LEASE — Said it would study the possibility of leasing land owned by Hugh Codding on the west side of Highway 101 for recreation purposes until he develops a shopping center. Topographical studies will be included to determine what activities can be planned for the land without large expenditures of funds.

CHECK — Received a check for $200 from the Redwood Empire Kennel Club to be used to plant trees at Benecia Park, the site of the club's annual dog show.

CREDIT — Said it would study the possibility of allowing residents to use credit cards to purchase family pool memberships.

Council Eyes Unresolved Agenda Items

Topics for future consideration by the Mill Valley City Council were discussed at an adjourned meeting of the council at the public library last night, according to City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

"A lot of items that have been hanging fire for some time were considered," Cunningham said, "and the council decided to schedule them on future agendas one or two at a time and dispose of them that way."

Two of the main items discussed were the extension of Miller Avenue from the city limits to Highway 101, and the problems caused by overuse of Cascade Reservoir.

Other topics included flood control, sewer extension, the Miller Avenue slide, and policies on creek control and street improvement, Cunningham said.

"No decisions were made," he said. "It was 99 per cent discussion."

The council agreed to schedule the Miller Avenue extension and Cascade Reservoir items on an early agenda, Cunningham said.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

FUNDS — Heard a report that the city has received a $20,319 federal grant for street improvement which will be used on Camino Alto.

RENT — Agreed to rent two rooms from the Methodist Church of Mill Valley for $55 a month for a tiny tots program.

FILL — Accepted City Engineer Stanley M. Bala's plans for the placement of dry fill in the small boat harbor area.

Warehouse Looted Of $1,010 Goods

Merchandise valued at a total of $1,010 has been reported stolen from a warehouse at 315 Main Street, Sausalito, police said yesterday.

Sally Stanford, owner of the Valhalla Inn, said a dozen 100-pound sacks of walnuts, 40 louver doors and 17 Formica tables were taken from the locked warehouse between May 15 and Thursday, according to police.

The thieves entered the building by breaking down the door, they said.

FRED BAGSHAW QUITS STATE HIGHWAY JOB

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — T. Fred Bagshaw of Mill Valley has resigned as secretary to the California Highway Commission and Robert Boles of Calaveras County has been named to replace him, the commission announced today. Bagshaw was appointed secretary in February, 1969.

Bagshaw, of 317 Hillside Avenue, said he will join the California Freeway Support Committee on July 1. It is a state-wide private organization concerned with the state freeway program, particularly current legislative proposals to divert gas taxes from highway construction and to change the north-south split of gas taxes. He said he will work with news media, highway organizations, city and county officials and chambers of commerce on behalf of the freeway program.

He has also served as mayor of Mill Valley, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, a director of the Golden Gate Bridge District, and director of the State Public Works Department.

Motorcyclist Hurt

Larry Wick, 17, of 226 Redwood Drive, Woodacre, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael Sunday for a foot injury suffered in a motorcycle accident, the hospital reported today. No details of the accident were available.

Learning Guarantee In Schools' Future?

Public schools may soon be asked to guarantee learning performance by their pupils, a specialist in education systems told the Kentfield School District board last night.

In an informal discussion with the board on educational objectives, Robert F. Mager of Palo Alto told of recent programs in which private firms have come into school systems and guaranteed performance, such as a year's improvement in reading by pupils. If the improvement doesn't happen, the firm doesn't get paid. Mager said public schools may have to do the same sort of thing, reported Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

Mager also told of a program by the American Institute of Research in Palo Alto, with which he is associated, in which a computer keeps daily accounts of each pupil's progress, recommends needed remedial work and sets out individualized instruction for each pupil.

Public schools, Mager said, will have to do a better job in identifying what skills they want to teach, and in describing those skills in terms of performance by the pupils.

Kentfield School District Board Also:

SPECIAL EDUCATION — Signed agreements for 1970-71 with the Marin County Schools Office for classes for educationally handicapped and mentally retarded pupils. The county-run programs will cost the district approximately $1,800.

SOIL TESTING — Authorized soils engineering services up to $2,000 for the proposed facility for hearing-handicapped pupils on the Adaline E. Kent School campus.

TRANSFER — Denied a request by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Gardner to transfer their child to the Larkspur School District.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. today at Wolfe Grade School to negotiate teacher salaries.

According to National Geographic, clusters of nuclear rockets someday may push astronauts beyond the solar system. Crew then would unfurl enormous light-reflecting sails, catch the pressure of light from the sun and travel at high velocities to incredibly distant galaxies without using any fuel.

Birds need great amounts of food. Young starlings sometimes devour their own weight of insects and berries in a day. After one meal a flicker's stomach was found to contain 5,040 ants. A bobwhite's held 10,000 pigweed seeds.

Youth's Condition Good From Accident

Leroy Leonhardt, 19, of St. Vincent's School for Boys, was reported in good condition today at the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco after suffering a back sprain in an automobile accident about 1:15 a.m. yesterday.

No further details of the accident were available.

Operating Tax Hike Sought For San Rafael Schools

HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT

Voters in the San Rafael High School District will vote June 2 on a hike in the district's operating tax rate limit for the first time in seven years.

The proposal is to boost the operating limit 30 cents, from $1.75 to $2.05 per $100 assessed valuation. It requires a majority for passage. The current total tax rate is $2,295, including restricted purpose taxes and bond retirement, which are not subject to the limit.

The district, which covers the San Rafael and Dixie elementary districts, faces a deficit in 1970-71, according to the San Rafael Board of Education.

A citizen tax campaign committee has estimated that income will be $146,150 short of expenses to maintain the current program, and that another $147,055 is needed in reserve funds for a total deficit of $293,205.

Costs have exceeded income for two years because income hasn't kept pace with inflation, the committee said. The annual cost of living rise in the past two years was seven to eight per cent while the income rose less than six per cent, according to the committee's figures.

There have been cutbacks and reserve funds have been used to maintain the program.

The proposed tax rate limit would be authorized for an indefinite period, but the committee estimated it would be adequate for three years.

The committee felt that the board would levy 20.7 cents of the increase for next fiscal year. This would cost the owner of a $30,000 home an additional tax of "less than $14 a year" in 1970-71, the committee said.

There has been no written or organized opposition to the tax increase proposal.

Aside from rising costs, there has been an increase of more than 11 per cent in high school enrollment in the past five years, and the enrollment is expected to increase for the next two years.

At the same time there has been a decrease in federal support and no increase in state support, the committee reported. "Outgo has exceeded income for the past two years and reserves have been reduced;" it said.

If additional state support is forthcoming, "there may be no need to add to the local tax," the committee said.

To show that the district is doing a good job, the committee noted that high school students have earned 116 scholarships, there are 240 students in the work experience program, eight athletic championships have been won in six sports, class size has been reduced from 31 to 25.

The Board of Education is considering a preliminary 1970-71 budget of $4,901,841 for the high school district, up $117,414 from the estimated expenditures for 1969-70.

Board members haven't specified what would be cut if the tax increase proposal is defeated, saying priorities would have to be established by the final budget Aug. 1.

Supt. John F. Plank said potential areas for cutbacks included eliminating transportation and major equipment, cutting replacement of equipment, and reducing building repair and preventive maintenance, or discontinuing extra-curricular activities.

Board President Herman L. Childress said the board's approach to the voter is: "We have good schools. We want to keep them that way."

ELEMENTARY DISTRICT

It will take more money in the 1970-71 school year to keep the San Rafael Elementary School District operating at its present level.

This is the message from the San Rafael Board of Education which is seeking a 40-cent increase in the district's operating tax rate limit at the polls June 2.

The proposal is to hike the operating tax rate ceiling from $2.25 to $2.65 per $100 assessed valuation for an indefinite period. The current total rate is $3.275, including bond retirement and restricted purpose levies.

If the measure is not passed by the necessary majority vote, the district will face a deficit of $177,617, board members have reported.

They haven't specified what would be cut if the tax increase weren't approved, but said in that event, priorities would have to be determined by the final 1970-71 budget.

Board members have indicated they would levy only the tax increase necessary to operate for the 1970-71 year, estimated at 17 cents.

The district's income has not kept pace with inflation in the past few years, and in the past two years costs have exceeded income, the citizen tax campaign committee has reported.

It cited, along with increased costs, a decrease in state support and a reduction of federally supported programs.

During the past two years there have been cutbacks in administration, plant operations, maintenance and repairs, and instrumental and maintenance equipment, the committee reported. "It also has been necessary to use some reserve funds merely to maintain the present level of education," it noted.

There has not been any written or organized opposition to the tax hike proposal.

The committee estimated the proposed tax hike would cost the owner of a $30,000 home "less than $12" in additional taxes in 1970-71.

The district's last tax limit hike was five years ago when the operating rate ceiling was raised from $1.50 to $1.75. The committee estimated the proposed new hike would be adequate for "at least three years."

Enrollment has decreased about three per cent in the district, and is expected to decrease this fall, but the committee maintained the additional income still will be needed.

Reserves have been used up, costs continue to rise, federal funds are down, and the enrollment decrease spread over 14 schools has little effect on reducing costs, the committee reported.

The committee conceded that several bills in the state legislature related to school finance could help, but felt the board could not risk the educational program on "uncertain possibilities."

If there were additional state support, "there may be no need to add to the local tax," the committee said.

The committee, stressing the benefits of the system, said the tax funds would maintain the program which has brought above-average reading test results, recruitment and retention of qualified teachers, average class size of 25, and a transportation system.

Board members have been reviewing a proposed budget of $4,626,605 in the district, up $346,586 from the estimated expenditures for 1969-70.

This includes a five per cent cost of living pay hike and restoration of cuts made in the 1969-70 year. It would have to be trimmed if the tax hike is defeated.

Movie Defends Peripheral Canal

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state has produced a special color movie explaining why it wants to build the controversial Peripheral Canal around the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

The film, produced at a cost estimated at between $6,000 and $8,000 by the Resources Agency, will be offered without cost to television stations, school and service clubs.

Resources Sercetary Norman B. Livermore Jr. told reporters at a premiere showing Monday that the film was made to fight what he called "a great deal of misinformation" about the proposed 43-mile-long canal.

Five Others Also Opposed To Brown

The George E. Brown for U.S. Senate rally story which appeared in yesterday's Independent-Journal erred by implying that Brown was opposed only by Rep. John V. Tunney for the Democratic nomination.

Brown is also opposed by Louis Di Salvo of Santa Clara and Arthur S. Bell Jr., Kenneth Hahn, Leonard Kurland, and Eileen Anderson, all of Los Angeles.

Coffee Planned

A coffee for Wilson C. Riles, Rosenberg, candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge, will be held today at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Lee, 3 Carroll Court, Terra Linda.

Auditions Set For 'Brigadoon'

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will hold auditions for its presentation of "Brigadoon" June 6 at 10 a.m. at the Redwood High School little theater.

The festival office announced sword dancers, Scottish highland and country dancers, lead singers, chorus members and pipers are needed.

GOP Says Poll Backs Nixon On Cambodia

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Republican National Committee says a poll it commissioned shows that 53 per cent of the persons surveyed support President Nixon's military decision to go into Cambodia.

National chairman Rogers C. B. Morton said the poll, conducted by telephone by the New York Chilton organization, showed that 32 per cent of the 1,053 persons surveyed disapproved of Nixon's decision and 15 per cent had no opinion.

Skull Fractured In Boat Mishap

Wynn Oliver, 42, of San Francisco was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin Generay Hospital with a concussion and skull fracture suffered in a boating accident Sunday.

Belvedere police said Oliver was injured in a two-boat collision off Alcatraz Island. The Coast Guard had no report of the accident.

Two other persons were taken to the hospital with Oliver. Dan Collins, 28, of 432 Napa Street, Sausalito, was treated for a cut forehead and Mary Anne Langdon, 32, of Palo Alto, was examined and released when no apparent injuries were found, the hospital reported.

House Hit By $30,000 Blaze

Fire swept a three-story Mill Valley home yesterday, destroying the top story and causing between $25,000 and $30,000 damage.

Capt. Robert Harder of the Mill Valley Fire Department said the home of Arthur K. Morse, at 41 Glen Drive, was in flames when two engines arrived at 1:31 p.m.

Fifteen firemen fought the blaze for 15 minutes before bringing it under control. No one was home at the time, though firemen saved a dog from the house.

Novato Trustees Start On Budget

The Novato Unified School District board last night got its first close look at the working draft of the preliminary general expense budget for fiscal 1970-71.

The proposed budget is $8,289,815, or $43,976 more than this year's general expense budget of $8,245,839. It does not include any of the fixed charges such as bond retirement and state loan repayment.

The board took no action, but agreed to study the budget further at 8 p.m. next Monday at the administration building.

Supt. James G. Bunker emphasized that this was just the first working draft and that the budget would change when the district knows more about the state and federal money it will receive next year. The budget also will change if the voters approve the 85-cent increase in the tax limit at the special election on July 28.

The largest increase in the draft budget is for teachers' salaries which jumped $199,066, or from $4,886,659 to $5,085,725 next year. This is for normal step increases despite 10 fewer employees.

The biggest single cut made to keep the budget within the same general range as this year, was in transportation, by $71,469 to $99,952 for next year. This allows just for home-to-school transportation and nothing for athletic trips or field trips, Bunker said.

Board President Marett B. Boissevain said that the board would have to study the athletic programs to see if some of them should be eliminated and some bus service restored for other athletics.

"We can't run an athletic program without some bus service to games," he said.

Food services, which have run the district $12,261 in the red this year, were eliminated. Other cuts were made in book purchases, data processing and library help.

The board accepted the resignations of two teachers, Natalie Robb and Penelope Wayte.

It went into closed meeting to interview applicants for principals of Hill Junior High School to replace Frank Raney who is taking a year's leave of absence and for the adult evening high school to replace Robert McKeay, who is retiring. The board will continue the interviews next Monday night.

Missing Vehicle Located In Shop

A 1961 Volkswagen bus owned by John V. Johnson of San Fancisco and stolen there on April 29 was recovered yesterday at Rudy's Body Shop, 31 Bay Street, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said the car had been brought into the shop by Jerry Hall of Gate 6, Sausalito, for $600 worth of repair work earlier this month.

Johnson, according to police, reported that Hall, a stranger, telephoned him Friday and said he had found the missing car. Johnson said he went to Hall's home to recover the car and was told by a friend of Hall's it was at the body shop in San Rafael, according to police.

Weapon Assault Charges Heard

Victor Altoa Grant, 42, and Jack Bowan McClellan, 35, both of San Francisco were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of assaulting two men in Sausalito Saturday with a deadly weapon.

They are also accused of displaying a .38 caliber revolver against Steven Barnes and Paul Ferrez in a rude and threatening manner.

ETHEL M. BRYCE
Senior nominee

Ethel Bryce Proposed For Senior Title

Ethel M. Bryce, 82, of San Enselmo, is the nominee of the Marin Senior Association for Marin's outstanding senior citizen of 1970.

Miss Bryce is serving as president of the association for the third time this year, serving in 1961 and 1962. She has been an active member since its founding in 1954.

She was secretary of the hostess group which managed the Fourth Street sesior center in San Rafael when it started, and served for eight years on the Senior Coordinating Council board of directors.

Miss Bryce, of 53 Woodland Avenue, also was secretary for four years for the advisory board when the senior center was at Second and Brooks streets, and also served for six years as volunteer librarian of St. Anselm's Church library.

She is also a former member of the American Association of University Women and served as chairman of that group's poetry workshop for two years. She has lived in Marin 16 years.

Sheriff Contest Figures On Air

The two candidates for Marin County sheriff in next week's election will be guests on KTIM's Sounding Board program at 9 a.m. Thursday, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer.

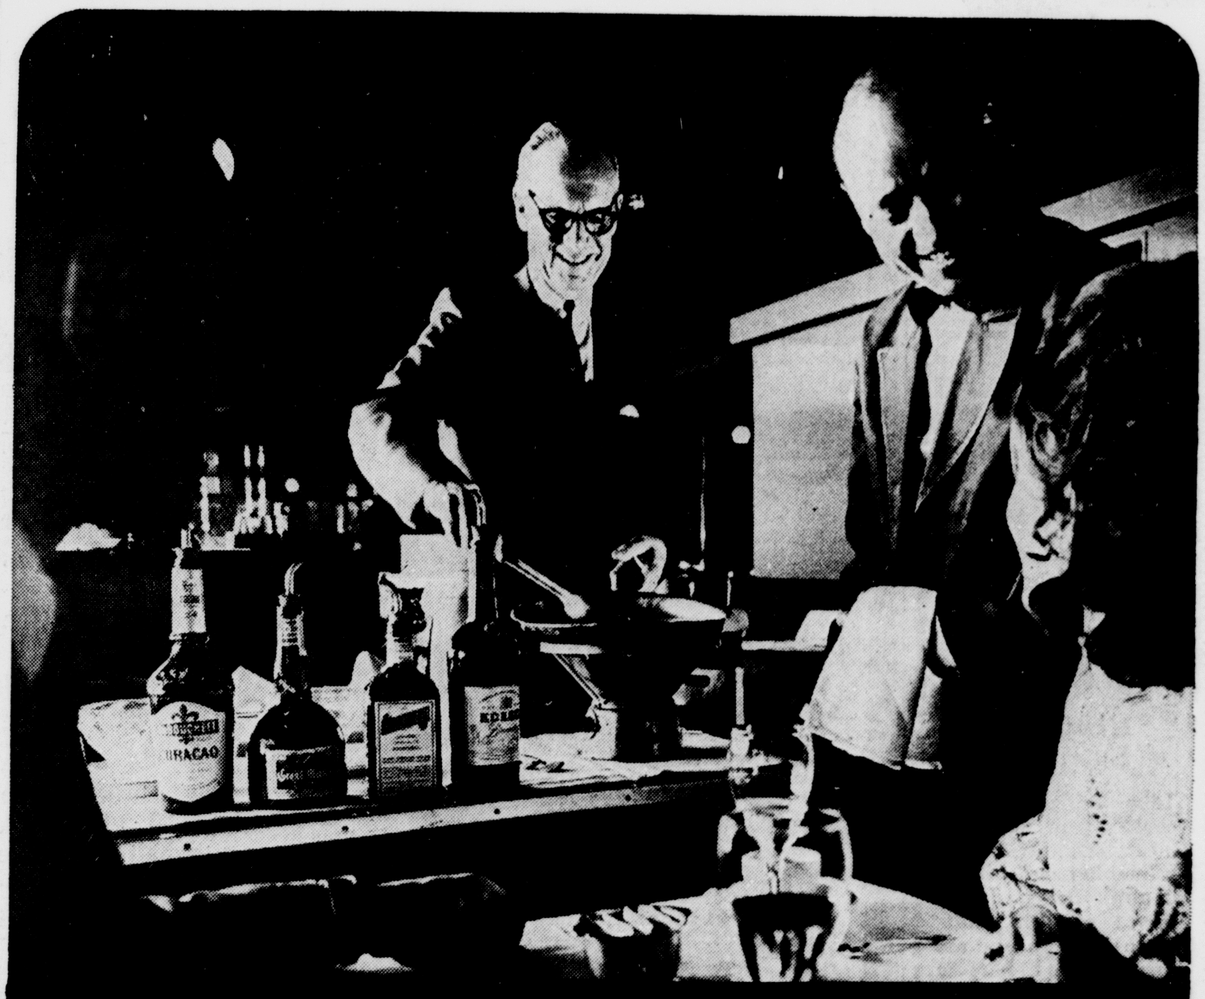

Appearing will be Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and his challenger, Arthur V. Menjou, a former inspector in the sheriff's department and now owner of Security Electronics.

Telephoned questions will be answered during Thursday's broadcast. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Alternates Presented For Bolinas Campus

Two different plans for a single campus for the Bolinas-Stinson School District were presented to district trustees last night by Richard A. Borgstrom, school architect.

The board took no action on either plan and made no decision on whether to hold a bond election to finance whatever plan is chosen, according to Avis Pattison, district secretary. She said both matters will be considered further at the board's June 8 meeting.

Mrs. Pattison said the campus could not be built next year, since the district does not have the land necessary for such a project, but indicated it is part of a long-range plan for the one-campus system which the district has favored for a long time.

The first plan, which Borgstrom said would cost the district approximately $218,000, calls for a plan utilizing the present Bolinas School plus one new portable and the two portable classrooms currently at Stinson School.

Also included in the plan is some renovation of Bolinas School and purchase of three portable classrooms which the district now leases, Mrs. Pattison said.

Borgstrom told the board he favors the "portables" plan, because the cost would be considerably less than the $325,000 he estimated would be necessary to construct new buildings.

The second plan he outlined to the board would include new buildings and the remodeling of Bolinas School, according to the secretary.

Larkspur Suspect Admits Burglary

James Andrew Franz, 18, of Larkspur, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to burglarizing a Larkspur residence on Jan. 6 and to a reduced count of petty theft of a Kentfield home on Oct. 31.

He had originally be charged also with burglary in the Kentfield case.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for July 20.

Franz was arrested in January after he suffered a broken ankle when he jumped from the deck of a residence at 170 Piedmont Court. He was arrested when he appeared at a fire station to ask for fairst aid.

Woman Rider Is Slugged, Robbed

A 45-year-old San Anselmo woman was apparently the victim of a robbery and possibly of rape, police reported today.

Police said the woman told them she was hitchhiking on Second Street in San Rafael at 9 p.m. yesterday and was picked up by a man. The next thing she remembered, she said, was waking up under redwood trees.

She flagged down two boys in a car who drove her home, and her daughter called police. She was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruise on the head and cuts on the legs. Police said her shoes, purse and undergarments were missing. Laboratory tests were to be made to determine if she was raped.

Petaluman Is Charged With Act Violation

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Tony G. Brazil of Petaluma, registered as a market agency to buy and sell on commission and as a dealer, has been charged with violating bonding regulations under the Packers and Stockyards Act, a fair trade practices law, the Department of Agriculture said today.

The administrative complaint was filed by the department's Packers and Stockyard Administration.

The department alleged that Brazil's surety bond was terminated in April, 1969, and he was informed of the necessity to obtain bond coverage if he continued livestock operations for which bond is required, but continued without providing such bond.

If the charges are proven, Brazil would be ordered to stop such practices. His registration may also be temporarily suspended.

Some 7.5 million tons of rock salt were sprinkled on streets and roads in the United States last year for the purpose of removing snow. Highway engineers say salt is cheaper and faster than other chemical preparations.

DEAR AUNT MAUDE,

We found it! The cutest 4-bdrm., 2-bath home! There's a great living/dining room, all carpeted and draped and the kitchen is priceless with pass through to an adorable family room loaded with storage. And for the kids, a big yard, and it's real close to schools, too. I'M SO EXCITED, can't wait to get in . . . BUT . . . dear Auntie we're a little short on the down payment. It won't take much, could you help? You won't be sorry . . . wait 'til you see it. Lots of house for $31,950.
Love,
Jill

Probe Of Tax-Paid Attorneys Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A legislative investigation into possible conflicts of interest involving tax-paid attorneys for the poor was proposed Monday by Assemblyman Ray Johnson, R-Chico.

He described as "kid stuff" a pending federal court case in which two students at Yuba City High School are challenging a rule regulating the length of boys' hair.

The lawmaker said it will cost the school district thousands of dollars to defend itself against the suit "that might never have gotten to court if the students hadn't been encouraged by VISTA and CRLA attorneys.

He said that in the Yuba City case "most" of the proceedings had been handled by attorneys connected with the federal government-financed California Rural Legal Assistance and Volunteers in Service to America.

He said he would introduce a resolution directing an investigation by the legislature into whether the handling of such cases constituted a conflict of interest on the part of such attorneys.

Bagley's Integration Guidelines To Floor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Assembly has before it today a measure designed to restore the school integration guidelines repealed by the State Board of Education last March — which many said strengthened the case in favor of integration by bus.

Meanwhile, the board's action was also to be the subject of a court hearing in Sacramento Superior Court today where Judge William M. Gallagher will hear arguements that the board acted illegally in repealing the guidelines.

The Assembly Education Committee approved a measure Monday sponsored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, which would put the entire matter out of the reach of the state board in future and that bill is now before the Assembly.

The Bagley bill would include the guidelines in the State Education Code — with one important omission. The guidelines included a formula for determining when schools are not racially balanced but Bagley's bill does not.

GOP Official Says Antiwar Bloc Noisy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Republican State Chairman Dennis Carpenter says opposition to President Nixon's decision to send troops into Cambodia "is much louder than it is large." Carpenter Monday said he based his observation on "partial results" of a public opinion poll sponsored by the Republican National Committee. He said 53 per cent of the 1,053 persons polled nationwide expressed approval of the President's action while 32 per cent disapproved and 15 per cent had no opinion.

About 70 per cent of those polled said they disapproved of closing college campuses because of antiwar protests while 23 per cent voiced approval of the closures and 7 per cent had no opinion, he said.

Heyns Ends 'State Of Emergency'

BERKELEY (AP) — A five-week old "state of emergency" has been ended on the University of California campus.

Chancellor Roger Heyns' decision Monday to lift the declaration was based on, a spokesman said, the "calm atmosphere" on the campus in recent weeks.

Heyns declared the emergency April 15 when rioting broke out among demonstrators protesting ROTC on campus.

Under the declaration, any student violating campus rules could be suspended automatically. Officials imposed interim suspensions on 42 students during that period.

Heyns announcement came as 18 students presented him with a document demanding that professors on the campus "either teach classes as originally constituted or not be paid."

"We'll look into this and act appropriately," Heyns told the group, who called themselves College Republicans.

The students presented Heyns with a list of eight demands aimed at militant students and faculty members attempting to "reconstitute" the university by turning classes over to discussions of war and ROTC.

The students' document called for retention of ROTC with credit and disallowance of any funds or facilities of the Associated Students "for strike activities."

Heyns told them, "There are ways of reconstitution which are academically acceptable," but he said he intended to enforce a regulation against paying teachers who do not perform their duties.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Health Hazards To Avoid During Spring Cleaning Time

Gardening and housecleaning are harbingers of spring. But is is foolish to try to get it all done the first warm afternoon. Sedentary workers particularly need this advice. Those who spend their day behind a counter, at a desk, or in the car should not try to crowd four months' work into one week-end.

Begin the garden chores by getting the tools in shape. Check the rake and shovel handles to see that they are sturdy and free of splinters. Look over the power lawn mower and inspect the blades. Don't use the mower until you have raked the lawn and picked up all stones and loose objects.

MEDICAL JOURNALS carry many case histories of ghastly accidents. In some the blade of the mower was broken by a stone and gouger the user or a child playing nearby. In other instances, a rock — hit by the blade — shot off into space like a golf ball.

Test the rungs of the ladder before climbing on them. Never go above the first floor without having someone hold the ladder in place. When you get to the top, don't ask the person holding it to leave and get you a tool you forgot.

It is almost impossible to survive the first days of spring cleaning without a few sore muscles and stiff joints. Wear gloves to protect the hands, and wash every cut or blister with soap and warm water as soon as possible. Then cover the lesion with a sterile bandage.

SQUATTING WHEN picking up heavy objects, sod, and baskets filled with dirt spares the back. Bending over is wonderful exercise for those who wish to take off a few inches from the waistline, but it is silly to do so when heavy objects are involved. A backache may prove to be more serious than it appears on the surface for those who have reactivated an old arthritis or slipped a disk. Those with back trouble should investigate power garden tools.

By the way, burning the accumulated twigs, leaves, and other rubbish adds to pollution. For the wise, this is a good time to clean out fire hazards from storage spaces.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

IODINE AND THYROID

G. G. writes: How does radioactive treatment of the thyroid work?

REPLY

Iodine has an affinity for the thyroid gland and usually settles there when taken internally. Radioactive iodine does the same except each particle can be likened to a miniature X-ray machine that emits rays that depress the thyroid cells. This treatment combats overactivity of the thyroid.

BLEEDING ULCER

H. B. G. writes: How can a person with peptic ulcer prevent internal bleeding?

REPLY

By following his physician's advice to the letter. Surgery may be needed if the ulcer fails to heal or there are more episodes of bleeding. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on peptic ulcer.

PITTED SILVERWARE

T. T. writes: Is it dangerous to use silverware that has worn spots on it? I heard it would destroy the vitamins in food.

REPLY

Tommyrot. Silver plating is for beauty and smoothness. Furthermore, there is nothing in the underlying metal that affects vitamins in any way.

FLEET MOVEMENTS

M. M. writes: What causes the navel to move?

REPLY

On maneuvers.

CAP IN ACTION

Credit Sales Law Stronger

The state law which covers credit sales has been strengthened.

Once the law did not cover sales of less than $50, but now it covers all retail installment sales.

Anyone who breaks this law may face criminal as well as civil penalties, sometimes treble damages. If a contract violates the law, a court, as a rule, invalidates it and returns the buyer's money and costs.

Mainly the act calls for:

1. A written contract—in one piece. This contract must set out such details as cash and time sale price, down payment, trade-in, insurance, service charges, time balance, etc. No contract can leave blanks to be filled in after the buyer signs it.

2. The law limits charges—for service, for refinancing, or consolidation or add-on charges. The law limits insurance premiums to what the insurer actually charges.

3. If the buyer wants to pay before the full debt falls due, he can get a detailed statement of what he owes and can pay it. If he does pay then he can get a credit refund. The seller must give the service charge rates and the balanve on which he figures the service charges.

4. In the past, by turning installment contracts over to a finance company, some sellers could cut off the buyer's legal grounds for not paying his bill. Now the buyer has the same defenses, such as defective goods, against paying the finance company as he had against paying the seller.

5. The law curbs the seller's rights of repossession and other collection practices. The buyer can redeem the repossessed goods. The law limits or bars charges for storage of such goods and charges for default notices.

Taxpayers Stress Cost To Marin If Prop. 8 Wins

SACRAMENTO — If Proposition 8, the "Taxation for Schools and Social Welfare" measure, passes June 2, taxpayers in Marin County will have to pay $11,430,484 to fund it in increased sales and income taxes, the California Taxpayers' Association said today.

Calculations are based upon AB 2, authored by Assemblyman Robert E. Badham, R-Newport Beach. It is the only bill before the Legislature addressed to raising the $1,130,000,000 Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post estimates for first year costs. The bill proposes an increase of 1.5 cents on the sales and use tax and 40 per cent on income taxes. The figures are based upon the most recently available data from the Franchise Tax Board and the State Board of Equalization.

In Marin County, 1.5 cents on the sales and use tax will raise $4,945,230 and 40 per cent increase on income taxes will raise $6,485,254.

Individual income tax increases for smaller counties could not

Viet Cong Have Similar Problem To That Of Germans In Russians

By ROBERT C. MILLER

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (UPI)—The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are finding in Cambodia some of the same problems the Germans faced in Russia in World War II.

In more than six weeks of warfare the Viet Cong-North Vietnamese army has fought and won hundreds of skirmishes, they have routed the Cambodian army repeatedly and driven to within 20 miles of the capital, Phnom Penh. They have either threatened or captured every provincial capital east of the Mekong River which bisects the country. Yet today their military position is becoming increasingly difficult.

The farther inland they drive the farther they stretch their communication lines and isolate themselves from friendly bases.

Their sanctuaries along the Cambodian-South Vietnamese border are being destroyed. Their supplies are running low; food has become an acute problem. Care and treatment of the wounded is an increasing burden.

But most important, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are moving through a hostile countryside for the first time in their military careers.

In Laos and Vietnam the population had been either friendly or neutral, and the security so necessary for successful troop movement was assured. And if a retreat were necessary the VC-NVA could don civilian clothes and blend themselves into the local population. In Cambodia the intruders stand out like a cigar store Indian at a beauty contest.

The Cambodians are thinner and darker than the Vietnamese who are also generally larger and smooth-skinned. They stand out like Anglo-Saxons do from the Mediterraneans in a crowd.

Throughout history relations between the Cambodians and the Vietnamese have ranged from diplomatically correct to bitter warfare.

The killing of Vietnamese residents in Cambodia last month exemplifies the present attitude of the Cambodians.

Rarely did anybody ever blow the whistle on the Viet Cong, known as "Charlie," in Vietnam. They roamed the countryside at night time and even the Americans admitted, "The night belongs to Charlie."

But in Cambodia the peasants have apparently cast their votes with the home team, and no hour of the night or day is now safe for the Communists. Correspondents report that in every recent fight the Cambodians had intelligence pouring in from every compass point which the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were fighting blind.

Each Viet Cong victory has been more expensive. There are still occasions when the Cambodians turn tail and retreat but there are more and more occasions when they not only stand up and fight but launch offensives of their own. And is logistics the Cambodians can afford to lose men and expend ammunition, there are ample reserves of both. Not so with the VC and NVA; they have to make every shot and every man count.

The breakdown of the Viet Cong communications has severely damaged their Cambodian offensive. The destruction of the bases and the border sanctuaries cut off all communications with the troops who had moved deeply into Cambodia. Several of the VC-NVA companies have been reported moving aimlessly through the countryside operating more as guerrilla bands than as part of an organized army.

The strategy of the Cambodians has been to play it cool. They have lifted a page from Chairman Mao's book and rarely will they advance or attack unless certain they have a superiority in numbers and firepower.

A Cambodian battalion commander, sweat-soaked and dirty but cheerfully responsive to questions from reporters outlined the Cambodian army strategy while directing a probe into Takeo province south of Phnom Penh.

"When the Viet Cong advance," he said, "we retreat. When they retreat, we advance. When they stop, we attack."

One of the reporters reminded the colonel that this was basically the strategy of Chairman Mao.

The colonel smiled "yes?" he said, "well he was a pretty good soldier, too."

Miss Nixon To Direct Tour Tonight

By RICK DU BROW

The blonde Miss Nixon, whose sister Julie is married to the grandson of the late former President, Dwight D. Eisenhower, takes viewers on a White House tour in a lengthy segment of CBS-TV's "60 Minutes."

And her manner and overall presence make the segment one of the charming surprises of the television season. Miss Nixon has previously come across quite nicely on the home screen, but tonight's segment lets viewers get a more concentrated look at her.

The program, previewed by CBS-TV under its new policy of allowing advance criticism of its show, has Miss Nixon focusing her tour on the family living quarters on the second floor of the White House. Viewers get a glimpse of many rooms not seen before on television.

Says executive producer Don Hewitt: "Our tour with Tricia in essence takes up where Jacqueline Kennedy left off during her historic White House television tour in 1962. Mrs. Kennedy guided viewers through the rooms customarily seen by White House visitors, and included just one private room, the Lincoln bedroom."

Quarters seen in tonight's tour include the family living and dining rooms, Nixon's private study, Mrs. Nixon's sitting room and a guest room in which five queens have stayed. The reporters with Miss Nixon are Mike Wallace and Harry Reasoner, and they seemed to have as good a time as you will.

An example of the ease of Miss Nixon's tour is that it took just one day to tape. And that sense of ease in the segment makes for an inevitable comparison with the four of the former Mrs. Kennedy. Miss Nixon, to this viewer, seems much more relaxed, natural and approachable, and a full hour tour by the President's daughter would have been most welcome—and still would be.

For Miss Nixon reveals herself to be not only quite lovely to look at, with an attractive voice, but also quick-witted, humorous, intelligent, sensitive, tactful and gracious. Her smile and laugh come easily and show a surprising sense of dignity for one so young. She is also well-versed in the memorabilia, art objects and other matters she discusses tonight, and even has a way with an anecdote.

We Republicans support Peter Behr because:

- he is the only candidate to speak out clearly on the issues
- he is the only candidate with first-hand knowledge of how government works - at both the city and county level
- he is the only candidate who won't have to serve an apprenticeship in Sacramento at the expense of the taxpayer
- he is the only candidate with proven credentials in the field of conservation
- he is the only candidate who has agreed to serve full-time in the State Senate
- he has openly supported Governor Ronald Reagan's legislative program and Republican reapportionment of the legislature
- he is the Republican candidate most likely to win in November

a better man for Sacramento

JIM GILMARTIN

Dillon To Start His Pro Career

Russell King Dillon, the talented Novato baseball projector who has killed two birds with one stone by signing a professional baseball contract which also guarantees a higher education, paid a quick visit to the home front over the weekend in between school and career.

RUSS DILLON

Having just completed his freshman year at Mesa, Ariz. Community College, Dillon left this morning for Greenwood, S.C. where he will pitch for the Greenwood Braves in the Class A Western Carolina League this summer. Greenwood is a farm of the Atlanta Braves who signed Dillon and arranged his education and baseball advancement.

In Arizona, where many major league teams send their prize prospects to school, Dillon played ball all winter with other pros ineligible for collegiate competition. They merely arrange their classes in mornings and evenings, leaving afternoons open for baseballogy.

A Young Star In Novato

Dillon, a southpaw pitcher, signed with the Braves after a sensational schoolboy career in Novato, Class of '69, where he also hurled the city's Babe Ruth League All-Stars to the Bambino's World Series in 1967.

Asked if Russ still had the old zip in his fast ball, father Bill Dillon laughed: "I took him out yesterday to catch a few and he's like to have killed me. He did great in Arizona and we're really happy with the arrangement he made with the Braves. We thought he'd be sent to a rookie league this summer but he advanced well enough to get the Class A League assignment."

Russ will return to Mesa for his second year of college in September and plans to transfer to Arizona State in his junior year. Also, he hopes to graduate summer come loud to the big leagues in the not too distant future.

KTIM SPORTCASTER Bob Dinsmore is still shaking his head from side to side after a unique weekend experience during which he broadcast not one, not two but THREE no-hitters in Marin Little League within a 24-hour span.

The string started Friday night in Novato where Mike Moreno and Ron Overmyer pitched a double no-hitter and ended in Sausalito the next afternnon where Scott McCammon pitched a "no."

Asked if he'd ever seen the likes of the zero string, Dinsmore succintly said, "No, No, No!"

Varsity Team, Not Freshman

REACTING TO an item here last week that her twin sons Kirt and Ken Donaldson wrestled for the Air Force Academy freshman team this year, Mrs. Jack Donaldson of Novato said: "It's an honor to be on the freshman team, but NOT when you're on the varsity," which the twins were and I'm sorry for demoting them. I'm doubly sorry.

PRO REPORTS — John Dolinsek (Novato) is hitting .314 at Columbus, Ga. in the Class AA Southern Association and Ken Johnson (Larkspur) is at .191 for Kinston, N.C. of the Carolina-A League.

ONE OF THE stars in the Marin County track and field meet for seventh and eighth graders last weekend was Al Long of Neil Cummins School in Larkspur. He broke a record in the — Long jump, of course.

Redwood Tourney: Pitchers' Showcase

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The Redwood High School Invitational Tournament of Champions has always been a pitcher's showcase. And there is nothing to dispell the belief that this year, the seventh for the prestigious annual event, will be any different.

Eight teams, champions of their respective Bay area leagues, will play Thursday through Saturday at Albert Park in San Rafael and the winner will very likely be the team with the most quantity and quality of pitching.

The favorite at this time is St. Elizabeth of Oakland, a member of the Catholic Athletic League, which meets North Bay League champion Petaluma Thursday at 7 p.m. The Mustangs, consolation winners in last year's tourney who won 29 games this year and lost only 3, possess three top flight hurlers in Chuck Fross, Jim Gehrig and Charlie Dyson. Foss had a 9-1 won-lost record, Gehrig was 7-0 and Dyson 6-1.

The other team considered a good bet to win is Richmond of the Alameda County Athletic League, which goes in the final game Thursday night against the only team in the tournament that figures to make it with hitting rather than pitching. That, of course, would be Redwood of Larkspur.

Darrell Dickens and Gary King, all-tourney pitchers last year when Richmond placed third, will return along with Gary Knuckles, thought by some to be the best shortstop in Northern California.

Of the eight teams only two will be in the tourney for the first time. They are Washington of Fremont, champions of the Mission Valley League who play Antioch of the Diablo Valley League at 3 p.m. and the Oakland Wildcats of the Oakland Athletic League, who meet San Lorenzo of the Hayward League at 5 p.m.

Redwood, it will be remembered, ran roughshod over the Marin County Athletic League while compiling a record of 12 wins and only 2 losses. The Giants, who hit .306 as a team, had six players finish the season hitting better than .300, with five different men contributing to the team's league leading total of 12 home runs. Outfielder John Boro led the league with five homers, and second baseman Pete Cooney paced the team in hitting at .405.

Redwood, which has been in the tournament twice, finishing third in 1965 and out of the money in '67, has only one first class pitcher this year, workhorse Roger Smith, who won 8 while losing 1.

But Endriss is a realist who knows that in this tourney a team needs more than one pitcher to win. It's his hope that big Tom Wickert, who hit .350 while playing first base, has recovered from the injury to his arm that kept him off the mound this season.

He will probably get a chance to find out Friday in the tourney's second round. Jeff Ned, who won three games for the Giants, will be ready if they need him.

Flood's Lawyers Completing Case

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Flood's lawyers were expected to complete presentation of his $3 million antitrust suit against baseball in Federal Court today.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of professional football, was the only witness in Monday's abbreviated session. He was under subpoena from Flood's lawyer, Arthur Goldberg, former United States Supreme Court Justice.

Rozelle told the court about football's player-option contract, which operates quite differently than baseball's reserve clause, but he also added that some pro football clubs might have failed if the merged leagues had not agreed on a common player draft in 1966.

In answer to questions by Jay Tokas, a Goldberg associate, who asked Rozelle to identify the clubs that might have failed, Rozelle said:

"I feel some clubs in the American Football League and some in the National Football League would have failed because of escalating costs."

Pressed to name the teams, Rozelle added:

"As long as he had somebody to play against, I think Lamar Hunt (Kansas City owner) could afford to field a football team for some time.

"And I think Bud Adams (owner of Houston) also could afford to field a team for some time as long as he had somebody to play."

Judge Irving Ben Cooper let Rozelle answer that television revenue for pro football in 1969 was about $37 million but later struck out the answer when he ruled such questioning had only "slight relevance and does not warrant the extensive time involved."

If the Flood case is completed, possibly with the testimony of Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball association, the defense is expected to start its case. Among the early witnesses is sure to be Bowie Kuhn, the baseball commissioner.

Flood, former St. Louis Cardinal center fielder who refused to accept his trade to the Philadelphia Phillies, is suing baseball for $3 million in an antitrust suit, challenging baseball's reserve system.

Seals' Courtroom Faceoff Under Way

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The courtroom faceoff over ownership of the Oakland Seals hockey team is under way.

William N. Creasy Jr., president of the National Hockey League club, testified that the Seals, in its first season under Trans-National ownership, recorded a 37 per cent increase in home attendance and a 64 per cent hike in season ticket sales.

An attorney for Trans-National, which is trying to retain ownership, told Superior Court Judge Robert H. Schnacke that he would try to show the value of the NHL franchise.

The original owners, a group headed by Barry Van Gerbig ofr West Palm Beach, Fla., contends that Trans-National defaulted in a loan payment connected with the sale.

Osteen Vs. Robertson In Giant-Dodger Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco Giants Manager Charlie Fox had some good young minor league pitchers on his mind and Los Angeles Dodgers skipper Walter Alston was thinking about one veteran hurler as the two clubs prepared for tonight's duel at Candlestick Park.

"They're not quite ready for the majors," Fox said Monday of such young hard throwers as Lee Pitlock and Jim Willoughby of the Giants' Phoenix farm club.

SEVERAL WEEKS

Fox, who moved up from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League when Clyde King was fired Saturday, said the current Giant pitchers will get several weeks to prove themselves before he looks elsewhere for mound help.

Alston, meanwhile, welcomed Pete Mikkelsen back to the Dodgers' bullpen. The 30-year-old right-hander, who appeared in 48 games in 1969 and wound up with a 7-5 record, four saves and a 2.78 earned run average, was knocked out of action when he contracted hepatitis during spring training in Vero, Beach, Fla.

Mikkelsen's return forced the Dodgers to send young outfielder Gary Moore back to their Albuquerque farm team in the Texas League. Moore batted .188 in six games with Los Angeles.

BRIGHT SIDE

Discounting Saturday's 15-inning 17-16 loss to San Diego, which he called "a nightmare," Fox saw a bright side to the picture as he looked forward to the three-game series with Los Angeles, opening tonight. at 8 o'clock.

"I think the cold weather on the spring trip to Japan hurt the pitchers. Through no fault of anybody's, our staff just might not have been ready," he said.

"If it had been warm over there, I might not be here today.

"But we got a great game from Gaylord Perry Sunday and some good pitching in the second game, too. Now we've got an off day, which also may help us."

Rich Robertson, 4-3, will pitch for the Giants tonight against the Dodgers' Claude Osteen, 5-4.

The Giants swept San Diego Sunday while the Dodgers beat Atlanta 8-1 to move within 7 games of first place Cincinnati in the National League's Western Division. Both teams were idle Monday.

This is the first Giant-Dodger series here this season. Earlier this month, the Dodgers won three of four games at Los Angeles.

Osteen and Robertson hooked up in the final game of that set and the Dodgers' veteran left-hander breezed to an 8-0, four-hit victory as the Dodgers pounced on San Francisco for six runs in the fifth inning.

According to Giants President Horace Stoneham, that's when the decision was made to fire King.

King's last game was Saturday, when the team lost an 8-0 lead and the game. In the clubhouse after the game, Stoneham gave him the coup de grace.

JACK HANLEY

Fans Were Laughing, So King Got Fired

Something had to be done. Candlestick Park fans were getting to that point where they were beginning to laugh at the Giants. That's one thing Horace Stoneham can't tolerate. So he fired Clyde King and summoned Charlie Fox to succeed King as manager of his beloved ball club.

STONEHAM KNEW better than anyone else that King wasn't responsible for the Giants being a step out of the cellar of the National League West when he fired him. He knew King couldn't pitch for a staff that couldn't pitch for itself. Indeed, if King, a pitcher himself during his playing days, could have taken a turn on the mound he probably could have checked enemy bats with less than six runs an inning, the average allowed this season by the Giant Staff.

Stoneham also knew that King wasn't responsible for a series of trades over the past years—trades that have stocked other clubs with exceptionally talented ex-Giants and left the Giants themselves little or nothing to show for such largesse.

STONEHAM KNOWS that he and his baseball staff which advises him must accept the blame for depleting the team's talent. But the owner of a ball club doesn't fire himself and he can't depopulate his front office advisory staff overnight without triggering a general collapse.

King wasn't responsible for any trades prior to last winter but he did recommend disposal of Bob Bolin, Ron Herbel, Ray Sadecki, Dave Marshall, Bob Barton and Bob Etheridge. Nobody shouted any protests when those ex-Giants departed from Candlestick. It was true that Bolin, Herbel and Sadecki won 16 games. They also lost 16. They were considered expendable because .500 pitchers don't win pennants. But the pitchers who have taken their place on the Giant staff aren't even .500 pitchers — at least not yet.

HOWEVER, KING wasn't fired for guessing wrong in his move to young pitchers who failed to justify his faith in them. Maybe the young pitchers were pushed too soon into big time competition rather than leaving them in the Giants' farm organization for more seasoning.

But it wasn't just a case of the young pitchers failing. The veterans did, too. Even Juan Marichal because of a virus he picked up in Japan.

EVERYBODY RECOGNIZES that the two-week trip to Japan during the middle of spring training was a couple of lost weekends. Things might have been different if the Giants had stayed in Arizona where the pitchers could have gotten their necessary work in sunshine instead of shivering in Japan.

So King's friends are telling him he was the victim of circumstances. And that is true. But the circumstance that led to his summary dismissal was one Stoneham couldn't ignore. Candlestick fans began to laugh at the Giants. Stoneham can tolerate almost anything—but not that.

ment should be, from an overall view, the best. "In the first round everybody throws their ace," says Endriss. But after that it's a question of depth, and while St. Elizabeth and Richmond have plenty, some of the other teams don't do badly. Oakland and San Lorenzo both have a pair of pitchers who went undefeated this year; Jim Wells and Bob Ulrich for Oakland, and Mike Bailey and Rick Huckbay for the Rebels.

Petaluma, which last Saturday defeated Sonoma for the North Bay League Championship, may be the dark horse of the show. That will depend largely on what kind of pitching the Trojans get from Walt Sweeney, who struck out 16 while going 11 innings to get the win in the title game.

Only one Marin county team has ever won the tournament. Marin Catholic did it in 1966 behind fastballing Ben Burch. Terra Linda finished second in 1968 with pitcher Mike Timmel leading the way, and Novato placed second last year behind Russ Dillon, who co-holds with Timmel the tournament record of 16 strikeouts in a single game.

Padres Purchase A's Pitcher

Rodriguez, a 26-year-old right-hander, had an 0-0 record and a 2.92 earned run average in 12 innings with the A's this season. He was sent by the A's to their Des Moines farm club in the American Association Saturday.

Hank Sauer To Manage In Phoenix

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHOENIX, Ariz. —Hank Sauer, one-time Most Valuable Player in the National League, Monday was named manager of the Phoenix Giants of the Pacific Coast League.

Rosy Ryan, the Phoenix general manager, said Sauer would join the club when it returns here Thursday.

Sauer succeeds Charlie Fox, who was called up Saturday to manage the parent San Francisco Giants.

Sauer has been a member of the Giants' organization for several years, serving as scout and roving batting instructor.

In baseball news from Japan, three pitchers of the Pacific League's Nishitetsu Lions, including the league's 1965 rookie of the year, Masaaki Ikenaga, have been suspended from baseball for life by the Japan Professional Baseball Commission.

It was alleged the three accepted bribes and threw games during the 1969 season. In addition to Ikenaga, Yoshinobu Yoda and Akio Masuda were suspended.

Auto Racing

CRYSTAL PALACE, England — Jackie Brabham, the world champion from Scotland, won yesterday's invitational Formula 2 auto race, driving a Brabham. He covered the 69.5 miles in 41:56.2 at an average speed of 99.44 miles per hour.

Soccer

BOGOTA, Colombia — England's World Cup soccer team captain Bobby Moore was still held today by the Colombian police on charges of alleged jewelry burglary he denied before a court.

Judge Pedro S. Dorado announced it would take at least five days for him to decide whether a formal arrest order is issued or Moore is freed.

Hockey

St. Louis — Goalie Jacques Plante was traded by the St. Louis Blues of the NHL to the Toronto Maple Leafs for a "future consideration."

Tennis

PARIS — Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif., trounced Rauty Krog of South Africa 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 in an opening-round match of the French Open Tennis Tournament, and in the women's singles, Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., stopped Helen Amos of Australia 7-5, 6-3.

Mike's, Round Table Win Softball Games

Frank Bergeron's double was the big hit during a five-run rally in the fifth inning that carried Mike's Bar and Grill to a 13-12 victory over the Native Sons last night in the San Rafael Softball League at Albert Field.

In the evening's other game, Greg Guion hit a home run and two singles to lead the Round Table Piazz to an 810 win over Harding's Gophers.

Oh, Those Errors: Brewers Give Away Game To Twins

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

"They've been making errors for 100 years, since the game was invented," Dave Bristol said Monday night. Surprisingly, he wasn't referring to his Milwaukee Brewers.

Bristol had just seen his team commit four errors and botch up a wind-blown fly ball to help the Minnesota Twins to a 6-5 victory.

JUST ONE HIT

Trailing 4-3 in the seventh inning, the Twins made the most of three Milwaukee errors, a walk and Rich Reese's infield single — the only hit of the inning — for three runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore whipped Cleveland 6-2, Detroit edged the New York Yankees 4-3, Boston downed Washington 5-3 and Kansas City trounced the Chicago White Sox 7-1. California and Oakland were not scheduled.

Aaron Ninth In Winnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Aaron's victory in the Atlanta Classic last Sunday has boosted him from 26th to ninth among pro golf's money-earners.

Lee Trevino, who did not compete in the Atlanta Classic, tops the money race with $107,641. Gary Player, who tied for third in Atlanta, maintained his grip on second place with $88,077.

Chop One Inch Off Miss Brill's Jump

MODESTO (AP)—Meet Director Tom Moore said Monday that Debbie Brill's winning high jump at the California Relays Saturday was incorrectly listed by meet statisticians as one inch higher than it really was.

Miss Brill, 17, of Vancouver, B. C., jumped 6 feet, ¼ inch to beat the American women's record of 5-11 set in 1967 by Eleanor Montgomery of Tennessee State.

LEE SQUARES RECORD AT 2-2 IN 5-3 VICTORY

Terra Linda High School alumnus Bill Lee squared his American League won-lost record at 2-2 yesterday when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators in Boston.

Two home runs by Tony Conigliaro and one by Carl Yastrzemski backed the left-handed Lee who went six innings on the mound, giving up 10 hits and 3 runs while walking 3 and striking out 2. He was relieved in the seventh inning by Lee Stange who was credited with a save.

Willie Horton hit a three-run homer for the Tigers, but they needed Bill Freehan's leadoff round-tripper in the last of the ninth to edge the Yankees. Bobby Murcer homered for the Yanks, who tied the score in the top of the ninth on Horace Clarke's sacrifice fly.

FIVE-HITTER

Dave Morehead hurled his first complete game since 1968 — a five-hitter — as Kansas City drubbed the White Sox, who suffered their fifth consecutive loss and ninth in 10 games. After the first three Chicago batters singled, Morehead retired 19 in a row.

Morehead also drove in the first KC run with a second-inning double and the Royals went ahead in the fifth on a double by Ellie Rodriguez and Pat Kelly's single. They added five more in the eighth.

Pitcher Jim McGlothlin singled in the eighth inning and scored the winning run on Bobby Tolan's sacrifice fly in Cincinnati's win over San Diego. McGlothlin bruised a knee sliding home and Wayne Granger worked the last two innings.

The Orioles scored three runs in each of the first two innings and rolled past the Indians on Dave McNally's six-hitter. Paul Blair started Baltimore off with a two-run double in the first. McNally, 8-2, lost his shutout in the ninth when Roy Foster hit a two-run homer.

Pacers Finally Get A Champagne Party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Indiana Pacers, newly crowned champions of the American Basketball Association, flew home today for a champagne party they've been planning for days.

The Pacers, solid pre-playoff favorites, were forced to go six games before they finally subdued the upstart, orphan Los Angeles Stars Monday night, 111-107. The champagne has been on ice in Indianapolis for almost a week.

"It just wasn't our night but it sure was a night for Roger Brown," said the Stars' coach, Bill Sharman.

He referred to Indiana's 6-5 forward, a two-year ABA man from Dayton, whose 45 points, which included an ABA playoff record seven three-point field goals, wrecked the Stars.

There were 8,233 fans in the Sports Arena. Ironically, it was the largest crowd the Stars, or their predecessors, the Anaheim Amigos, ever attracted in Southern California—and it came in the last game for the team in Los Angeles.

Stars' owner Bill Daniels of Denver has announced the team will leave, bound for either Salt Lake City or possibly back to Anaheim.

Marin Girl Wins Skating Honors

Gigi Gustafson of the Marin Figure Skating Club won first place in her division in the second part of the Interclub Novice meet last weekend in Burlingame.

In addition to the victory, in the Girls under 13 division, Miss Gustafson won a silver plaque for sportsmanship and athletic ability in competition over the entire field.

In Age 13 and over division, Marin Figure Skating Club members Pam Gustafson, Lisa Maxson and Molly Zaidlin won second places.

A's To Begin Series With The Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — Oakland Athletics open a three-game series with the California Angels tonight, with either southpaw Jim Roland or right-hander Rollie Fingers doing the pitching for the A's.

Roland will more than likely be the Oakland starter. The Angels, who have taken 20 of 29 decisions from right-handers this year, are only 7-5 against left-handers.

We found the perfect place to make whisky. In a little valley about a mile up in the Canadian Rockies. It has just about everything a distiller could hope for. Clear and pure glacial water. Cool, dry mountain air. And rich, hardy northern Canadian grain.

Conditions so good for making whisky that Windsor Canadian acquires a natural lightness and smoothness the like of which you've never tasted before.

And while Windsor Canadian is very expensive for us to make, it's very economical for you to buy. Because we ship it here in barrels and then bottle it. Compare Windsor with your "usual." There's an excellent chance you'll join the thousands of Americans who won't now settle for less, or pay more.

FISH AND GAME

One Star, Three Flops On Shad Fishing Trip

By AL GIDDINGS

I wish I had written this column before I went on last Thursdays shad fishing trip. Four of us — Rick Testa, Dick Bissig and Marty Medin, all members of the Woodacre Fire Department, and I — went to the Yuba River, taking our fly rods for a fly fishing outing for shad.

We arrived at the river about 8 a.m. There was not a soul in sight. This worried us a little as we thought, "No fishermen, no fish," but we hurriedly rigged up, each of us picking out a likely looking riffle that flowed into the upper end of one of the deeper holes there.

Testa and Bissig wore waders, Marty fished in jeans with short knee-high boots, and I fished in tennis shoes and jeans. Marty, the most experienced shad fisherman of our group, seemed to be the most comfortable. He had the most maneuverability; sand didn't get into his shoes and socks because of his boots, and with the water fairly warm and the weather very hot, getting wet was preferable to wearing the cumbersome waders.

After fishing about five minutes, Marty gave his "big-fish-on" yell! This pepped us up, but the trouble was he was the only one who stayed pepped-up. He landed 22 shad and lost 10! Bissig got one, I got one and Testa got two. It was frustratingly disgusting. That yell all day long! It got so bad that he started giving us his rod with a fish on. We hated him. But that's how it was.

After a while we compared notes, coming to the conclusion that we weren't getting deep enough. Our flies were too far above the fish most of the time. Why? Marty used a heavy duty Fewick nine foot steelhead rod which was able to handle a Cortland 330 Grain Hi Density shooting head. This is a fast sinking line that will take your fly to the bottom where the fish are.

For gosh sakes, don't go without the proper equipment. It's maddening. The rod-reel, a nine foot tapered leader (six or eight pound test), and the shad flies are all conventional gear which you probably have. Get the line, though, or you'll feel like jumping in the river.

The shad? We watched Marty filet them as we drank cold beer. What do you expect? We think he is having them smoked. Eat them? Not Testa, Bissig or me. They'd make us sick.

WE HAVE had some fish die off this past week in the lagoons at Bahia near Novato and at Bel Marin Keys near Ignacio. At Bahia an estimated 50 - 75 striped bass died, generally 6 to 12 inches in length, and at Bel Marin Keys a count of approximately 20 was taken.

In both cases the cause of death was attributed to algae and the warm water conditions of the lagoons following last week's hot spell. Hot days, low waters, algae growth and water that tends to heat up because of lack of circulation will cause this type of fish to die off.

IN REGARD to pollutions and pollution prosecutions, some people feel that if the pollution is caused by an accident, then the pollutor should not be prosecuted. All pollutions are generally accidents! That's the reason for the law under section 5650 of the Fish and Game Code that reads: "It is illegal to place where it can pass into the waters of this state any material deletrious to fish life."

The legislature, in setting up this law, certainly meant for industry to prepare for accidents so that when one occurs, the pollutant will not be in a position where it can reach the water.

If industry places or uses a substance where it can reach state waters, then it is subject to prosecution for pollution accidents. If this were not so oil spills, rains washing pollutants into streams (always acts of God, according to the polluters), insecticide pollutions and most other pollutions would be free from prosecution. It just couldn't be this way! Industry has the responsibility to prepare for accidents and to keep pollutants out of the water.

Mrs. O'Neil To Lead Women Bowlers

A bowling enthusiast for 26 years, Rose Marie O'Neil will be the No. 1 gal in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association come Aug. 1.

Mrs. O'Neil was elected president of the organization and will assume the office for the bowling year Aug. 1 through July 31. She is the wife of Corte Madera real estate man, and former mayor Don O'Neil, and since 1966 has been selling real estate in that office.

She is a life member of the Woman's International Bowling Congress and a member of the California Woman's 15-Year Bowling Club. She is also president and originator of the Marin County 600 Club, for women who roll series of 600 or better in league play.

RoseMarie is currently bowling a 170 average, up seven pins from the previous season, although she only bowled in one league this year. In past years she had bowled ain as many as three and four leagues.

Born in San Diego, Mrs. O'Neil spent a good many years in the Southern California area before moving to the Bay Area 15 years ago. She and Don have one daughter, now married and living in Anaheim, and three grandchildren.

Mrs. O'Neil recently returned from Tulsa, Okla,, where she led a six-woman delegation to the WIBC tournament and convention where Novato's Mrs. Winifred Berger was unseated by just nine votes as a director of the international association.

MRS. DON O'NEIL
Bowling leader

"I was quite surprised she was not reelected," said Mrs. O'Neil about the upset in which Mrs. Bille Oeschner of Chenalis, Wash., won 1,079 to 1,070. Mrs. Berger had held the post for 24 years.

Mrs. O'Neil, bowling in Marin County for the past 10 years, has a high series score of 668 bowled in 1963-64 season at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael, and a high game of 280 bowled some years back in Southern California.

QUEENS CHAMP

In 1967 RoseMarie won the Marin County Queens Bowling Tournament and was a member of the winning team a few years back in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association "City" tourney.

Before selling real estate, Mrs. O'Neil had been a bowling instructor in Southern California, San Francisco and then Marin County. She has been a director of the Marin bowling group for nine years, aften serving as a delegate to state and national conventions.

Other newly-elected members of the board are Lil Scotto, second price president; Marge Kenyon, treasurer, and directors Ann Arnott, Leemoi Bekey, Ida Briggs, Valerie Heffelfinger, Kathy Mauzy, Sharon Sofina, Barbara Swisher, Jean Twillman and Gayle Chu.

U.S. Tennis Tourney Set For Mill Valley

National Men's age 35 and over tennis championships will be held June 17-21 at the Mill Valley Tennis Club, it was announced yesterday by the sanctioning United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Chairman is Richard Dresel. Defending champions are Jacques Grigry of Santa Cruz in singles and the doubles team of Ed Kauder and Jerry DeWitts, both of Los Angeles.

SEVENTH, EIGHTH GRADES

Three Triple Winners In Track, Field Meet

Mike McLean of Davidsoni School in San Rafael and Ed Teixeira of Santa Veneita each won three events and broke two records and Mark Kilmer of Del Mar School in Tiburon was another triple winner in Saturday's Marin Country Track and Field Championships for seventh and eighth grade students.

Approximately 250 boys and girls representing 16 schools participated in the annual meet held at the Redwood High School athletic field in Larkspur.

McLean competed in Class A, Teixeira in Class C and Kilmer in Class D.

One of McLean's records was a 19 foot, 2 inch long jump, breaking the record of 18-9 set in 1962 by Dean Lazzarini of Brookside School, San Anselmo. Lazzarini, who later became a high school track and football star, still holds meet records in the 50 and 100 sprints.

McLean also won the 50 yard dash in 5.9 seconds, the 100 in 11.1 and anchored the record-breaking Davidson relay team.

Only other Class A record to fall was 3 minute, 37.5 second clocking in the 1320-yard-run by Dick Hk, also of the outstanding Da[illegible]n team.

Teixeira, meanwhile, dominated Class C by long jumping 17-18½ and winning the 50 and 100 dashes in 6.3 and 11.4 seconds. The jump and 100 were meet records.

Outstanding girl in the meet was Betsy Newbold of the White Hill School (Fairfax) seventh grade team who won two firsts.

Class A — 660-yard run, Bob Bauer, Davidson, 1:35.3; Shot, Jeff Vogel, Kent, 40-4; High Jump, Ed Charbonneau, Kent, 5-1.

Class B — 50, Charles Dickens, Martin Luther King Jr. School, 6.4; 100, Al Long, Neil Cummins School, 11.8; 660, Brendan Gilbride, Santa Venetia, 1:41.0; 1320, Gary Pearce, Davidson, 3:43.4 (New record); Shot, Rob Long, Neil Cummins, 18-0 (new record).

Class C — 660 Dave Belrose, Davidson, 1:37.4 (New record); 1320, Kevin Daly, Del Mar, 3:54.9; Shot, Henry Kremer, White Hill, 34-7; High Jump, Mark Bramman, Del Mar, 4-10.

Class D — 50, Mark Kilmer, Del Mar, 6.9; 100, Mark Kilmer, Del Mar, 12.8; 660, Tom Bertotti, Red Hill, 1:46.0; 1320, Jeff Roth, Del Mar, 3:53.5 (New record); Shot, Terry Johnson, Davidson, 26-1; High Jump, Mark Kilmer, Del Mar, 4-10; Long Jump, Lars Moller, Kent, 14-3½.

Seventh Grade Girls — 50, Betsy Newbold, White Hill, 7.0; 100, Betsy Newbold, W.H., 12.9; 600, Heidi BiGall, Neil Cummins, 1:41.4; Shot, Sharon Finn, Davidson, 26-10; Long Jump; Vicki Horne, Neil Cummons, 14-8.

Eighth Grade Girls — 50, Carola Ferguson, Miller Creek, 6.9; 100, Lucy McCoy, Kent, 12.8; 600, Jeri Loberg, Miller Creek, 1:42.6; Shot, Mary Urquhart, Davidson, 28-4; Long Jump, Karen Hooper, Hall, 14-10½.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, May 26th, the 146th day of 1970 with 219 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1969 three Apollo 10 astronauts splashed down safely in the Pacific. NASA okayed plans for a summer landing on the moon.

A thought for the day: Britain's satirist Jonathon Swift said, "Laws are like cobwebs, which catch small flies, but let wasps and hornets break through."

Council Will Hunt For New Engineer

The Ross Town Council will consider the appointment of a town engineer to succeed Philip B. Lngren, who died May 15, at its next regular meeting June 11 at 8 p.m. in the City Hall.

Civil engineers interested in applying for the position should forward written applications to Town Clerk Virginia Stott before June 4, Mayor Frederick S. Allen announced. Applicants should include an outline of qualifications and a fee schedule, Allen said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Generation Gap And Dissent Enter Card Player's Life

A few months ago I started to wear my hair a bit longer and my neckties a bit wider to show a certain amount of sympathy with the younger generation.

If you don't agree with your tree. If you're right, he'll find a partner, tell him to go climb a tree; and if you'r wrong, he'll find a new partner.

Opening lead — ◇ K

TRIES CLUBS

West, noting that his partner didn't want a diamond continuation, switched to a club in the vague hope that his partner might be able to ruff a club.

Declarer won in dummy with the queen of clubs and went after the trumps by taking the ace and then leading the queen to drive out the king.

South easily regained the lead, drew the last trump and knocked out the ace of hearts. Then he claimed the rest, making game and rubber.

DISSENTING VIEW

West should have disagreed with his partner's deuce of diamonds. It was reasonable for East to play the deuce, but East didn't know as much as West about the best defense of this particular hand.

South would lead a club to dummy to try a trump finesse, and West would win with the king. Now West would lead a heart to the ace, and East would have sense enough to lead a third diamond.

Sooner or later, West would get the setting trick with the ten of spades, and East would regain his normal complexion. only if he sees the importance of his ten of spades and realizes that he has the right to discbey West can defeat the contract his partner's instructions.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Does Duplan Stand A Chance Of Recovery?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. One of the star performers of 1968 was Duplan Corp. which rose from 11 to 65 only to fall ingloriously in 1969-70. Recently the stock has shown signs of revival. What is your opinion? Is this a sound growth investment? — G.C.

A. In 1968 when share price of Duplan moved in an almost vertical pattern, sales gained close to 60 per cent while earnings soared 300 per cent. For the first half of the current fiscal year to end Sept. 30, earnings are ahead 44 per cent on a 77 per cent gain in volume. While these are highly respectable results, neither the market atmosphere nor the restricted profit margins are conducive to the sharp price movement seen in 1968.

Negative factors which recently exerted pressure on the shares included registration of 300,000 shares for secondary distribution — later withdrawn — and the probable default by a former subsidiary on a $1.3 million loan.

Duplan, as a result of a vigorous acquisition program, derives only about half of its sales from textured yarns. Other activities include manufacture of underwear, sportswear, buttons and knitted textiles, dyeing, bonding and finishing of fabrics. Duplan is heavily involved in many aspects of the knitted textile industry, an area that is expected to grow impressively. purchased on weakness, commitments could provide rewarding.

Q. Three months ago I began withdrawing $400 monthly from my 8,750 shares of Investors Variable Payment Fund to help finance a European trip. I am fortunate at 74 to have sufficient income for all ordinary expenses. Should I stop these withdrawals in view of the market decline? — H.W.

A. If you have a sufficient amount to cover the expense of your planned vacation it would be wise to protect your capital by reducing or discontinuing withdrawals.

Market In Slump Near Final Bell

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved sharply downward this afternoon after a small technical rally in mid-session crumbled. Trading was heavy.

At 2 p.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 6.71 to 634.65. Earlier it had been up more than three.

The report that the government's index of leading economic indicators fell 0.1 per cent last month and that a downard revision was made in the March figure may have contributed to market gloom, analysts said.

Generally, concern over rising prices, unemployment and interest rates and falling corporate profits were cited by brokers as market depressans. The situation in Southeast Asia and the Middle East also added to investor pessimism, analysts said.

Prices on the Big Board included Occidental Petroleum, up ½ to 14; Dart Industries 1⅞ to 30⅛; Bristol Meyers, off 1¼ to 48¾; and IBM, up ½ to 241½. Earlier IBM nad been up over 9.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were lower after a firming trend lost momentum. The Amex price change index was off 0.15 to 19.42, and declines led advances by about a 5 to 2 margin.

Hawaiian Firm May Take Over Bay Area Firm

HONOLULU (BW) — Dillingham Corp. of Honolulu and Systech Financial Corp., Walnut Creek, Calif., have agreed in principle to the acquisition by Dillingham of all of the assets and business interests of Systech in exchange for shares of Dillingham common stock.

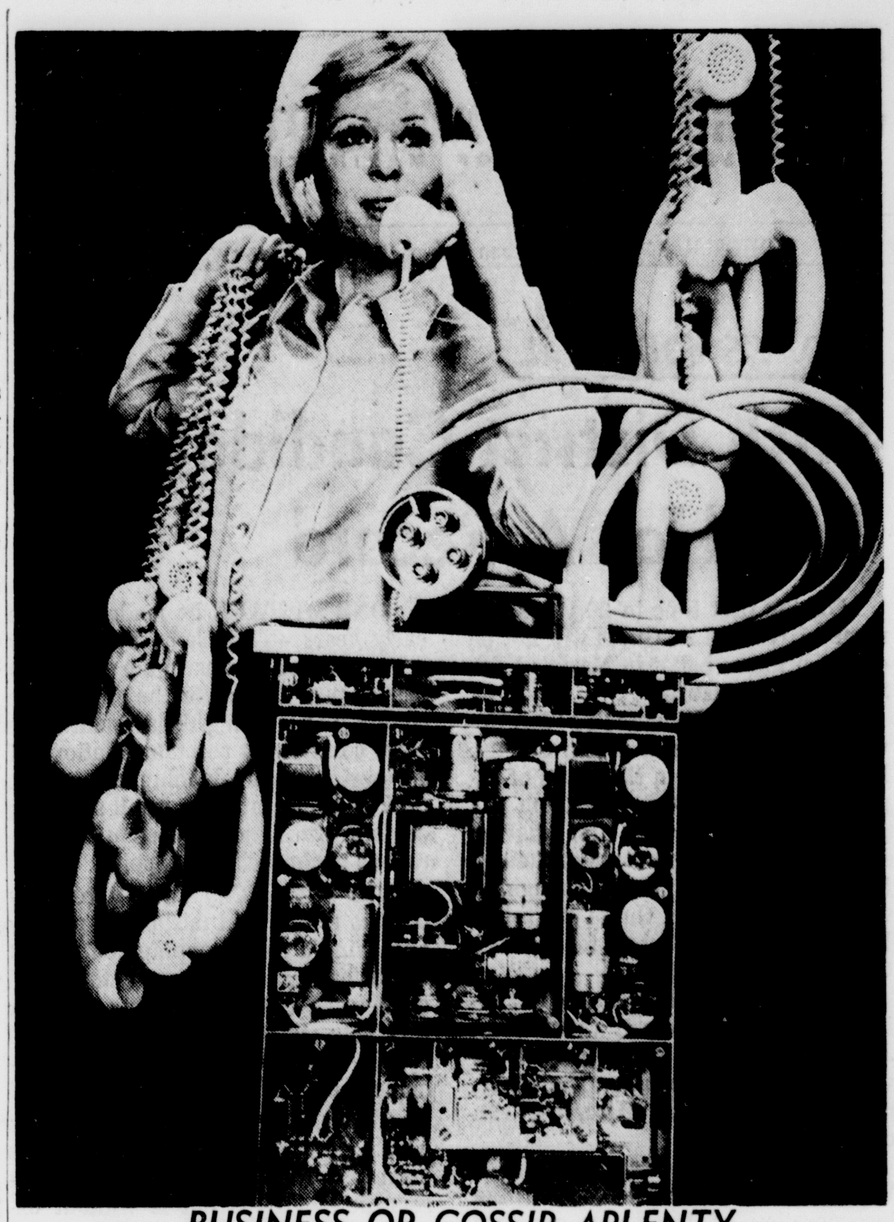

Systech develops, constructs and manages garden apartments in California, and is a leading firm in syndicating partnership interests in apartment buildings.

According to Dillingham, no changes in Systech management are anticipated.

Dillingham Corp. (NYSE) is a diversified firm engaged in land development, construction, marine transportation, quarrying, mining, L P gas distribution and environmental management. Revenues in 1969 were $514 milliom.

Systech has operations in Alameda, Contra Costa, Sacramento, San Joaquin, San Mateo, Santa Clara and Sonoma counties.

BUSINESS OR GOSSIP APLENTY

This West German-developed amplifier makes possible the simultaneous transmission of 10,800 telephone conversations over a single line, more than four times the previous maximum capacity of any amplifier. It was shown in the Hanover Spring Fair recently, as an idea for catching up with the world's 240 million telephones, proliferating at the rate of 7 per cent annually.

Fifth District Candidates: One Has A Record

For the first time in 20 years, the name of William A. Gnoss will not be on the primary ballot in Marin's Fifth Supervisorial District.

Bill Gnoss had come to be "Mr. Novato" to the people of Marin County. In his long service on the board of supervisors, he never varied from the principle of considering first what he felt was best for the people of the district he represented. If he thought it was good for Novato, Gnoss was for it. If he thought it was bad for Novato, Gnoss was against it.

TWO CANDIDATES are contending for the seat he will vacate next January. One has a public record the voter can easily examine. The other, not having held public office, must run on promises.

The man with the record is Wayne Womack, who was instrumental in the incorporation of Novato and has served on its city council for all but two years of the city's existence. (The two-year interim, incidentally, was because he ran against Gnoss for supervisor instead of seeking re-election to the council.)

Every newly incorporated city has its troubles. Novato was no exception. But it achieved the transitiion from just a part of the county to a self-governing city with its own city hall, police, public works and planning departments with less strain than do most new municipalities. Principal credit for that must go to the city councilmen of its early years. Among them was Wayne Womack.

His voting record shows that Womack consistently was for those things that built the city and preserved it from deterioration that was threatened because of the highway bisecting it and because of some pretty haphazard controls in its pre-incorporation days.

ONE MISTAKE he made in those early years — which he now readily acknowledges — was to approve a master plan drawn for the city by the county planning department. This plan, contrary to recommendations of a Novato citizen planning committee, provided for scattered, small shopping centers with none large enough to become a commercial focal point.

The Novato City Council recently tried to rectify that mistake in part by approving a new shopping center that would, in effect, tie two of the small centers together into one big one. For that vote, Womack has been accused by his opponent of approving "development for the sake of development."

THE OPPONENT who made this charge is Arnold Baptiste, who has been active in home-owner and "conservation" groups but is without experience in government.

His campaign has been based almost entirely on the contention that Womack is "pro-developer" whereas he, Baptiste, is for the home owner and for saving the environment.

This provides easy slogans. It gives the candidate what might be called the 1970 equivalent of running "for God and motherhood." But — like the campaign of Paul C. Zucker in the First District, which it very closely resembles — it is based on a phony issue.

WOMACK HAS the experience. His dedication to Novato is beyond question. He has proved as mayor and city councilman that he can get things done — and without profligate spending of the taxpayers' money.

The voters of the Fifth Supervisorial District are mostly pretty smart people — smart enough, we believe, to elect the man with the record rather than the man with promises based on a phony issue.

"Don't con me! ALL you kids smoke Pot, take dope, riot, practice free love and . . . you won't even LISTEN to my generation!"

Love Of Politics And Fellow Man Marked Life Of 'Goodie' Knight

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO, (CNS) — California has lost another of its outstanding citizens with the death of Goodwin Jesse Knight, former governor, lieutenant governor and superior court judge.

It was more than 60 years ago that Governor Knight started his amazing political career in California, amazing in that he started at the bottom and reached the top spot through his ability.

In 1910; "Goodie" as he was destined to be called throughout his career, was a boy of 14 years. Politics intrigued him, so he started out distributing hand bills for Hiram Johnson in the latter's campaign for governor in 1910.

HE STUCK with Johnson, whom he admired, through 1920, when Hiram established a presidential headquarters in New York, and through 1924 in Los Angeles, a year that Johnson again was a candidate for president. Both the Johnson campaigns petered out, but this failed to dim the political enthusiasm of Knight, who rose to the position of keynote speaker for the Republicans in 1934.

During the same year, he was active in the campaign of former Gov. Frank F. Merriam, who appointed him to the superior court bench in the following year.

But Judge Knight sought more from life than the humdrum decisions of a superior court, so in 1946 he won the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, and won that office with the largest vote for any statewide candidate for constitutional office save Gov. Earl Warren, who was unopposed.

IT WAS ON Oct. 5, 1953, that Goodwin J. Knight became governor of California, succeeding Warren who flew to Washington to become the chief justice of the United States Supreme Court. The following year, he was elected to the office with a majority of more than half a million votes.

He was precluded from running for another term by the entry of Sen. William F. Knowland in the governorship race. Instead, Knight ran for Knowland's office. Neither won, losing out to the Democrats.

IF GOVERNOR Knight is to be remembered for anything, it will be not so much for his political career, but for the warmth and friendliness he showed to friends and acquaintances alike.

Many politicians try to get this attitude over, but with Governor Knight, it was just natural. He was filled with exuberance for life, and his friends reacted to his enthusiasms without restraint. This attitude served him well as a master politician, and those who knew him realized no part of it was artificial.

Perhaps much of his attitude was gained during his youth, when he experienced some of the rougher knocks of life when he worked as a hard-rock miner in the lead and zinc mines of southern Nevada. Aftlr a distinguished career at Stanford University , he obtained his law degree, and started practicing.

"Goodie" never lost his sense of humor, no matter what the situation, and the governor's office was made a lot brighter during his years of occupancy because of it.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Policeman Shows His Compassion

I was driving up Fourth Street Saturday morning. When I was in front of the old county court house, a young boy fell off his bicycle in front of my car. He was holding his arm and a considerable amount of blood running down it. By the time I had quickly parked my car and got back, a young San Rafael policeman had arrived on the scene.

The young boy had been taken across the street and first aid was being given. The young policeman and myself ended up trying to stop the flow of blood from the arm gash. It appears that a boy in the old courthouse area had thrown a broken bottle at the injured youth. This was a shocking act, but is not the point of my letter.

The flow of blood from the arm gash was slowly being stopped by the use of a pressure bandage. Holding this pressure bandange was the young San Rafael policeman. It seemed like we were there for a long time before the ambulance arrived. I looked often at this policeman holding the young boy's blood in, and I saw a concerned, compassionate, human being. This was not the "pig" of recent headlines, but someone who seemed to really care for another human being.

I don't know what has happened at other times and places. The violence and the hate I know are wrong, but always — the continual demand made on us is to determine who is right or wrong.

I do know what was right on Saturday — I was there — I saw it! I saw a compassionate human being, who happened to be a police, help another person. No big deal, but I thank God for myself and my children that he was there and I feel that there must be more like him in all walks of life. I don't know the answer to our problems of today, but I do feel that one human being — helping, relating, accepting, another human being has got to help.

Candidate Aware Of Sign Law?

There may be a legitimate need for political signs, but it is difficult for me to find any justification in candidate and attorney Shone's two large signs in Stinson Beach. Can it be that he is unaware of the sign law, Marin County Code, Sec. 22.69.20 (B) (4) which limits political signs to 12 square feet?

Reader Attests Behr's Loyalty

Mr. Peter Behr, candidate for state Senate, is and always has been a Republican. He campaigned hard for Senator Kuchel in both of his 1962 and 1968 campaigns. He could do no more, for during that time he was also capably serving Marin in the bi-partisan office of county supervisor. Mr. David Winslow was very critical of this in a recent letter to this column. What Mr. Winslow failed to mention, however, is his own position now as campaign chairman for one of Mr. Behr's opponents.

Doctor Differs With Editorial

In your editorial of May 4, entitled "Killing of the Unborn in Name of Welfare" there is an untrue statement, and a general attitude with which I would like to take issue.

You quote a columnist from another paper as saying that an unwed mother can get on Aid to Families with Dependent Chirdren regardless of her family's financial well-being or lack of it. This is not true, at least in Marin County. An official memo of the Department of Public Social Services dealing with this matter states: "Deprivation must exist, the absent father must be located and his contribution for support sought, (and) the parent of an unmarried minor pregnant girl (or one with a child) is expected to support if he has the means".

As to why abortion should be covered: If, as is the case, AFDC can be initiated when pregnancy is confirmed, the presumption of the Department of Social Services must be that the pregnancy will go to term, and that there will then be an actual rather than a potential child. However there is an option available to pregnant women in the form of the Therapeutic Abortion Act of 1967, which allows termination of pregnancy under certain circumstances. I am sure no judge would ever interpret this law as being unapplicable to a woman, solely because she has the misfortune to have to be on welfare. . .

Finally, as to abortions being monstrous and immoral-this is a matter of personal and religious belief, which I don't think belongs in an editorial. . .

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

May 26, 1960

Golden Gate Bridge District directors proposed investigation of ways to finance another "bridge or crossing" from San Francisco to Marin.

20 YEARS AGO

May 26, 1950

The state Division of Bay Toll Crossings announced that engineering studies for the proposed Contra Costa-Marin bridge would get under way.

The Marin County agricultural commissioner reported that a sudden infestation of oat thrip, a tiny pest, threatened Marin's $252,000 oat crop.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A kingpin in the cosmetics industry tried in vain to get his wife on the phone the other evening. For a solid hour the busy signal kept buzzing. Finally, he appealed to the head of his local exchange to cut in for him. "We can do this only if there's a dire emergency," he was told, "if it's a matter of life or death." "That's what it's going to be, all right," promised the cosmetician grimly, "if I find out it's been my teen-age daughter on the phone all this time."

Two playwrights who professed to love and admire each other but were, in reality consumed with mutual jealousy, met in the lobby of a theater where one of them had a play running. "Too bad you couldn't come up with anything this year," boomed the latter, "but what has brought you to this little smash hit of mine?" The other gazed with obvious satisfaction at the sparse assemblage in the lobby and explained, "I have a [illegible] cold, and my doctor advised me to avoid crowds."

THE DRUMMONDS

'Helpless' Protesters Have Won, Changing White House Policy

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The youthful, antiwar protesters are wrong — they wrongly think they're losing. They just don't know their own strength.

They continue to talk about their "helplessness and hopelessness"; they still insist nobody listens.

THE ARGUMENT is all over: They have made their view the national view. They have already won, and we say they are wrong because they fail to realize how much they have accomplished.

Never have so few changed the thinking of so many so rapidly.

Another antiwar protester writes in honest despair and pleads for reassurance: "If you can offer me any reason not to give up this government for lost, I implore you to tell me what it is."

We will do so.

In answer to this earnest and yearning query, we offer not just an opinion about recent events, but the evidence on which opinion can rest. Here's the proof of how powerful the antiwar protests have been and how signal their victory:

ACHIEVEMENT 1 — In 1968 the anti-Establishment, antiwar protesters forced President Johnson out of the White House.

ACHIEVEMENT 2 — In 1968 they greatly influenced President Johnson to end the bombing of all North Vietnam in an effort to begin peace talks.

ACHIEVEMENT 3 — In 1969 the antiwar protesters won from President Nixon all they lost to the Democrats in 1968 on the issue of getting out of Vietnam. The Chicago convention rejected the McCarthy-McGovern plank even though the minority plank opposed unilateral U. S. withdrawal. But in 1969-70 President Nixon has been carrying out all of the withdrawal proposals contained in the McCarthy-McGovern minority plank — and more. Mr. Nixon has even been doing what the Democratic minority plank opposed: He has been implementing a steady unilateral removal of U. S. forces even though the North Vietnamese refuse to reciprocate.

ACHIEVEMENT 4 — Mr. Nixon is carrying out a more rapid withdrawal than he wanted. The pace is being largely dictated by the antiwar protesters. We do not know a knowledgeable official or Washington correspondent who does not agree that the process is irreversible and that if there is any change in pace it will be faster, not slower.

ACHIEVEMENT 5 — While the protestors could not prevent the Cambodia action, their influence limited it in space (21 miles) and in time (six weeks) and the opposition to it was so great that its repetition is impossible.

ACHIEVEMENT 6 — The mounting withdrawal of public support from the Vietnamese war is beginning to turn Congress into an active ally of the protesters. Support is growing in Congress to legislate a timetable to end the war. Congress is responding to the same voter-opinion which President Nixon is heeding.

They have turned the government around nearly 180 degrees on crucial policy in two years.

We hope the President can hold the line against precipitant withdrawal, but it is clear that he is prepared to take substantial risks to speed ending the war in Vietnam to get peace in the United States.

NATO Allies Worry U.S. May Recall Troops

By K. C. THALER

LONDON (UPI)—The United States and its NATO allies are meeting later this month to take a critical look at the uncertain future of western defenses in Europe.

European members of the alliance are worried about the waning strength of the defense shield.

What worries them most is the threat of an American troop reduction, which would weaken NATO's posture and might encourage new Russian pressures.

The United States has let it be known it has no plans to withdraw troops this year. But European anxiety has not been removed by these denials. Persistent reports have claimed the United States may withdraw 25,000 troops later next year.

NATO planners insist this would leave a major gap in Allied defenses that would have to be filled. But no offers have come forth from any of the Europeans so far.

Defense planners argue that unless there are sufficient troops available undeer NATO's command in Europe, the alliance would have to lower the "threshold" at which the West would have to resort to nuclear tactical weapons in the event of Communist attack.

With this uneasy prospect before it, NATO is trying to look for openings for a possible improvement of East-West relations that could take the heat off the purely military aspects of the NATO versus the Communist Warsaw Pact alignment.

NATO allies meeting in Rome May 26-27 will therefore devote special attention to possible East-West tension easing strategy as well as to means and ways to shore up the thinning walls of their military defense shield.

Among other ideas they plan to propose to Russia that both alliances start by agreed balanced troop withdrawals on either side of the dividing East-West line in Europe.

The big question is whether Russia will respond.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

If the Vietnam war is to go on for another year, the sum spent on this war by all parties involved in it will be equivalent to the expenses of operation of the United Nations for another 365 years. — U. Thant.

We might as well become reconciled to the fact that in the end, it will be the Asians who control the destiny of what was formerly Indochina and not the United States. — John S. Knight.

This country should not imitate the priest-ridden and soldier-ridden so-called powers of Europe, and invest the money of the people in murder machinery, and train a large number of men how to do two things: run successfully, and destroy life and property with precision. — Elbert Hubbard.

Sonoma Supervisor Candidate Benefits From Student Strike

The action strike called by Sonoma State College students is having local effects in addition to its broader part in the national peace movement.

Some candidates for public office have profited from the strike as students devote their regular school hours to campaign work.

While most striking students say their first concern is to bring an end to the Southeast Asian War and to combat racism, some feel that efforts would have more effect if kept local.

SUPERVISORIAL candidate Richard R. Day of Rohnert Park seems to have benefited the most, with sign makers and a team of 12 students knocking on Petaluma doors in his behalf.

Day is popular with the students largely because of his strong conservation position. Many concerned students who attended hearings on the Russian River dredging plan at Jenner were impressed with Day as he spoke strongly against the plan.

The candidate probably gained many of his youthful supporters when he spoke in Earth Day activities on campus.

WHILE STUDENTS say they have met with moderate success while making the rounds, they appear to be disappointed that most residents give more comments and ask more questions about the college than about candidate Day.

The Day supporters feel that any dialogue with older citizens is useful, but wish they could finish their pitch on the candidate before discussing campus turmoil.

Some of the students have definitely been discouraged by their reception and fear they may be making more enemies for Day simply by their association with the campus. Even when they don't officially present themselves as students, the homeowner usually guesses their status and begins the game of 20 questions.

INDIFFERENCE on the part of the older citizens has appalled them the most. Many do not know that there is an election coming up June 2 and when discussion turns to the war, they admit they don't know much about it, but are quick to call all protestors pinko names, the student canvassers claim.

To young people, interested in bettering the world, apathy must be considered the ultimate sin.

PSST! That Supersonic Transport Is Really A Communist Plot

WASHINGTON — There are several groups lobbying against the building of the SST, otherwise known as the supersonic transport airplane. One of the most active groups is known as PSST! which stands for "please stop sonic booms."

I pointed out to Hadley V. Baxendale, the president of the organization, that the first letters of "please stop sonic booms" did not spell PSST!

He wrote it out on a slip of paper and then said, "By George, you're right."

"WILL YOU CHANGE the name of the organization?" I asked.

He showed me one, "Speed Kills."

"In opposing the SST, what tack are you going to take?" I asked.

"Our campaign will be based on the fact that the SST is really a Communist plot."

"How's that?" I asked.

"WE HAVE DATA, confirmed from CIA sources, that sonic booms from test flights of Russia's SST have caused total deafness in 70 per cent of all listeners of Radio Free Europe and the Voice of America. Of course the American SST sonic boom would be much greater than the Russian one, and we could have a nation of deaf people one year after our first plane was built."

"That would be terrible," I said. "We wouldn't be able to hear our leaders."

"One of the reasons American supporters often give for building the SST is that it would link East and West. We are pointing out to our congressmen that there is nothing the Communists would welcome more than an opportunity to fly their saboteurs from Washington to Moscow in under three hours."

BAXENDALE continued: "The entire SST program smacks of pinko socialism. According to the latest reports, nine-tenths of the cost of building the first SST will be borne by the government. This threatened takeover of the private SST program would destroy the initiative of General Electric and Boeing Aircraft directors. If the handout is granted, these men will be groveling for more financial support each year, just like so may of our shiftless welfare recipients."

Baxendale said that PSST! had a computer working on the economics of the plane. "Before one rivet has been welded, the program has been announced as costing $3 billion more than anticipated. We believe that President Nixon could make hay with these figures. He could say that if he canceled the SST program last year he would have saved the country only $1 billion. But by waiting 15 months he can now save us $4 billion."

"BUT," I PROTESTED, "despite the costs, the United States needs the SST for prestige reasons."

"We're aware of this and we're not hardheaded about it. If we have to have a supersonic plane for prestige reasons, then we suggest it be built by the same company that built the TFX. In that way, we'd have a very good chance that the SST would never fly."

"You're pretty persuasive in your arguments," I admitted. "Do you have any other thoughts on the subject?"

Baxendale said, "If God had intended us to fly faster than sound, he would have given each of us 67,000 pounds of thrust."

Marin Cars Win Trophies Aplenty

Attendance at the show was down from previous years, reported Merrill Convis, president of the sponsoring Sir Francis Drake High School Scholarship Foundation. Show profits will go to the foundation but the net may not be worked out for a week or 10 days, Convis said.

Bruce Petschke of San Anselmo was a double first place winner, taking trophies in stock motorcycle and Corvette categories. First, second and third place trophies were awarded in 23 categories, along with some special awards, Convis said. Other Marin trophy winners were:

Classis closed hot rod — Norman Stiegelmeyer, Mill Valley, first. Vintage — John Collette, San Rafael, first; Ted Distel, Novato, second; Robert Hadden, Fairfax, third; John La Boyteaux, San Anselmo, special award.

Stock motorcycles — Bruce Petschke, San Anselmo, first; Michael Geib, Mill Valley, third. Special interest — Frank Volta, San Rafael, first and second. Dragsters — HAT Enterprises, San Rafael, first; Bruschero and Trabo, San Rafael, second.

Gunmen Loot Comic's Home

BRENTWOOD (AP) — Three masked gunmen entered comedian Joe E. Brown's home early today, tied and gagged his wife and two male nurses and fled with an estimated $50,000 in jewels, furs and non-negotiable bonds, police said.

Brown, 77, an invalid, slept during the early morning incident, police said. He and his wife of 54 years, Kathryn, were not harmed.

Bomb Threat Policy On Dixie Agenda

A proposed policy for handling bomb threats will be discussed by Dixie School District trustees today when they meet indistrict offices at 35 Trellis Drive at 8 p.m.

Also on the agenda is discussion of renewing leases on two portable classrooms and possibly leasing one additional portable and a report on the impact on the district's budget by reassessment of property in the Dixie district.
